Course methodology

A learner-centred approach

Cambridge English Empower, with its unique mix of learning and assessment, places the learner at the centre of the learning process. This learner-centred approach also applies to the course methodology – the Student's Book and additional resources provide a range of classroom materials that motivate learners, address their language needs, and facilitate the development of their skills.

Supporting the teacher

Cambridge English Empower also supports the teacher through classroom methodology that is familiar and easy to use, and at the same time is flexible and creative. A number of key methodological principles underpin the course, enhancing the interface between learners and their learning, and between learners and teachers. Cambridge English Empower:

- 1 encourages learner engagement
- 2 delivers manageable learning
- 3 is rich in practice
- 4 provides a comprehensive approach to productive skills

Measurable progress

This leads to motivated learners, successful lessons, and measurable progress. This progress is then measured by a uniquely reliable assessment package, developed by test experts at Cambridge English Language Assessment.

Key methodological principles

1 Learner engagement

Getting Started

Each unit begins with a 'Getting Started' page, designed to engage learners from the very start of the unit – leading to greater motivation and more successful learning. It does this in three ways:

- Clear learning goals – 'can do' statements immediately focus learners on their objectives.
- Striking images that take an unusual perspective on the unit theme – this raises curiosity, prompts ideas and questions in the mind of the learner, and stimulates them to want to communicate.
- Short speaking activities that prompt a personal response – leading to longer-lasting learning and a sense of ownership from the start. These activities also offer a diagnostic opportunity to the teacher.

Remarkable texts and images

Throughout the course, learners encounter texts and images that inform, amuse, surprise, entertain, raise questions, arouse curiosity and empathy, provoke an emotional response, and prompt new insights and perspectives – this means that learners are consistently motivated to engage, read, listen, and communicate.

The texts have been carefully selected to appeal to a wide range of learners from a variety of cultural backgrounds. They have an international focus and flavour, and each text has a story to tell or a point of view to offer that will be of interest to learners. All texts are accompanied by receptive tasks that support the development of reading and listening skills.

Frequent opportunities for personal response

There are frequent opportunities to practise speaking throughout every lesson. These include personalisation tasks which make the target language in every unit meaningful to the individual learner. But not only that – there are also regular activities that encourage learners to respond personally to the content of texts and images. These personal response activities foster successful learning because they:

- make learning more memorable – so it lasts longer
- are inclusive – there is no 'correct' answer, so all learners can participate successfully
- promote spontaneous spoken interaction – this further enhances the learner's sense of freedom and ownership, enhances motivation, and makes learning more relevant and enjoyable

2 Manageable learning

A second core principle that informs Cambridge English Empower is recognition of the importance of manageable learning. This offers learners (and their teachers) reassurance that they will not be overwhelmed at any point in their learning journey, leading to more successful learning outcomes and sustained motivation. The Cambridge English Empower classroom material reflects the concept of manageable learning in three main ways:

- Syllabus planning and the selection of language
- Lesson flow
- Task design

Syllabus planning and the selection of language

A key element in making learning material manageable concerns the selection of target language. In Cambridge English Empower, two powerful Cambridge English resources – the Cambridge Corpus and English Profile – have been used to inform the development of the course syllabus and the writing of the material. These resources provide reliable information as to which language items learners are likely to be able to learn successfully at each level of the CEFR (Common European Framework of Reference). This means learners using Cambridge English Empower are presented with target language that they are able to incorporate and use at that point in their learning journey, and they won't encounter too much above-level language in reading and listening texts. It also means that learners are not overwhelmed with unrealistic amounts of language because the Cambridge Corpus and English Profile are also able to give an indication of what constitutes a manageable quantity of language at each level.

Lesson flow

Learning is also made more manageable through the careful staging and sequencing of activities. Every lesson starts with a clear 'Learn to ...' objective and ends with a substantial output task. Each lesson is comprised of several manageable sections, each with a clear focus on language and/or skills. Each section builds towards the next, and activities within sections do likewise. The final activity of each spread involves a productive learning outcome that brings together the language and the topic of the lesson, allowing learners to put what they have learnt into immediate use.

Task and activity design

Tasks and activities have been designed to give learners an appropriate balance between freedom and support. Grammar and vocabulary presentations take a straightforward approach to dealing with the meaning and form of new language, and practice is carefully staged, with additional support in the 'Grammar Focus' and 'Vocabulary Focus' sections at the back of the book. Reading and listening activities allow learners to process information in texts in a gradual, supportive way. Speaking and writing activities are made manageable by means of clear models, appropriate scaffolding, and a focus on relevant sub-skills associated with a specific spoken or written outcome.

As an overall principle, the methodology throughout Cambridge English Empower anticipates and mitigates potential problems that learners might encounter with language and tasks. While this clearly supports learners, it also supports teachers because there are likely to be fewer unexpected challenges during the course of a lesson – this also means that necessary preparation time is reduced to a minimum.

3 Rich in practice

It is essential that learners are offered frequent and manageable opportunities to practise the language they have been focusing on – they need to activate the language they have studied in a meaningful way in order to gain confidence in using it, and of course meaningful practice also makes new language more memorable.

Cambridge English Empower is rich in practice activities and provides learners and teachers with a wide variety of tasks that help learners to become confident users of new language.

Student's Book

Throughout each Cambridge English Empower Student's Book, learners are offered a wide variety of practice activities, appropriate to the stage of the lesson or unit:

- Ample opportunities are provided for controlled practice of target language.
- Many of the practice activities provide learners with an opportunity to personalise language.
- There are frequent opportunities for communicative spoken practice. Communicative practice activities are clearly contextualised and carefully staged and scaffolded, in line with the principle of manageable learning.
- Further spoken practice is provided in the final speaking activity in each of the A, B, and C lessons, providing the principal communicative learning outcome in each of these lessons.
- In the 'Grammar Focus' and 'Vocabulary Focus' pages at the back the Student's Book, there are more opportunities for practice of grammar and vocabulary, helping to consolidate learning.

- In the 'Review and Extension' page at the end of each unit, there are more opportunities for both written and spoken practice of target language.

Teacher's Book

- Many learners find practice activities that involve an element of fun to be particularly motivating. Many such activities – six per unit – are provided in the photocopiable activities in the Teacher's Book, providing fun, communicative practice of grammar, vocabulary and pronunciation.
- The main teacher's notes also provide ideas for extra activities at various stages of the lesson.

Other components

Through the Cambridge LMS, Cambridge English Empower provides an extensive range of practice activities that learners can use to review and consolidate their learning outside the classroom:

- The Online Practice component offers interactive language presentations followed by practice and extension activities. Learners are automatically directed to the appropriate point in this practice cycle, according to their score in the Unit Progress Test (at the end of Student's Book lesson C).
- The Workbook (Online or Print) provides practice of the target language after each A, B, and C lesson.

4 A comprehensive approach to productive skills

Most learners study English because they want to use the language in some way. This means that speaking and writing – the productive skills – are more often than not a priority for learners. Cambridge English Empower is systematic and comprehensive in its approach to developing both speaking and writing skills.

Speaking

The C lesson in each unit – 'Everyday English' – takes a comprehensive approach to speaking skills, and particularly in helping learners to become effective users of high-frequency functional/situational language. The target language is clearly contextualised by means of engaging video (also available as audio-only via the Class CDs), filmed in the real world in contexts that will be relevant and familiar to adult learners. These 'Everyday English' lessons focus on three key elements of spoken language:

- Useful language – focusing on the functional and situational language that is most relevant to learners' needs, and manageable within the target level
- Pronunciation – focusing on intelligibility and covering many aspects of phonology and the characteristics of natural speech, from individual sounds to extended utterances
- Conversation skills – speaking strategies and sub-skills, the 'polish' that helps learners to become more effective communicators

The final speaking task in each 'Everyday English' lesson provides learners with an opportunity to activate all three of these elements. This comprehensive approach ensures that speaking skills are actively developed, not just practised.

Writing

Across each level of Cambridge English Empower, learners receive guidance and practice in writing a wide range of text types. The D lesson in each unit – 'Skills for Writing' – builds to a learning outcome in which learners produce a written text that is relevant to their real-life needs, appropriate to the level, and related to the topic of the unit. However, these are not 'heads-down' writing lessons – instead, and in keeping with the overall course methodology, they are highly communicative mixed-skills lessons, with a special focus on writing. This means that writing is fully integrated with listening, reading and speaking – as it is in real life – and is not practised in isolation. Each 'Skills for Writing' lesson follows a tried and tested formula:

- 1 Learners engage with the topic through activities that focus on speaking and listening skills.
- 2 They read a text which also provides a model for the later writing output task.
- 3 They then do a series of activities which develop aspects of a specific writing sub-skill that has been encountered in the model text.
- 4 They then go on to write their own text, in collaboration with other learners.
- 5 Process writing skills are embedded in the instructions for writing activities and encourage learners to self-correct and seek peer feedback.

Also, while the A and B lessons provide the main input and practice of the core language syllabus, they also provide frequent opportunities for learners to develop their receptive and productive skills.

In line with other elements of Cambridge English Empower, the texts used for skills development engage learners and provide them with opportunities to personalise language. Likewise, the tasks are designed in such a way as to make the learning manageable.

The extension activities in the Online Practice component (via the Cambridge LMS) also offer further practice in reading and listening skills.

What is Learning Oriented Assessment (LOA)?

As a teacher, you'll naturally be interested in your learners' progress. Every time they step into your classroom, you'll note if a learner is struggling with a language concept, is unable to read at a natural rate, or can understand a new grammar point but still can't produce it in a practice activity. This is often an intuitive and spontaneous process. By the end of a course or a cycle of learning, you'll know far more about a learner's ability than an end-of-course test alone can show.

An LOA approach to teaching and learning brings together this ongoing informal evaluation with more formal or structured assessment such as end-of-unit or end-of-course tests. Ideally supported by a learner management system (LMS), LOA is an approach that allows you to pull together all this information and knowledge in order to understand learners' achievements and progress and to identify and address their needs in a targeted and informed way. A range of insights into learners and their progress feeds into total assessment of the learner. It also allows you to use all of this information not just to produce a report on a learner's level of competence but also to plan and inform future learning.

For more information about LOA, go to cambridgeenglish.org/loa

How does Cambridge English Empower support LOA?

Cambridge English Empower supports LOA both informally and formally, and both inside and outside the classroom:

1 Assessment that informs teaching and learning

- Reliable tests for both formative and summative assessment (Unit Progress Tests, Unit Speaking Tests, and skills-based Competency Tests)
- Targeted extra practice online via the Cambridge Learning Management System (CLMS) to address areas in which the tests show that learners need more support
- Opportunities to do the test again and improve performance
- Clear record of learner performance through the CLMS

2 LOA classroom support

- Clear learning objectives – and activities that clearly build towards those objectives
- Activities that offer opportunities for learner reflection and peer feedback
- A range of tips for teachers on how to incorporate LOA techniques, including informal assessment, into your lessons as part of normal classroom practice

1 Assessment that informs teaching and learning

Cambridge English Empower offers three types of tests written and developed by teams of Cambridge English exam writers. All tests in the course have been trialled on thousands of candidates to ensure that test items are appropriate to the level.

Cambridge English tests are underpinned by research and evaluation and by continuous monitoring and statistical analysis of performance of test questions.

Cambridge English Empower tests are designed around the following essential principles:

Validity – tests are authentic tests of real-life English and test the language covered in the coursebook

Reliability – tasks selected are consistent and fair

Impact – tests have a positive effect on teaching and learning in and outside the classroom

Practicality – tests are user-friendly and practical for teachers and students

Unit Progress Tests

The course provides an online Unit Progress Test at the end of every unit, testing the target grammar, vocabulary and functional language from the unit. The teacher and learner are provided with a score for each language area that has been tested, identifying the areas where the learner has either encountered difficulties and needs more support, or has mastered well. According to their score in each section of the test, the learner is directed either to extension activities or to a sequence of practice activities appropriate to their level, focusing on the language points where they need most support. This means that learners can focus their time and effort on activities that will really benefit them. They then have the opportunity to retake the Unit Progress Test – questions they got right first time will still be filled in, meaning that they can focus on those with which they had difficulty first-time round.

Unit Speaking Tests

Cambridge English Empower provides a comprehensive approach to speaking skills. For every unit, there is an online Unit Speaking Test which offers learners the opportunity to test and practise a range of aspects of pronunciation and fluency. These tests use innovative voice-recognition software and allow the learner to listen to model utterances, record themselves, and re-record if they wish before submitting.

Competency Tests

Cambridge English Empower offers mid-course and end-of-course Competency Tests. These skills-based tests cover Reading, Writing, Listening and Speaking, and are calibrated to the Common European Framework of Reference (CEFR). They provide teachers and learners with a reliable indication of level, as well as a record of their progress – a CEFR report is generated for each learner, showing their performance within the relevant CEFR level (both overall and for each of the skills).

The Cambridge Learning Management System (CLMS) provides teachers and learners with a clear and comprehensive record of each learner's progress during the course, including all test results and also their scores relating to the online practice activities that follow the tests – helping teachers and learners to recognise achievement and identify further learning needs. Within the CLMS, a number of different web tools, including message boards, forums and e-portfolios, provide opportunities for teachers and learners to communicate outside of class, and for learners to do additional practice. These tools can also be used by teachers to give more specific feedback based on the teacher's informal evaluation during lessons. The CLMS helps teachers to systematically collect and record evidence of learning and performance and in doing so demonstrates to teachers and learners how much progress has been made over time.

2 LOA classroom support

Clear objectives

An LOA approach encourages learners to reflect and self-assess. In order to do this, learning objectives must be clear. In Cambridge English Empower, each unit begins with a clear set of 'can do' objectives so that learners feel an immediate sense of purpose. Each lesson starts with a clear 'Learn to ...' goal, and the activities all contribute towards this goal, leading to a significant practical outcome at the end of the lesson. At the end of each unit, there is a 'Review your progress' feature that encourages learners to reflect on their success, relative to the 'can do' objectives at the start of the unit. Within the lessons, there are also opportunities for reflection, collaborative learning, and peer feedback.

LOA classroom tips for teachers

In a typical lesson you're likely to use some or perhaps all of the following teaching techniques:

- monitor learners during learner-centred stages of the lesson
- elicit information and language
- concept check new language
- drill new vocabulary or grammar
- encourage learners to review and reflect after they've worked on a task

The table below summarises core and LOA-specific aims for each of the above techniques. All these familiar teaching techniques are a natural fit for the kind of methodology that informally supports LOA. An LOA approach will emphasise those parts of your thinking that involve forming evaluations or judgments about learners' performance (and therefore what to do next to better assist the learner). The 'LOA teacher' is constantly thinking things like:

- Have they understood that word?
- How well are they pronouncing that phrase?
- Were they able to use that language in a freer activity?
- How many answers did they get right?
- How well did they understand that listening text?
- How many errors did I hear?
- And what does that mean for the next step in the learning process?

The Cambridge English Empower Teacher's Book provides tips on how to use a number of these techniques within each lesson. This will help teachers to consider their learners with more of an evaluative eye. Of course it also helps learners if teachers share their assessment with them and ensure they get plenty of feedback. It's important that teachers make sure feedback is well-balanced, so it helps learners to know what they are doing well in addition to what needs a little more work.

Manageable learning

The syllabus is informed by English Profile and the Cambridge English Corpus. Students will learn the most relevant and useful language, at the appropriate point in their learning journey. The target language is benchmarked to the CEFR.

Regular speaking activities

Frequent speaking stages to get students talking throughout the lesson.

Spoken outcome

Each A and B lesson ends with a practical spoken outcome so learners can use language immediately.

UNIT 7

3 READING

a Imagine you're going to stay for three nights in a city that you don't know. Discuss the questions.

- What are the advantages and disadvantages of staying in:
 - a hotel?
 - a rented apartment?
 - a spare room in a local person's house?
- Where would you prefer to stay? Why?

b Read the introduction of A more personal place to stay and choose the best summary.

- Airbnb is an advertising website for hotels.
- Airbnb is a website for travellers and people who have rooms to rent.
- Airbnb is a travel advice website that has reviews of hotels and restaurants.

c Would you like to stay in someone else's home? What would be good or bad about it?

d Read What the guests say .... Answer the questions. Write A (Antonia) or K (Kumi).

- Who could swim at the place they stayed?
- Who felt 'at home' in the neighbourhood?
- Who could easily get around the city?
- Who cooked their own food?
- Who is going to see their host(s) again?

e Which of the places would you rather stay in?

A MORE PERSONAL PLACE TO STAY

Do you find hotels too cold and unfriendly? Do you want to live like a local when you go on holiday? A new generation of websites, such as Airbnb, can help you find privately owned rooms, apartments and houses to rent.

'Hosts' create profiles of places to rent. 'Guests' can browse the profiles, read reviews written by guests and make reservations online. Prices range from about £25 to £100 per night, depending on the accommodation and the location.

But what's it like to stay at a stranger's house when you're on holiday? And if you're a host, what's it like to open your home to people you don't know? We spoke to some guests and hosts to find out.

WHAT THE GUESTS SAY ...

Antonia My friend and I stayed in this amazing modern villa in California for ten days. It had eight bedrooms, a pool and the biggest kitchen I've ever seen (in which Jeff, our host, cooked fantastic breakfasts for us!). Jeff was so nice. He gave us lots of information about the local area and invited us to join him for dinner. We ended up becoming good friends – he's going to come and stay in my house when he comes to Italy next year.

Kumi I've stayed in a house in London. I had the whole house to myself. The rent included everything I needed. The house was clean and we had good views. I used the kitchen and the host was quite helpful. I was staying with a family and it was very friendly. I felt like I was part of the family.

WHAT THE HOSTS SAY ...

Roberto I've been an Airbnb host for three years. In that time I've met some wonderful people – musicians, families, sportspeople, professors, hikers and students – who've needed accommodation for different reasons. They've come from different parts of the world and it's been a pleasure to get to know them. The only problem is that you have to do so much washing and cleaning!

Lisa Some people worry about theft, but I've had more than 100 guests and no one has ever stolen anything from me. Some guests are nicer than others, of course, but on the whole they've been charming and friendly. I usually ask people why they're travelling when they make a reservation. It's a good way to get to know a bit about them.

Clara My family has a holiday cottage in Scotland. We decided to rent it out when we're not using it. It was easy to set up the profile on the website. You have to trust people to treat your property as if it was their own home, but we only accept reservations from guests who have good reviews.

Learner engagement

Engaging images and texts motivate learners to respond personally. This makes learning more memorable and gives learners ownership of the language.

UNIT 7

a Look at the buildings below and discuss the questions.

- How old is the building?
- Where is it?
- What do you think it's like inside?
- Would you like to live there?

1 SPEAKING

- a Talk about a recent holiday.

 - 2 Did the people you were with want to do the same things as you or different things?
 - 3 Think of a holiday you would like to go on. What would you do on the holiday?

2 READING AND LISTENING

- 1 Where is Miami? Have you ever been there? Do you know anyone who's been there?
 - 2 What is it like, or what do you imagine it's like? Talk about:
 - the weather
 - the people
 - buildings
 - the atmosphere
 - things to see and do
- b Read about the top five things to do in and around Miami. Which would you like to do? Why? Are there any you would not want to do? Why not?
- c 2.55 Sue is talking to a colleague. Listen to their conversation and answer the questions.
- 1 How many people are in Sue's family?
 - 2 Where are they staying?
 - 3 Which of the 'top five things' are they going to do?
- d 2.55 Listen again and make notes in the table.

	Where does he/she want to go?	Why does he/she want to go there?
Sue's daughter
Sue's son
Sue's husband
Sue

- e Do you think Sue is looking forward to the holiday? Why / Why not?

Top five things to do ... in and around Miami, Florida

- 1 Admire the architecture of Miami Beach
Wander the streets of Miami Beach and admire the art deco hotels and houses from the 1930s. The movie stars from the 1930s stayed here when they came to Miami. Many of the buildings have been repainted in their original colours.

- 2 Go to the beach
Miami has endless sandy beaches along the coast. You can find crowds if you want them or you can have a beach to yourself. And the water is always warm.

- 3 Visit the Everglades
Ninety minutes from Miami are the Everglades, a huge area of natural swamp which is home to alligators, snakes and rare birds. Take a boat through the area and get a close-up view of the wildlife.

- 4 Spend a day at Disney World
Disney World is just a day's drive away from Miami – a great day trip. You can find all the characters from Disney films and have hours of fun with (or without) your kids.

- 5 Take a trip to Cape Canaveral
North of Miami is Cape Canaveral, where the USA sends its rockets into space. You can take a tour round the Kennedy Space Center and see where they built the Apollo space rockets.

Comprehensive approach to writing skills

Clear focus on key aspects of writing helps develop effective real-world writing skills.

3 READING

a Read the note below which Sue's cousin left in the apartment in Miami. Underline the correct words.

- The streets are safe in the daytime / all the time.
- The apartment is in the centre of / just outside Miami.
- The apartment is right next to / far from the sea.
- Jutka will be away for a week / more than a week.

b Which adjectives in the box best describe the tone of the note? What words or phrases in the note helped you decide?

friendly formal funny practical

c Match the purposes a–f with sections 1–6 in the note.

- to explain options for buying food
- to give information about going to places further away
- to finish the note
- to greet the reader and say what the note is about
- to give safety advice about the area round the apartment
- to give information about things in the apartment

d What general order are the paragraphs in? Choose the correct answer.

- things the reader needs to know now → things they need later
- things which are very important → things which are less important
- things which are less important → things which are more important

- Welcome to Miami! Hope you have a nice stay in the apartment. Here are a few things you need to know ...
- Please make yourselves at home and help yourselves to anything in the kitchen. There's some chicken in the fridge, and lots of fruit and salad, so that should be enough for a couple of meals. I also got a couple of pizzas for the kids – they're in the freezer.
- After that, you'll need to go shopping. The best place is the Sunshine Center. Go out of the main entrance of the apartment and turn left, and you'll see it about 100 metres down the road. It's got a couple of supermarkets, a good bookshop and a few good places to eat. Otherwise, there's a good place for burgers a bit further down the road. Apart from that, there are some good restaurants by the sea, but they're a bit further away.
- By the way, if you do go out in the evening, don't walk around late at night – the streets round here are not very safe at night, though they're OK during the daytime.
- Anyway, the car's in the parking lot, so you can use that for any trips. If you're going into Miami, another possibility is to take the train, but you'll find the car easier! You'll also need the car to go to the beach. The nearest one is Golden Beach, about 15 minutes' drive away. Another option is Ocean Beach, about 30 minutes further north, which is usually much less crowded. Alternatively, you could try Miami Beach nearer the centre, but it can be difficult to park.
- Enjoy your stay and see you in a fortnight!
Love,
Jutka

4 WRITING SKILLS Offering choices

a What do the words in bold mean below?

- The nearest one is Golden Beach, about 15 minutes' drive away. Another option is Ocean Beach, about 30 minutes further north.

b Read the note again and find three more words or phrases that you could use instead of Otherwise or Another option is ...

Another option is the Space Center at Cape Canaveral.

- Describing experiences in the present
- Using appropriate phrases for giving and responding to opinions
- Using me too / me neither
- Writing a guide

Monitor and help as necessary. You may wish to teach vocabulary items that students need to discuss the photo, e.g. express yourself (communicate your feelings and opinions clearly), gesture (move the body – especially the hands and the head – to communicate something) and facial expression (the movement of the face to communicate feelings).

CULTURE NOTE

The photo was taken at a school in Addis Ababa, Ethiopia.

- b  Students discuss the questions in pairs. Take feedback as a class and ask students whether they and their partner have similar or very different answers.

EXTRA ACTIVITY

In pairs or small groups, students talk about how much they talked at school when they were children, e.g. you could ask them how much they talked (or listened) to the teacher, and how much they were allowed to talk to their classmates.

Then, ask students to discuss how much they expect to talk in their English classes now. Do they expect to practise talking a lot with other students, or do they expect to talk mostly to the teacher? Take feedback as a class and collate ideas on the board.

GETTING STARTED

OPTIONAL LEAD-IN

Books closed. Put students into pairs or small groups. Ask them to tell each other about five different people they have talked to today and what they talked about. Give an example of your own, e.g. I phoned a friend and we talked about going out this evening. I talked to a man in the petrol station about the cost of petrol. Take feedback as a class. If appropriate, the class can vote on who the most talkative student in the class is.

- a  Ask students to look at the photo and the title of the unit, Talk. Give them one minute to think about their answers to questions 1–3. Divide the class into small groups and ask them to talk about the photo. You may wish to ask additional questions, e.g. How old do you think the boy is?

1A Keeping in touch

OPTIONAL LEAD-IN

Books closed. Write the word COMMUNICATION on the board in large letters. Then, to the left of it, write with words and to the right, without words.

Put students into small groups and give them two minutes to think of different ways of communicating that you could categorise as being with or without words.

You may wish to give some ideas to help them start (with: chat, shout, whisper; without: clap, wave, smile, point).

Take feedback as a class and collate their ideas on the board. Students then work in pairs to discuss when and why people use these different ways of communicating.

1 VOCABULARY Communication

- a In pairs, students look at the photos and discuss the questions. Check the answers to question 1 by using the photos to elicit as many of the communication phrases in the box as possible. Nominate a few students to tell the class how their partner answered questions 2 and 3.

Suggested answers

- keeping in touch
- giving a presentation, speaking in public and possibly telling a joke as well
- face to face, interviewing

- understand a talk about the problems that people from different generations have in communicating with each other

EXTRA ACTIVITY

Check understanding of the vocabulary by saying the following sentences and asking the class to say which verbs can describe. Use intonation and gestures to help students guess.

I'm really not happy about this. It isn't very good! (= complain)

Come on. Everyone says it's a great film. It'll be really good! (= persuade)

No I didn't! That's rubbish! You should get your facts straight! (= argue)

Ask: What is the article about? (the different communication styles of people from different generations).

Give students five minutes to read the article and answer the questions individually. Put students into small groups to discuss their answers. Take feedback as a class.

CAREFUL!

Students often make mistakes with tenses in questions, e.g. Are you liking it? (Correct form = Do you like it?), Do you have a good time? (Correct form = Are you having ...), Have I tell you? (Correct form = Have I told ...) and Did he passed? (Correct form = Did he pass ...).

Students are also likely to forget to use do in present simple questions with why, e.g. Why we need computers? (Correct form = Why do we need ...), and have problems using did + verb in past simple questions, e.g. How he knew my email address? (Correct form = How did he know ...).

Other typical errors include confusing how and what, e.g. How was the weather like? (Correct form = What was the weather like?) and forgetting to use a question mark.

- c  1.5-1.6 Students read the information in Grammar Focus 1A on SB p.132. Play the recording where indicated and ask students to listen and repeat. Students then complete the exercises. Check answers as a class, making sure students use the correct question forms. Tell students to go back to p.9.

- c
- 2 What damaged the roof? What did the fire damage?
 - 3 Who is afraid of spiders? What is Joanna afraid of?
 - 4 Who told them a joke about elephants? What did his brother tell them a joke about?

LO TIP ELICITING

Write the following sentences on the board, one by one, to elicit the correct question forms. Don't put all the questions on the board at once or students may look ahead to the next sentence rather than focus on what you're asking.

- 1 I gave David a book for his birthday.
- 2 My sister helped an old lady on the bus.
- 3 My dad lent me his car this morning.
- 4 The teacher gave Anna some extra homework.

Point to a different word in each sentence to elicit the correct question, e.g. I gave David a book for his birthday. (Point to 'I' to elicit the question: Who gave David a book for his birthday? Then point to 'book' to elicit: What did you give David for his birthday?)

You may wish to extend this by asking students to individually write similar sentences and then, in pairs, elicit the questions from their partners.

- d Individually, students write the questions. Ask different students to read out the completed questions.

Answers

- 1 Who phoned you yesterday?
- 2 Who did you email yesterday?
- 3 What do you and your friends talk about?
- 4 What makes you and your friends laugh?
- 5 Which of your friends do you see every day?
- 6 Which of your friends know(s) you best?

- e  Read the example with the class. Point out that asking follow-up questions is useful and helps people communicate better. Students do the activity in pairs. When everyone has finished, ask pairs of students across the classroom to ask each other some of the questions.

4 LISTENING

- a  Say the example opinion in the speech bubble. Ask: Do you agree? Have you noticed this happening? Elicit more problems and discuss them as a class.
- b  1.7 Play the recording for students to tick the things the speaker mentions.

Four generations – and they all prefer communicating in different ways. There are sure to be misunderstandings and other problems, right? Well, there don't have to be.

OK, so I'm a Millennial – I was born in 1990 – and so being able to connect with people is really important to me. I'm constantly trying to learn, grow and change. And, for me, fast on-screen communication is the best way to do this. I love the way that the Internet puts you in touch with all kinds of people you wouldn't meet in everyday life. Generation X, on the other hand, uses communication to build relationships and develop ideas. This sounds pretty good, but they express their feelings and opinions directly, and aren't afraid to say or write how they feel. My boss is Generation X, and she definitely has an opinion on everything!

And, of course, at home I spend time with Baby Boomers and Veterans. My dad is a typical Baby Boomer. They have a lot in common with Generation X – they can be quite direct about what they think. I don't always agree with his opinions, but I do appreciate his honesty – usually! And Baby Boomers definitely prefer face-to-face communication. My dad's really not very good with emails, social networking or anything like that.

My grandparents are in the generation called Veterans. For them, communication is something that keeps people together and traditions alive. Both Veterans and Baby Boomers take time to talk things over that matter to their job or family, but are not that interested in chatting about personal goals and development.

Understanding these different communication styles is really important for improving our relationships, both at work and at home.

So, for example, one really big difference between us Millennials and the other three generations is that we expect people to tell us – gently – how we're doing. So, I used to get a bit annoyed with my boss for not giving me enough feedback about how things are going at work. But then I realised that other generations don't necessarily notice this difference, so I learnt not to be upset if older people didn't praise me all the time, and I also learnt to ask for help if I needed it.

Similarly, some of us Millennials find it difficult when people criticise us or disagree with us. Generation X and Baby Boomers will tell you clearly if they don't like something. Don't take it personally – although that's often easier said than done!

On a practical level, it can help to use different communication styles with different generations. Pick up the phone, write emails, and make time for face-to-face conversation. When you do, pay attention to your writing style. You might think an informal style is friendly, but to an older person it can seem rude.

Finally, understand that communication differences across generations do exist. So talk about them – with people of all ages. This can open the door to other conversations. You can learn a lot by hearing older people's experiences, and in turn you might be able to teach them about life in the modern world.

- c  Play the recording again for students to listen and answer the questions. They compare answers in pairs. Check answers as a class.

Answers

- 1 Millennials.
- 2 Building relationships and developing ideas.
- 3 Veterans and Baby Boomers.
- 4 How they're doing.
- 5 Teaching them about life in the modern world.

- d  Give students time to read the list and think about their answers. Put them into small groups to talk about their ideas. Take feedback at the end of the activity by asking different students: Who in your group is good at talking to older people? Who in your group finds it difficult to listen when people criticise them?

5 SPEAKING

- a Give students time to tick the things they've done and make notes.
- b Put students into pairs. Tell them to swap books and look at the experiences their partner has ticked. Give them about five minutes to write questions about these experiences. Monitor and help as necessary, making sure the questions are correctly formed.
- c  Students work in pairs and discuss their experiences. As you monitor, note down examples of correct and incorrect use of question forms and communication vocabulary. You can use your notes for feedback at the end of the lesson or at the beginning of the next lesson. At the end of the activity, ask: Did you mostly agree or disagree with each other? Whose statements created the most discussion?

FAST FINISHERS

Ask fast finishers to imagine they have done one of the things they did not tick and to tell their partner about this experience. Ask for examples of these during feedback.

OPTIONAL LEAD-IN

Books closed. Put students into three groups: A, B and C. Write these three questions on the board, one for each group.

- A How did people learn a new language 75 years ago without modern technology?
- B What technology do people use to learn languages today?
- C What new technology do you think will help people learn languages in the future?

Make sure students can pronounce language /'læŋgwɪdʒ/ and languages /'læŋgwɪdʒɪz/ correctly.

Give students a few minutes to answer their question, then ask each group to share their ideas with the rest of the class. Encourage students to listen and add to each other's answers.

1 SPEAKING

- a  Tell students to look at the group of words on the right. Explain that they are all ways of saying 'hello' in different languages. Ask: Can you see your language here? Which languages do you recognise? (Students may recognise Guten Tag – German, Salut – French, Bonjour! – French, Hallo – Afrikaans/German, Ç'kemi – Albanian, Ahoj – Czech/Slovak, BiTao – Ukrainian, Góðan dag – Icelandic, Hoi – Frisian, Salud – Breton, Bon dia – Catalan).

In pairs, students discuss the questions. Find out which foreign languages are spoken, and how well.

- b Give students a few minutes to complete the sentence. Monitor, giving help where necessary.
- c  In small groups, students compare ideas. Ask: Were your ideas about language learning similar or very different? Encourage the groups to give reasons for their answer.
- d  Tell students that photos a–d show people using or learning a foreign language. Ask: What can you see in each photo? (a someone using a foreign language in a market abroad, b a grammar book, c a language-learning app, d a language classroom). In pairs, students discuss the questions. Check their pronunciation of advantage(s) /əd'vɑ:ntɪdʒ(ɪz)/ and disadvantage(s) /dɪsəd'vɑ:ntɪdʒ(ɪz)/. Nominate a few pairs to tell the class their answers.

2 READING

- a Books closed. Write the following question on the board: Can you really learn a language in 22 hours? Ask: What do you think? Is it possible? How? Tell students to look at the picture in the article on SB p.12. Ask: What can you see? What's the connection with language learning?

Give students two minutes to scan the article and answer the comprehension questions. Explain that they will read the article again more carefully later on. Students compare their answers in pairs. Check answers as a class.

Answers

- 1 A language-learning app.
- 2 Because he's trying to learn Lingala.
- 3 Hundreds of words.

At the end of this lesson, students will be able to:

- talk about learning a new language
- understand an article about a language-learning app
- use the present simple and present continuous correctly
- use a lexical set of gradable and extreme adjectives correctly
- talk about their experiences of learning English

CULTURE NOTES

Memrise.com is an online learning tool where people can learn many different languages. It combines scientific ideas about learning and memory with game-like elements.

Lingala is one of the main languages spoken in the Democratic Republic of Congo and the Republic of Congo. It has borrowed a lot of words from French, especially vocabulary connected with science and technology.

- b Give students a few minutes to read the article again and answer the multiple-choice questions. Students compare answers in pairs. Check answers as a class.

Answers

1 b 2 a 3 c 4 b

Refer back to the picture in the article. Were students' guesses about it correct? (It's a 'mem' – a picture to help someone who's learning Lingala to remember the word motele for 'engine' by associating an engine with the word motel.)

- c Individually, students match the words in bold in the article with their meanings. Encourage them to look at the context (the words around the vocabulary items in bold) to help them understand the meaning. They then compare answers in pairs. Check answers as a class.

Answers

1 making progress 2 translates 3 aim 4 memorised
5 challenge 6 fluent 7 remind 8 repeat

- d  Students discuss the question in small groups. Take feedback as a class.

EXTRA ACTIVITY

Summarise the advantages and disadvantages of the app.

- advantages: it's fun; it's motivating because you want to get to the next level; you only have to do a bit every day and you make progress
- disadvantages: it only teaches vocabulary; for some people, the process of using and/or creating mems would take too much time and be more confusing than just associating the word with its translation

Refer back to the title of the article. Ask: Has the writer learnt a language in 22 hours? (He has learnt a lot of vocabulary, but, as he says, 'I know this won't make me a fluent speaker.') Use this as an opportunity to discuss what learning a language really means: practising reading, writing, listening and speaking skills, functional language/everyday expressions, pronunciation and grammar, as well as vocabulary.

3 GRAMMAR

Present simple and continuous

- a In pairs, students match the three present simple sentences with their uses. Check each answer by reading out the uses and asking students to say the correct example sentences.

Answers

- b In pairs, students match the three present continuous sentences with their uses. Check each answer by reading out the uses and asking students to say the correct example sentences.

Answers

1 b 2 a 3 c

Ask: Does the article contain more verbs in the present simple or the present continuous? (the present simple). Then ask: Why? (Because the article is mainly about language-learning in general.)

EXTRA ACTIVITY

Ask students to find more examples of the present continuous in the Memrise article (I'm using, We're trying, etc.). Point out that the present continuous in Next month, I'm travelling to a remote area of Central Africa is used to talk about an arrangement in the future.

CAREFUL!

The most frequent error with the present simple is the omission of the third person -s ending, e.g. Amy know the answer (Correct form = Amy knows ...). Students sometimes also inflect the verb wrongly, e.g. I coming from France (Correct form = I come ...).

Mistakes with the present continuous include using the present simple, e.g. I wait for Rajan (Correct form = I'm waiting for ...) and omitting be, e.g. I going home (Correct form = I'm going home).

Spelling errors in present participles are also common, e.g. writting, studing, comming, seing, raining, shinning, enjoing (Correct forms = writing, studying, coming, seeing, raining, shining, enjoying).

- c Students read the information in Grammar Focus 1B on SB p.132. Play the recording where indicated and ask students to listen and repeat. Students then complete the exercises. Check answers as a class. Tell students to go back to SB p.13.

- d Do one or two examples with the class, then put students into pairs. If you think they need extra support, give students time to prepare the questions on paper before they start speaking. Take feedback as a class by asking seven pairs of students to ask each other questions across the classroom.

Answers

- 1 Do you think you communicate well in your own language?
- 2 How often do you hear foreign languages where you live?
- 3 Do you think (that) you have a good memory?
- 4 What helps you (to) learn English grammar?
- 5 What are you thinking about right now?
- 6 Are you preparing for an exam at the moment?
- 7 Are more people learning languages in your country than before?

- e Divide the class into pairs and assign A and B roles. Student As look at the picture on SB p.127 and Student Bs look at the picture on SB p.131. Tell them to describe their pictures and find eight differences. They should not look at each other's pictures. Monitor and listen to their conversations and note down examples of correct and incorrect use of the present simple and continuous. Check answers as a class. Tell them to go back to SB p.13.

FAST FINISHERS

Ask fast finishers to write six sentences about themselves using the present simple and continuous. Some sentences should be true, but at least two should be false. In groups, students take turns to read their sentences aloud, and the others try to guess which sentences are true.

Ask: Does the speaker's voice move up and down a little or a lot in these sentences? (a lot, because the speakers are expressing strong feelings).

Answers

1 exhausted 2 useless 3 fantastic 4 impossible

LANGUAGE NOTE

In English, we use intonation more when we want to express strong feelings and opinions. If we do not use intonation, but speak with a flat monotone, then it might sound like we have no feelings about what we are saying.

With something like I'm absolutely exhausted, we would use a wider pitch range and we would also place a strong stress on absolutely.

- c Students read the information about gradable and extreme adjectives. Give them a couple of minutes to complete the sentences and compare answers in pairs. Do not check answers as a class at this point.
- d 1.11 Pronunciation Play the recording for students to check their answers.

very difficult → absolutely impossible very big → absolutely enormous

very cold → absolutely freezing

In pairs, students take turns to test each other's recall of the extreme adjectives, e.g. A Very cold. B Freezing.

5 SPEAKING

- a Elicit the meaning of native speakers (people who speak English as their first language). Working in pairs, students use the questions to interview each other. Monitor and help as necessary. - M Yeah. Was Jo sure about this?
- R I don't know. She seemed pretty certain.
- M Well, if you ask me, it's not worth worrying about until we know for sure.
- R I know, but I can't help it – it's on my mind. I was even rude to a customer today.
- M Really? That's not like you. What happened?
- R Well, I wasn't exactly rude, just not very helpful.
- M Hey, don't worry about it. Let's just forget about work. Personally, I need a relaxing evening!
- R Me too!

- c  Students discuss the questions in pairs or small groups. Take feedback as a class.

6 SPEAKING

- a Give students a few minutes to think of examples individually. Encourage them to use expressions from 2a and 2b for giving their opinion (Well, in my opinion, It seems to me that, etc.). Monitor and help where necessary.

TIP MONITORING

Monitoring during a task like this, where students are working individually, is a good opportunity to give additional help to those students who are weaker than the rest of the class, without drawing attention to them. You can help with ideas and structuring their sentences. Be careful not to do the work for them but ask questions to help. It is also an opportunity to stretch the stronger members of the group by encouraging them to use a range of vocabulary and structures. Make sure that every student has at least one good idea for each point before they go into the discussion phase.

- b  Students discuss their ideas in small groups. Take feedback as a class. Ask: Did you mostly agree or disagree with each other? Whose statements created the most discussion?

Finish the lesson by asking a few students to read out a statement for other students to agree or disagree with.

1D Skills for Writing

Different ways of learning

OPTIONAL LEAD-IN

Books closed. Tell students they are going to do a short vocabulary quiz. Ask them to write down the answers.

- 1 The name given to the generation born between 1945 and 1957.
- 2 An extreme adjective which means 'very, very dirty'.
- 3 A word which means 'something difficult which tests your ability'.

Check answers as a class (1 Baby Boomers 2 filthy 3 challenge).

Students compare results in pairs. Ask: Did anyone get all three answers correct? How did you learn these vocabulary items? Were some easier than others to remember? Why?

Tell students they are going to think about different ways of learning vocabulary in this lesson.

1 SPEAKING AND LISTENING

- a  Tell students to look at the photos in which two people, Maria and Gilberto, are learning vocabulary in different ways. In pairs, students discuss the question. Take feedback as a class.
- b  1.22 Play the recording for students to listen and answer the question. Find out which students are more like Maria and which are more like Gilberto.

Audioscript

- MARIA How's your revision going?
GILBERTO Not so good. I think I can remember most of the grammar, but remembering vocabulary's a bit harder, for me anyway.
M Yes, there are a lot of words to remember.
G What about you?
M For me, it is probably the opposite – I find the grammar hard to get my head around, but the vocabulary is a lot easier. I've been testing myself at home and it's OK.
G How do you manage to remember all the words, though? What's your secret?
M Well, it's no secret! I have this kind of system for learning words that seems to make it easy ...
G OK, what?
M Well, when I get home from class, I record all the new words I've learnt onto my phone. And then I might do something like go for a run, and I listen to them when I'm running. And I make up these sentences with the words and say them to myself,
G As you're running?
M Yes, as I'm running – I just say the sentences quietly to myself.
G Do you remember what the words mean?
M Most of the time. If I forget, I check in my notebook when I get home from my run. And sometimes I play the words and write them down. I think the most important thing is to keep repeating them. I don't know why, but remembering the sounds of the words is important for me. Like, last week I learnt the word 'shine' – you know, like 'the sun is shining'. And that 'sh' sound at the beginning of the word makes me think of light that's getting brighter and brighter.
G Interesting. But I don't know if it would work for me. I need to see things written down. I need to look at the word.
M Right – my sister's like that too. She uses vocabulary cards. Have you tried that?
G No. How does that work?
M She has these small cards and writes all the new words

At the end of this lesson, students will be able to:

- understand a conversation in which people talk about different ways of learning vocabulary
- understand an article in which different learning styles are outlined and discussed
- use phrases for introducing a purpose in writing
- use pronouns to refer to previously mentioned ideas
- write a guide about how to learn a new skill on a card with a picture, or a definition and an example – sometimes a translation too. It worked really well ... for a while.

- G For a while? Why? What happened?
M She left all the cards on a train.
G Oh, yes. That's probably what I would do!
M I felt so sorry for her – after all that work.

G It sounds like a good idea, but it sounds like you have to be quite organised to have a card system.

- M Yes, that's true.
G And, to be honest, I think I'm maybe too lazy to write all those cards and keep them with me wherever I go!

- c  Give students time to read the three comprehension questions. Make sure they understand the word system (a method or way of doing something). Play the recording again and check answers as a class. Ask: Have you tried either of the systems that Maria and Gilberto talked about? Would you like to? Why / Why not?

Answers

- 1 She records words on her phone, then listens to them while she's running and puts them into sentences.
- 2 She writes words on cards and adds a picture or a definition, an example and sometimes a translation, too.
- 3 No, because he needs to see things written down, but he thinks he's too lazy to write word cards.

- d Give students a couple of minutes to read the descriptions. Check answers as a class.

Answers

Maria is an auditory and kinaesthetic learner, Gilberto (and Maria's sister) are visual learners.

- e  Put students into pairs for this speaking task. Ask for a show of hands from the visual learners, the auditory learners, kinaesthetic learners and those who prefer a mix of different styles.

2 READING

- a Students read the article about learning styles quickly and answer the questions. Check answers as a class.

Answers

- 1 The article mentions Maria's idea about moving around while learning.
- 2 The article is more about remembering new information.

VOCABULARY SUPPORT

highlight (B2) – draw attention to

podcast – an audio file that is a radio show or part of a radio show which you can download and listen to on your phone or computer

- b Give students about five minutes to read the article again and make notes on the key study techniques for each learning style. They then check in pairs. Check answers as a class. Ask: Which of these study techniques do you already use? Which do you think you will use in the future?

Answers

Visual learners: study in a quiet place; think of an image in their head; draw diagrams
Auditory learners: go to lectures; read their notes aloud; use the new words when you talk to people; listen to podcasts
Kinesthetic learners: move around; touch things, take regular breaks and go for walks

3 WRITING SKILLS Introducing a purpose; referring pronouns

- a Students work individually. Check answers as a class. Point out that we can use to and in order to when we introduce the purpose at the beginning of the sentence or at the end, but we usually use so when we introduce the purpose at the end of the sentence.

Answers

1 In order to 2 so 3 To

- b Students work individually. Check answers as a class.

Answers

It helps to study in a quiet place so that you can concentrate.
... make a diagram to highlight different points.
In order to learn new information, you need to be doing something.
To study effectively, you need to experiment and find the most suitable method.

EXTRA ACTIVITY

Ask individual students Why-questions for them to answer with so (that) or to, e.g.

Teacher: Paolo, why have you got different coloured pens on your desk?

Paolo: So I can make notes in different colours.

Teacher: Marie, I saw you in the library yesterday. Why did you go there?

Marie: To do my homework.

- c Students work individually, then compare answers in pairs. Check answers by asking different students to read out their sentences.

Answers

1 I write the new words in the vocabulary notebook to/in order to remember them. / I write the new words in the vocabulary notebook so (that) I remember them.
2 To/in order to practise pronunciation, I record myself saying words on my phone.
3 I write grammar rules on a piece of paper so (that) I understand them better. / I write grammar rules on a piece of paper to/in order to understand them better.

- d Students work individually. Check answers as a class. Ask: Why are referring pronouns useful? (because you don't have to repeat words or whole phrases).

Answers

a Ideas already mentioned
b a complete idea
c a noun

4 WRITING A guide

- a Individually, students make notes for their guides. Monitor and make sure everyone has a topic they feel confident enough to write about.
- b If you're short of time, students can write their guides for homework and bring them to the next class.

FAST FINISHERS

Ask fast finishers to choose another skill they know how to do well and write a list of Dos and Don'ts for people who want to learn it. Check these during feedback and ask them to give their reasons for saying Do or Don't.

- c Put students into pairs, and ask them to swap guides. Ask different students to say how easy they think it would be to learn their partner's skill. Mention some of the skills that the students have written about and say which you would like to learn.

TIP REVIEW AND REFLECT

Give students three minutes to write down some of the new language they know now that they didn't know before they started the unit. This could be new words, phrases, structures, etc. They then compare their lists with a partner. Ask for examples during feedback.

Who do you talk to once or twice a year?
What did you eat yesterday?

Then put students into different pairs so that they can ask and answer their new questions with a different partner.

- b Students work in pairs. Ask them to find the incorrect sentences and correct the verb forms that are wrong. Check answers as a class.

Pairs who finish early can write short conversations containing phrases with yourself, e.g.

A Where are you going?

B Ice-skating.

A Oh. Enjoy yourself! Don't hurt yourself!

B I'll try not to!

They can act out their conversations to the rest of the class at the end of the lesson.

GETTING STARTED

OPTIONAL LEAD-IN

Books closed. Put students into pairs. Ask them to think of a place they have worked in. If they haven't worked yet, this could be a school/college room or home office. They should tell their partner about their workplace and find out as many differences as they can between the two places. Elicit from the class what topics they could discuss, e.g. size, equipment, number of people, atmosphere, facilities, etc. Take feedback as a class and ask for any differences they discovered. Find out which student has worked in the most modern or most traditional workplace.

- a  Tell students to look at the photo and the title of the unit and ask them where they think the woman is. Elicit students' ideas, then play the recording for them to listen and check.

Answers and audioscript

I've just started a new job, and the best thing about it is the office building. It's really modern – bright and colourful. We all work in the same room in the main part of the building, but they've created a lot of small spaces for us to go and think by ourselves. I really like being able to go and read quietly when I need to.

CULTURE NOTE

The photograph shows a woman sitting in an integrated lounge area inside the wall of a modern office. There has been a big move away from traditional, small, isolated office spaces in recent years to create relaxing and inspirational work environments that encourage productivity and creativity. One film company equipped their offices with table-tennis tables and encouraged their employees to travel around the buildings on roller blades. Other companies have slides for employees to get from floor to floor, and even floors made of whiteboards where people can write their ideas. In another company, workers can use bicycles to move round the building, bring their dogs to work, and play a piano.

- b  Put students into pairs to discuss the questions, then nominate a few pairs to share their answers as a class.

EXTRA ACTIVITY

In pairs or small groups, students design an 'extreme' working environment that we might see in the future. They should imagine that they have no money limit. They should think about fun aspects as well as functional ones. Ask for ideas and descriptions during feedback and ask the class to vote on the best design.

2A They've just offered me the job

OPTIONAL LEAD-IN

Books closed. Put students into small groups and give them a few minutes to think of 4–6 questions that people are often asked at job interviews. Monitor and help as necessary.

Possible questions could include the following:

- Why do you want this job?
- Why did you leave your last job?
- What are your best points?
- What are your weak points?
- What did you do in your last job?
- Have you ever made a mistake at work? How did you sort it out?

Ask: Which questions do you think are the easiest/most difficult to answer? Why? Discuss the question as a class.

1 READING

- a Tell students to look at the photo. Ask: What's happening? How do you think the people are feeling? Tell students to look at the title of the article: Not the best interview I've ever had! Ask: Do you think the article will be serious or funny? Why?

Put students into pairs or small groups to discuss the questions. Check answers as a class. If any students do have 'bad interview' experiences, ask one or two to be shared with the whole class.

- b Give students two minutes to read the job interview stories and see who got the job. Check answers as a class.

Answer

Ellie and Laura got the job, but Andy and Dan didn't.

- c Give students a few minutes to read the article again and match stories a–d with the headings. They then check in pairs. Take feedback as a class.

Answers

1 a 2 c 3 d 4 b

- d Put students into pairs to discuss the questions. Point out that they should only share stories they feel comfortable talking about.

EXTRA ACTIVITY

Write the following questions on the board:

- Have you ever done something wrong because you didn't understand an instruction correctly?
- Have you ever phoned someone at a bad time?
- Have you ever sent a message or email to the wrong person?
- Have you ever said that you could do something, but actually you couldn't?

Put students into small groups to discuss the questions.

At the end of this lesson, students will be able to:

- understand a text about job interview experiences
- use a lexical set of work-related words correctly
- use the present perfect simple and past simple to talk about experiences or past events
- understand a discussion in which people talk about what employers want from job candidates
- talk about work and training experiences

2 VOCABULARY Work

- a Put students into pairs to look at the photos and match them with the sentences. Take feedback as a class.

Answers

1 f 2 b 3 e 4 a 5 d 6 c

VOCABULARY SUPPORT

practical (B2) – relating to experience, real situations, or actions, rather than ideas or imagination

- b Individually, students match the vocabulary from 2a with the meanings, then check answers in pairs. Take feedback as a whole class by reading out the meanings and getting the students to say the words. Make sure they can pronounce the words correctly. Draw students' attention to the /i/ sound in knowledge /'nɒlɪdʒ/ and business /'bɪznɪs/ and the different stress patterns in employer and employee.

Answers

1 career 2 business contacts 3 applied for 4 employees
5 grades 6 knowledge 7 candidates 8 In charge of 9 employers 10 CV

- c Pre-teach problem-solving (the process of finding solutions to problems) and attitude (a feeling or opinion about something or someone). Individually, students read through the list and make their choices. Put students in pairs to discuss their choices. Then, put them into pairs with other pairs to form bigger groups and discuss their ideas.

Take feedback as a class. Ask: Which four qualities are most important? Students may say: It depends on the job. If so, ask what two or three things managers would probably look for in people applying for each of these jobs: nurse, website designer, salesperson, taxi driver, secretary.

3 GRAMMAR Present perfect simple and past simple

- a Individually, students answer the question. Take feedback as a class.

Answers

1 present perfect 2 present perfect 3 past simple
4 present perfect

- b Individually, students complete the rules. Take feedback as a class.

Answers

1 present perfect 2 present perfect 3 past simple

CAREFUL!

Students are likely to have difficulties choosing between the present perfect and past simple, e.g. I already ate (Correct form = I've already eaten ...), and He's seen the photos yesterday (Correct form = He saw ...). Students may also use the present simple instead of the present perfect, e.g. He lives here since 1995 (Correct form = I've lived ...).

Another problem with the past simple is making an incorrect verb choice. Typical confusions include: came/went, said/told, felt/fell, made/did and got/went, e.g. He felt in the river (Correct form = He fell ...). Also, students at this level commonly make spelling errors with past forms, e.g. bought, choosen, cryed, complaint, happend, hearded, payed, teached (Correct forms = bought, chose, cried, complained, happened, heard, paid, taught).

- c 1.24 Pronunciation Give students time to read the task. Play the recording. Take feedback as a class.

Answers

1 b 2 a

- d 1.25 Put students into pairs to practise saying the four sentences in 3c.

TIP DRILLING

Use this prompt drill to give students some controlled practice of saying present perfect simple and past simple sentences. Demonstrate how the drill works by saying the prompts apply for a job and just and asking students to repeat. Then say the full sentence: I've just applied for a job. Ask students to repeat. Next, just say the prompts and ask students to respond with a full sentence.

apply for a job / just	→ I've just applied for a job.
never	→ I've never applied for a job.
two weeks ago	→ I applied for a job two weeks ago.
write my CV / just	→ I've just written my CV
three times	→ I've written my CV three times.
last week	→ I wrote my CV last week.
have an interview / never	→ I've never had an interview.
just	→ I've just had an interview.
yesterday	→ I had an interview yesterday.

Repeat the prompt drill two or three times until students can produce the target sentences confidently.

- e Students read the information in Grammar Focus 2A on SB p.134. Play the recording where indicated and ask students to listen and repeat. Students then complete the exercises. Check answers as a class, making sure students choose correctly between the past simple and the present perfect simple. Tell students to go back to SB p.21.

Answers (Grammar Focus 2A SB p.135)

- a 2 haven't been didn't go 3 I've done It yet I've already done it
4 hasn't never has never 5 I've been I was 6 She's told She told 7 I've started I started
- b 2 haven't read 3 've/have had 4 've/have never worked 5 've/have worked 6 've/have done 7 worked 8 was 9 has changed 10 told 11 was 12 applied 13 've/have just emailed 14 Have you accepted

EXTRA ACTIVITY

Write these present perfect simple statements on the board:

- 1 Look what I've just bought!
- 2 I've just had a job interview.
- 3 I've lost my phone!
- 4 I've just installed a really good new app.

Put students into pairs and give them a couple of minutes to think of follow-up questions to each statement. Take feedback as a class and write any good questions on the board (e.g. 1 How much was it? Where did you get it? 2 How did it go? What did they ask? 3 Where did you have it last? 4 What does it do? Did you have to pay for it?)

Put students into pairs. Tell them to choose one or two of the ideas on the board and develop them into longer conversations. Nominate a few pairs to act out their conversations for the class.

- f Individually, students complete the sentences. Take feedback as a class.

Answers

- 1 've/have never had 2 forgot 3 've/have been, was 4 got
- 5 've/have studied 6 've/have always been
- 7 've/have already worked 8 knew

- g Give students a few minutes to think about which sentences are true for them and which they need to change. Put students into pairs to discuss their answers. Monitor to see if they are using the present perfect simple and past simple correctly.

FAST FINISHERS

Fast finishers can prepare and ask each other questions about work and studies using Have you ever ...? You may wish to give them these verbs/phrases to use: study, learn how to, fail, apply for, write, speak, make a big mistake, earn.

4 LISTENING

- a Put students into pairs to think of reasons, then put them into small groups to compare ideas. Take feedback as a class.
- b Tell students that they are going to hear the beginning of a radio interview about getting a job and give them time to read questions 1 and 2. Play the recording for students to listen and answer the questions.

Answers

- 1 Students' own answers
- 2 likeability (the ability to work well with people)

Audioscript

You've got good grades and you've been to lots of interviews, but no one's offered you a job yet. Why? Is it because your knowledge and practical skills aren't right for the job? Well, according to one careers expert, Nancy Maynard, it's probably because you just haven't got the 'likeability' factor. Likeability is the ability to work well with people. It isn't something you can learn easily at school, but employers want it and they're quick to see it in candidates at interview. Without likeability, Maynard believes, good grades and practical skills are worth very little. In the first 18 months in a job, most of an employee's success is linked to their likeability, not to how well he or she does the job. Likeability is much more important than other abilities, and anyone who's looking for a job should be trying their hardest to improve their own by spending time with other people.

Advice for job hunters goes like this: apply for the jobs that you want, even if you haven't got the right qualifications. If you get an interview, then impress the interviewers with your 'soft skills'. Soft skills are your personal skills – your friendly personality, your positive attitude to work, your ability to communicate with people and your problem-solving skills. It's simple. Or is it? Is likeability really more important than knowledge and experience? We took to the streets and asked some people for their opinions.

VOCABULARY SUPPORT

job hunter – someone who is trying to find a job

- c  Play the recording again for students to complete the sentences. Take feedback as a class.

Answers

- 1 work well 2 18 months 3 other people 4 qualifications
5 impress

CULTURE NOTE

The term 'soft skills' is relatively new. It is used to describe the positive personal characteristics and habits which employers often look for in people (as opposed to 'hard skills' like qualifications and practical professional skills). Soft skills include qualities like confidence, honesty, flexibility, optimism, politeness, punctuality, friendliness and the ability to see things from other people's point of view. People with good soft skills can communicate clearly, think creatively, solve problems, teach other people, and learn from other people or from their own mistakes. They can follow instructions, but can also use their initiative and take action without being told what to do.

- d  Tell students that they are going to hear five speakers commenting on likeability and other soft skills. Give them time to read the task, then play the recording for students to answer the questions. Take feedback as a class.

SPEAKER 1: People don't realise how important likeability is because employers don't like to talk about it, so they usually give other reasons for not offering someone a job. But let's be honest, if you're paying someone to do a job, you want them to work well with the people around them.

SPEAKER 2: Yes, soft skills and likeability are much more important than specific job skills – like being able to use a computer – for the employer and for yourself too. There's no such thing as 'a job for life' any more. Develop your soft skills – be good at working with other people – and you'll always be able to get work.

SPEAKER 3: I've been a doctor since I graduated from medical school. I've worked at this hospital for 18 years. My practical skills and my knowledge are all that matters. Without those, I couldn't do my job. I listen to my patients, but I certainly don't believe that I need to be charming and sociable all the time. I've never believed that.

SPEAKER 4: I'm afraid it's true and it makes me angry. I'm 23 and I haven't worked since I left college. The only way to develop soft skills is to work with people, but the only way to get work is to have soft skills. It's a no-win situation.

SPEAKER 5: When people talk like this, it makes education and hard work sound second best, and that's simply not true. Yes, you need to be able to make a good first impression, but come on, what really matters is that you can offer practical skills and experience to an organisation, not just a friendly face.

- e  Give students time to read the comprehension questions then play the recording again for students to listen and answer the questions.

Answers

- 1 Because employers don't like to talk about it.
- 2 You'll always be able to work.
- 3 He listens to them. He doesn't believe he has to be charming and sociable all the time.
- 4 You need to work with people to develop soft skills, but you can't get a job without them.
- 5 Practical skills and experience.

EXTRA ACTIVITY

Write these gapped extracts on the board:

- 1 There's no such thing as a '_____' any more.
- 2 It's a _____ situation.
- 3 You need to be able to make a _____.
- 4 not just a _____

Play the recording again so students can listen for the missing phrases (1 job for life 2 no-win 3 good first impression 4 friendly face).

Check that students understand what each expression means.

- 1 If someone has a 'job for life' they do the same job from the start to the end of their career, often working their way up in the organisation.
- 2 In a 'no-win situation', it's impossible to do the right thing.
- 3 If you make a 'good first impression', you present yourself well so that people like you.
- 4 A 'friendly face' is someone who is smiley, cheerful and helpful. If someone is more than just a friendly face, they have other, more important skills to offer.

- f  Put students into pairs or small groups to discuss the questions. Take feedback as a class on the most interesting ideas their partners talked about.

5 SPEAKING

- a Ask students to look at the photo. Ask: What do you think they're doing? (working on a project). Do you think they are working well as a team? Who do you think is in charge of the project? Give students time to read the task and make notes on their experiences. Monitor and help as necessary.
- b  Put students into pairs or small groups to talk about their experiences. Monitor as students work, without interrupting their fluency. Listen to their conversations, making sure they're asking each other questions, and noting how well they are using the present perfect simple, the past simple, and the vocabulary of work and training.

Take feedback as a class. Ask students to say what they learned about each other. Establish as a group whether people have had similar or very different experiences.

LO TIP CONCEPT CHECKING

Use these concept-checking questions to check students' understanding of the differences between the present perfect simple and the present perfect continuous.

- Write this gapped sentence on the board:

I've _____ (use) SkyWatch three times this week.

Ask students which is the correct verb form to fill the gap and why: used or been using (used because the quantity three times is stated).

- Next, write this gapped sentence on the board:

Have you ever _____ (upload) a video?

Ask students which is the correct verb form to fill the gap and why: uploaded or been uploading (uploaded because we are asking about a past experience in someone's life).

- Now, write this sentence on the board:

People started using smartphone apps in 2008.

Ask students to change the sentence so that it begins People have ...

(People have used smartphone apps since 2008. People have been using smartphone apps since 2008. The first sentence focuses more on the action. The second sentence focuses more on the duration.)

- b Give students a few minutes to complete the sentences. Take feedback as a class.

Answers

1 've/have just bought 2 've/have never searched 3 've/have watched 4 've/have been saving up 5 've/have been thinking

CAREFUL!

Students are likely to use the present simple or past perfect instead of the present perfect simple, e.g. Stamp collecting is/had been my hobby since 1979 (Correct form = Stamp collecting has been my hobby since 1979).

They might also use the present simple or present continuous instead of the present perfect continuous, e.g. Our company grows/is growing since 2002 (Correct form = Our company has been growing since 2002).

Time expressions used with these present perfect forms can be problematic. Students at this level often use since instead of for, e.g. We've known each other since 12 years (Correct form = for 12 years), and from instead of since, e.g. She's worked here from March (Correct form = since March). Students may also replace for with during or miss it out altogether, e.g. I've lived in London during three years (Correct form = for three years).

- c Pronunciation Give students time to read the task. Play the recording two or three times for students to complete the rule.

Answers

- e Students read the information in Grammar Focus 2B on SB p.134. Play the recording where indicated and ask students to listen and repeat. Students then complete the exercises. Check answers as a class, making sure students are choosing correctly between the simple and continuous forms. Tell students to go back to SB p.25.

Answers (Grammar Focus 2B SB p.135)

a 3 c 4 d 5 f 6 e

b 2 he's been cutting the grass 3 they've been trying to fix the computer 4 I've been cooking 5 It's been raining

6 they've been playing outside

c 1 she's been talking 2 I've just found 3 I've known

4 I've been working 5 I've wanted 6 They've been studying

- f Give students one minute to think about which sentences are true for them and to change the sentences which aren't true. Put students into pairs to compare their sentences. Take feedback as a class.

FAST FINISHERS

Fast finishers can write more statements like the ones in 3b and compare them with a partner.

4 SPEAKING

- a Ask: What adjective did Enzo use to describe the Balloon Pop app? (addictive). Tell students that they are going to prepare and use a questionnaire to find out who in the class is most addicted to technology. Put students into pairs to prepare their questions.
- b Give students ten minutes to interview as many people as they can with their questionnaire. Monitor as students work, without interrupting their fluency. Listen to their conversations, making sure they're asking each other questions, and noting how well they are using the language from this lesson. Take feedback as a class.

LANGUAGE NOTE

Point out that some phrases in 2a and 2c are followed by the infinitive form of the verb, and others are followed by the -ing form.

+ infinitive	+ -ing
You / We could ...	Have you tried ...?
Why don't you / we ...?	How about ...?
Let's ...	What about ...?
Shall we ...?

- d Individually, students think of possible solutions for the problems. Monitor and help as necessary.

LO TIP DRILLING

Use this drill to give students controlled practice of the form and pronunciation of ways of making suggestions.

- Demonstrate by saying the prompt You could ask James for help. How about ...? Then say the full suggestion with How about ...? (How about asking James for help?). Continue by saying the other prompts and asking students to say a full suggestion.

Why don't you open it? / Have you tried ... ?

What about looking online? / You could ...

→ You could look online.

Have you tried using the rice trick? Why don't you... ?

→ Why don't you try using the rice trick?

- Repeat the drill until students can say the suggestions with confidence.

- b  Put students into pairs to explain their problems and make suggestions for how to solve them. Go round and monitor, but don't interrupt their fluency. Then ask different students to say whether they were given useful suggestions by their partner.

FAST FINISHERS

Ask fast finishers to choose another problem. They should say they have done everything their partner suggests and explain why it didn't work. Their partner must offer as many suggestions as possible for the problem. 2D Skills for Writing

I'm going to look for a new job

At the end of this lesson, students will be able to:

- understand a conversation about life changes
- understand an informal email giving personal news
- add new information in writing
- write an informal email giving good news

OPTIONAL LEAD-IN

Books closed. Write the following headings on the board:
 ☺ good news / ☹ bad news. Elicit three examples of good news that people might tell their friends and family and two examples of bad news. Write the five pieces of news on the board (e.g. ☺ I'm going to get married. ☹ I lost my wallet.) Then ask: How would you tell this news to your friends and family? Write these options on the board:

- in a letter
- face to face
- in an email
- in a text message
- in a phone call
- online

Put students into pairs or small groups to discuss their answers, then take feedback from the different pairs/groups. Are the answers similar or very different?

Leave the 'good news' ideas on the board for the writing activity later in the lesson.

- T I think I've more or less decided. I'm going to look for a new job.
L Really?
T Yeah, it's getting hard to keep having a positive attitude.
L I can understand that. And I thought your app idea was a really good one.
T Thanks. So tell me, are there many jobs in IT in Hong Kong?
L In Hong Kong? Why there?
T Well, I'm thinking about making a big change.
L What? Going to live in Hong Kong?
- T Yeah, well, you decided to come and live here – maybe I can do the opposite.
L Wow! That's a very big change.
T I want to travel more and I'm really interested in Chinese culture – I'd love to find out more about it.
L Well, yes, everyone says there are plenty of IT jobs in Hong Kong, but it's a bit of a crazy city.
T Well, it could be fun!

1 SPEAKING AND LISTENING

- a Give students time to read the task and decide which aspect of their life they're going to talk about. Encourage them to make notes about the details of what they would like to change and why.
- b Put students into pairs or small groups to discuss and compare their ideas. Encourage them to justify their ideas as far as possible.
- c Ask students to look at the photo of Tania and Lin and the photo at the bottom of SB p.29. Ask: What do you think they're talking about? Why do you think so? Tell students to listen for the two changes Tania is thinking about making. Play the recording.

Answers

Tania is thinking about looking for a new job and moving to Hong Kong.

Audioscript

- LIN Have you done that presentation yet?
TANIA Yeah, I did it yesterday.
L How did it go?
T Well, you know, the usual thing: I presented my ideas, everyone smiled and thanked me and then said nothing.
L So they didn't even give their opinion?
T No, but I could see they didn't like the idea. The problem with the company I work for is that they're continuing to use the same ideas and aren't thinking enough about new markets.
 They're not thinking enough about the phone app market.
L Isn't that why they employed you?
T That's what I thought. I mean, I've been working there for just over a year now and they haven't said yes to any of my ideas. When they offered me the job, they said things like, 'Oh yes, we're very interested in your creative thinking and your problem-solving skills' – but do they really want to use them? I get the feeling they don't.
L Yes, it's very disappointing.

EXTRA ACTIVITY

Write these questions on the board:

- 1 What did Tania do yesterday?
- 2 Who was she talking to?
- 3 What was she talking about?
- 4 Was she happy with the response she got? Why?/Why not?
- 5 What does she think her company needs to think about?
- 6 How many of her new ideas have her company said 'yes' to?
- 7 How does she feel?

Put students into pairs to see how many of the questions they can answer, then play the first half of the recording again (up to when Lin says, 'Yes, it's very disappointing').

- Check answers as a class (1 Gave a presentation. 2 People at her company. 3 New ideas for phone apps. 4 No, because nobody said anything and she could see they didn't like her ideas. 5 New markets for their phone apps. 6 None. 7 Disappointed).

Make sure that students understand the meaning of market in this business context (groups of people who buy a certain product).

- d Give students time to read through the email. Then play the recording again. They then compare answers in pairs.

Answers

- 1 working 2 a/one year 3 creative 4 problem-solving
 5 attitude 6 Chinese culture

- e Ask: Would any of you like to work abroad? If so, where? Why? For how long? If not, why not? Discuss the questions as a class. Then give students time to read questions 1 and 2. Put students into small groups to discuss their answers. After a few minutes, nominate a few groups to share their answers with the class.

2 READING

- a Tell students to read Tania's email quickly and answer the two questions. Check answers as a class.

Answers

3 WRITING SKILLS

Adding new information

- a Put students into pairs to choose the correct reason. Then check answers as a class.

Answer

2 to introduce new information

LOA TIP ELICITING

- After looking at the email and the key phrases in it, ask students how many paragraphs are in the email (five). Ask students why Tania has structured her email into different paragraphs. Elicit that doing this makes it clear that she has organised her ideas, and that each paragraph has a different function or topic.

- Elicit the function of each paragraph and build up the structure of Tania's email on the board.

Paragraph 1: Opening paragraph / 'small talk' about the recent past

Paragraph 2: Main news

Paragraph 3: Information about the job

Paragraph 4: Going to live in Hong Kong

Paragraph 5: Closing paragraph / 'small talk' about future plans

- Leave the paragraph structure on the board as support for the writing activity later in the lesson.

- b Put students into pairs to complete the activity, then check answers as a class by inviting three students up to the board to write the phrases.

Answers

1 You'll/will never believe this, but ...
2 And what's really fascinating is that ...
3 But the most fantastic thing is that ...

- c Individually, students put the words in order to make sentences.

Answers

1 You'll never believe this, but I've bought a house!
2 What's even more amazing is the location.
3 But the best thing is that it wasn't too expensive.

- d Tell students that this next exercise focuses on how Tania introduces additional information in her emails. Put students into pairs to complete the task. Then check answers as a class.

Answers

1 beginning 2 formal 3 -ing form or a noun 4 also

- e Put students into pairs to decide what the words/phrases mean. Take feedback as a class.

Answers

1 except for 2 as well as 3 as well as 4 except for

LANGUAGE NOTE

Apart from and besides can both mean 'except for' or 'as well as'.

Apart from the low salary, it's a great job! (= except for)

He works until nine o'clock every day, and that's apart from the work he does at the weekend! (= as well as)

Besides his main job, John also writes a blog each week. (= as well as)

Amy doesn't have any family besides her sister. (= except for)

You may wish to write the following examples on the board and ask students what the underlined phrases mean.

1 Apart from New York and Boston, I've also been to Chicago and Denver. (= as well as)

2 Besides the piano, I can play the guitar and the saxophone. (= as well as)

3 I'm free every day, besides Tuesday. (= except for)

- f Individually, students rewrite the sentences. They then compare answers in pairs.

Suggested answers

1 In addition to a degree in software development, I (also) have a diploma in interactive media design.
2 Apart from paying for a hotel when I arrive, they'll (also) pay the first month's rent on an apartment.
3 Besides giving me a return airfare now, they're (also) going to pay for another return airfare in the middle of my contract.

4 WRITING An informal email

- a Tell students that they are going to write an email in which they give some news. They can choose one of the topics in the exercise, or their own idea. If you did the optional lead-in, students could choose one of the 'good news' topics they listed there.

Give students time to think about all the extra details they are going to write about in their email. Encourage them to plan how many paragraphs their email will have, and how they will divide the information up between those paragraphs. Ask: Which expressions will you use for introducing news and adding new information? Encourage students to include friendly opening and closing paragraphs in their emails.

- b Before students start writing their emails, put them in pairs to compare their ideas.

FAST FINISHERS

Fast finishers can role-play giving their news on the phone or face to face. They can still use the phrases You won't believe this, but ..., And the best thing is ..., (And) what's really exciting is ..., as these expressions may be used in speaking as well as writing.

- c Give students up to 20 minutes to write their emails. Monitor and help if necessary.
- d Students work with a partner who they haven't worked with so far in this stage of the lesson. They exchange their emails, compare their news and assess each other's use of phrases which add information. To close the activity, nominate a few students to read out their response to their partner's email to the rest of the class.

Give students feedback on their written work, focusing on the structure of their emails and the way they used phrases which add information when telling their news.

GETTING STARTED

OPTIONAL LEAD-IN

Books closed. Ask students to think about a trip they've recently been on with a friend. Write on the board: Who, Where, When, Why, What and tell students to use these prompts to ask and answer questions about the trip with their partner. Nominate a few students to tell the class about their partner's trip. Ask how the trips might have been different with a family member instead of a friend.

- a Ask students to look at the photo and the title of the unit, Relationships. Put them into small groups and give them a few minutes to discuss the questions. Take feedback as a class.

- b Elicit the meaning of an old friend (a friend you have known for a long time, not necessarily someone who is old). Also elicit the meaning of close friend (a friend who knows you very well and likes you a lot). Give students time to write down their answers.

- c Put students into small groups to talk about the people they wrote about. Take feedback as a class.

EXTRA ACTIVITY

Write on the board: A true friend is someone who .... Ask students to complete the sentence in their own words. They should then compare their sentences with their partner and discuss what they've written. Elicit sentences and find out whose definition the class thinks is the best and why.

3A I was working at a café when we met

OPTIONAL LEAD-IN

Books closed. Write the word Friends on the board with these phrases around it: laugh, talk, watch sports, watch films, watch TV, do sports, eat, listen to music, study, go on holiday, go shopping.

Put students into pairs to ask and answer these questions: Which of these things do you prefer doing with friends? Which do you prefer doing with family? Which do you prefer doing alone? Why?

Nominate a few students to say whether their answers were similar to or very different from their partner's.

1 VOCABULARY Relationships

- a  Ask students to write down the names of three people they know well, then put them into pairs to ask and answer the questions. Take feedback as a class.
- b Give students five minutes to underline the correct answers. They then compare answers in pairs.

- 2 strangers
- 3 get on with
- 4 relationship
- 5 get to know
- 6 support
- 7 background
- 8 relatives
- 9 sense of humour
- 10 keeping in touch
- 11 friendship
- 12 Interests

LANGUAGE NOTES

The schwa /ə/ sound appears in common, stranger, relationship, get to know, support, relative and sense of humour. Help students to pronounce the words correctly by modelling the words for them to repeat after you. Point out that the schwa sound is common in prepositions.

You may also wish to contrast the pronunciation of the ou spelling in humour /'hju:mə/, touch /tʌtʃ/ and background /'bækgraʊnd/.

- c  Give students time to tick the sentences in 1b that are true for them, then put them into pairs or small groups to discuss their ideas. Take feedback as a class.

2 PRONUNCIATION Linking sounds

- a  Tell students to read through the information in the box about linking. Play the recording for students to listen and notice the linking sounds in sentences 1–3.
- b Put students into pairs to identify where they think the linking sounds will be in the sentences. Elicit students' ideas, but don't check answers at this point.

At the end of this lesson, students will be able to:

- use a lexical set about relationships correctly
- link sounds in connected speech
- understand an article about a film based on a true story
- understand and use narrative tenses to talk about past events
- talk about how a close friendship began

- c  1.41 Play the recording once or twice for students to listen and check their answers. Then put students into pairs to practise saying the sentences.

Answers

- 1 I fell in love with my husband the moment I saw him.
- 2 Kate lives in the USA, but we keep in touch online.
- 3 My friends and I have a very silly sense of humour.
- 4 I don't think a shared background is important.
- 5 My relatives are all very close.

3 READING

- a  Ask students to look at the film poster and guess what kind of film it is. If anyone in the class has seen Untouchable, encourage them to say a little about the film without giving too much away about the story. Put students into pairs to discuss the questions. Then take feedback as a class. Collate students' ideas on the board and leave them there for 3b. Don't say which suggestions are correct at this point.

CULTURE NOTE

Untouchable is a 2011 French comedy based on the true story of a friendship between Philippe Pozzo di Borgo and Abdel Sellou. In 1993, a paragliding accident changed Philippe's life. A French aristocrat who had once lived a life of great comfort, Philippe was now completely wheelchair-bound. His suffering was emotional as much as physical. His carer, Abdel, became an unlikely source of emotional strength, and brought joy back into Philippe's life.

In the film, Abdel is played by Omar Sly and Philippe by François Cluzet. Sly won the César Award (the French equivalent of the Oscars) for Best Actor for his role in this film. Critics describe Untouchable as funny and moving, with much of the film's humour coming from the contrast between the cultural differences and the emotional closeness between the two men.

VOCABULARY SUPPORT

box office hit – a measure of how popular and financially successful a film or actor is paragliding – the sport of jumping out of an aircraft with a special parachute that allows you to travel a long horizontal distance before you land

- b Give students five minutes to read the first part of the article to check their ideas.

Answers

- 1 Abdel became Philippe's nurse and they became friends.
- 2 Philippe is in a wheelchair because he lost the use of his arms and legs after a paragliding accident.

EXTRA ACTIVITY

Write these questions on the board and put students into pairs to answer them.

- 1 Where and when did the two men meet? (Paris, 1993)
- 2 What was Philippe's job before the accident? (businessman)
- 3 What country did Abdel come from? (Algeria)
- 4 What sort of help did Philippe need? (practical help with his day-to-day life)
- 5 How long was Abdel planning to be Philippe's nurse? (not long)

c  Students guess the answers to the questions before they read the second part of the article. Again, collate students' ideas on the board and leave them there for 3d. Don't check answers at this point.

d Give students five minutes to read the second part of the article and see if any of their guesses were correct. They compare answers in pairs. Check answers as a class.

Answers

- 1 Abdel gave Philippe support, but also fun and excitement.
- 2 Abdel worked for Philippe for 10 years.
- 3 Philippe helped Abdel by introducing him to a new way of life.
- 4 They keep in touch regularly.

e Put students into pairs to do the activity. Check answers as a class.

Answers

- 1 an aristocrat
- 2 wealthy
- 3 lonely
- 4 lively

- 6 sense of fun

f  Give students time to read the questions then put them into small groups to discuss their ideas. Take feedback as a class.

FAST FINISHERS

Ask fast finishers to discuss any other films or books they know which focus on friendships. Ask them to say what happened, who the friends were, and whether it was a happy or sad story.

4 GRAMMAR Narrative tenses a Individually, students underline the correct words. Check answers as a class.

Answers

- 1 first met
- 2 was looking for
- 3 had been
- 4 lost
- 5 struggled
- 6 liked
- 7 offered

b Use these two questions to check students' understanding of the past continuous and the past perfect.

Answers

- 1 for a long time
- 2 before he met Abdel

c In pairs, students find more examples. Take feedback as a class.

Answers

- Past continuous: Philippe was struggling to imagine the future;
Abdel wasn't planning on staying in the job for long Past perfect: Abdel, who had quit a life of crime; he had made a bad choice

LOA TIP CONCEPT CHECKING

- After looking at examples of the past continuous and past perfect, write the following sentences on the board to check students' understanding of why the different narrative tenses are used.
- Write: We watched the film and then we went to a party. Ask students which tense is used and why (the past simple, to talk about a sequence of events).
- Write: I fell asleep while I was watching the film. Ask students which two tenses are used here, and why (the past simple and the past continuous, to talk about an event and the background situation around that event).
- Write: I had read the book before I saw the film. Ask students which two tenses are used here, and why (the past perfect and the past simple, to say that one event happened before another event).

d Individually, students complete the story. Check answers as a class.

Answers

- 1 met
- 2 was working
- 3 went
- 4 wasn't
- 5 had just finished
- 6 noticed
- 7 was reading
- 8 started
- 9 heard
- 10 decided

CAREFUL!

At this level, students often make mistakes with narrative tenses.

Instead of the past simple, students tend to use the present simple, past continuous or past perfect, e.g. We walked for a bit then we start to run (Correct form = *then we started).

Where the past perfect is required, students may use the past simple, e.g. The shops were busy because everyone came to buy new clothes (Correct form = because everyone had come ...).

Instead of the past continuous, students may use the present continuous or the past simple, e.g. We went to see what is happening (Correct form = what was happening). Students may also have problems with subject/auxiliary agreement in the past continuous, e.g. We was waiting for the bus (Correct form = We were waiting ...).

- e  Students read the information in Grammar Focus 3A on SB p.136. Play the recording where indicated and ask students to listen and repeat. Students then complete the exercises. Check answers as a class, making sure students choose the appropriate narrative tenses. Tell students to go back to SB p.34.

Give students time to make notes before they begin. Monitor and help with vocabulary or any other support the students need.
- b  Put students into pairs or small groups to tell their stories. Monitor and help without interrupting their fluency. Listen to their conversations, noting how well they are using narrative tenses and relationships vocabulary. Take feedback as a class.

OPTIONAL LEAD-IN

Books closed. Write HABITS on the board and then add these phrases around it: wake up first, go to bed last, lock the door at night, take the rubbish out, do the washing-up, cook dinner, watch TV.

Tell students to think about their families or the people they live with at the moment. Who always does which activity? Who never does what? Give them a few minutes to talk in pairs or small groups. Then take feedback as a class on some of the habits of the people that students live with.

1 VOCABULARY Family

- a  Ask a few general questions about the photos, for example: Who's the oldest person you can see? Who's the youngest? How old do you think they are? What's this family doing? Put students into small groups to talk about the photos for about five minutes. Take feedback as a class.
- b Put students into pairs and give them five minutes to match the sentences with the photos. Check answers as a class.
- Suggested answers
1 g/e 2 c 3 a/f 4 a 5 h 6 e 7 b 8 d
- c  Give students a few minutes to think about what they will say about their own family before putting them in pairs to talk. Take feedback as a class on anything interesting students heard about their partners.

FAST FINISHERS

Ask fast finishers to draw simple family trees for two families they know which have different family shapes (e.g. lots of children, more than three generations, etc.). In pairs or small groups, they show and talk about the family trees they have drawn.

2 LISTENING

- a  Tell students to look at the photo. Ask: What's the relationship between the girls? Do they look very similar or exactly the same? Establish that they are twins – identical twins.
- Put students into small groups to discuss the questions. Take feedback as a class.
- b  1.45 Play the recording for students to answer the questions. Check answers as a class.

At the end of this lesson, students will be able to:

- use a lexical set about families correctly
- understand a listening about two twins
- understand and use multi-word verbs correctly
- use used to and usually to talk about habits in the past and the present
- talk about a family tradition

Answers

Charlotte

- 1 They looked identical. They didn't talk to each other very much when playing together, because they knew what the other was thinking.
- 2 They wanted to create their own unique identities. They dressed very differently.
- 3 They're really good friends. They speak on the phone every day and get together as often as they can.

Megan

- 1 She was Megan's best friend. She was imaginative and used to make up stories.
- 2 They started to grow apart and made different friends.
- 3 They both love beach holidays, playing football, and they both frequently complain about their hair.

Audioscript

CHARLOTTE When people find out I'm a twin, they generally ask the same questions: What's it like? Can you read each other's thoughts? Can people tell you apart? Do you do everything together?

It's true that I often know what Megan is thinking or feeling, but that's because we grew up together and we're very close. We're no different from ordinary sisters.

But if you look at photos of us when we were younger, even I can't say which one is me. We used to look absolutely identical. And Mum says we didn't use to talk much when we were playing together – we seemed to know what each other was thinking.

I guess as we grew up we wanted to create our own unique identities. I remember at school Megan used to dress as differently from me as she could. I went through a phase of wearing lots of black and looking quite messy. So of course, Megan started wearing flowery dresses!

We used to have a lot of arguments as teenagers but now we're really good friends. We usually speak on the phone two or three times a day, and we get together as often as we can. So, what's it like to have a twin? It's great – you have a best friend for life!

MEGAN Charlotte and I had a wonderful childhood. We did everything together. I had my best friend with me 24/7 and we used to be very close. She had a brilliant imagination and used to invent wonderful stories. Of course, we played the usual twin jokes. At school, we used to swap clothes and confuse the teachers. I'm not sure they even noticed some of the time – we looked so similar that even our parents used to mix us up.

We didn't use to argue much, but in our teenage years we started to grow apart. We were trying to find our own identity, I think, and we each made a different group of friends. Later on, we went to universities in different towns. But it turned out that you can never escape being a twin. After our first year away, we hadn't seen each other for six months. The day we went home, we saw that we'd both cut all our hair off! These days, I think we have quite different personalities. Charlotte is very kind and caring, but often forgets things and gets lost. I'm a bit more confident and organised. But we still have lots in common – we both love beach holidays, playing football and we both complain about our hair!

VOCABULARY SUPPORT

confuse (B2) – to mix up two separate things or people in your mind, imagining that they are one identical (B2) – exactly the same, or very similar identity (B2) – who a person is, or the qualities of a person or group that makes them different from others swap (C1) – to give something and be given something else instead

- c Put students into pairs to discuss the question.
- d Give students time to read the questions, then play the recording again. Check answers as a class.

Answers

1 C 2 M 3 B 4 M 5 B 6 C

EXTRA ACTIVITY

As you go through the answers, check that students heard and understood the following phrases:

- to read each other's thoughts (to know what each other is thinking)
- 24/7 (all day, every day/all the time)
- turn out (happen)

- e Put students into small groups to discuss the questions.

3 VOCABULARY Multi-word verbs

- a Write the following sentence on the board: When people find out that I'm a twin, they generally ask the same question. Ask: What's the multi-word verb in this sentence? What does it mean? (find out = discover).

Tell students that they are going to look at more multi-word verbs from the recording. Put students into pairs to match the verbs with the meanings. Check answers as a class by reading out the meanings and asking a few students to say the sentence with the multi-word verb in it.

Answers

1 h 2 b 3 e 4 d 5 f 6 g 7 c 8 i 9 a

- b Put students into pairs to read the five sentences and complete the rules. Then check answers as a class.

Answers

- 1 grow apart

Answers

- 1 As we grew up we wanted to create our own unique identities.
- 2 We wanted to hang out with each other.
- 3 We saw that we'd cut all our hair off!

Give students time to read through the rule about the pronunciation of multi-word verbs.

- d Play the recording again for students to listen and repeat the sentences.

LOA TIP DRILLING

- Use this transformation drill with the class to give students some very controlled practice of using pronouns with multi-word verbs. Demonstrate how the drill works by saying this prompt: I always mix up Jack and John. / them. Then, elicit the follow-up statement: I always mix them up.

Why don't you phone up Carl? / him

→ Why don't you phone him up?

I cut the corner off. / it

→ I cut it off.

They brought up my three brothers and me. / us

→ They brought us up.

Do you take after your mum? / her

→ Do you take after her?

I like hanging out with you and Anna. / you

→ I like hanging out with you.

- Repeat the drill two or three times until students can produce the target sentences confidently.

- e Give students time to think about their answers. Put them into pairs or small groups to discuss the questions. Monitor, without interrupting their fluency. Listen to their conversations, noting how well they're using the multi-word verbs from the lesson.

Nominate a few students to share something new they have learnt about their partners.

4 GRAMMAR used to, usually

- a Play the recording for students to underline what the speakers say. Check answers as a class. You may wish to point out that in sentences 1 and 3, both options are correct, but used to adds more information about past situations.

Answers

- 1 used to dress
- 2 started
- 3 used to be
- 4 usually speak

CAREFUL!

Although students at this level sometimes omit the d in used, e.g. I use to live there (Correct form = I used to live ...), most errors with used to and usually relate to their meaning and use.

Students may be tempted to use used to when they should use the past simple or present perfect, e.g. He used to drive to Madrid last week. I used to listen to music since I was a young child. (Correct form = He drove ... I've listened to ...). They may also confuse used to with the present simple and usually to talk about present habits, e.g. I used to go shopping on Saturdays with my friends (Correct form = I usually go shopping).

Make sure students pronounce used to as /'ju:stə/ (not /ju:zt tu:/).

- b Put students into pairs to complete the rules, then check answers as a class.

Answers

- 1 the past simple
- 2 used to
- 3 always, usually

- c  1.48 Students read the information in Grammar Focus 3B on SB p.136. Play the recording where indicated and ask students to listen and repeat. Students then complete the exercises. Check answers as a class. Tell students to go back to SB p.37.

Put students into pairs to ask and answer questions with How often do you ... ? and How often did you ... ?

- d Tell students that they are going to prepare some sentences about past and present habits of their own families and families in their countries. Point out that this could be anything from simple daily or weekly habits, to less common events like parties and other celebrations. Students prepare their sentences individually. Monitor and give help as necessary.
- e  Put students into pairs or small groups to discuss their answers. Take feedback as a class.

5 SPEAKING

- a Elicit the meaning of tradition (a custom or way of behaving that has existed for a long time in a group or society, e.g. national festivals, New Year, birthdays, etc.). Tell the class they are going to talk about family traditions – things that their family always or often does together.
- Give students time to read through the questions and make notes. Monitor and help as necessary.

- MARK Well, I phoned the company to explain, and luckily they agreed to give me a refund. T It's free?
- T Really? That was very good of them. M Yeah, I think the owner doesn't have enough space for it, so he's just giving it away. So all I have to do is go and pick it up.
- M Yeah, it was. But anyway, I still had to find a desk. I was looking everywhere, but I couldn't find anything. In the end, Rachel suggested I try one of those freecycling websites. T Wow! That's good. And you're sure it's the right size this time?
- T Freecycling? What's that? M Ha-ha. Yeah, I double-checked the measurements this time.
- M It's where people get rid of stuff they don't want any more. I've never heard of it either. But there are a couple of websites for this area. I found the perfect P Guys!
- M Oh, sorry, Paula! It's my fault. I was just explaining to Tom about my desk mix-up.

- F Tom says, 'Freecycling? What's that?'
- F He has to go and pick it up (collect it).

CULTURE NOTE

Freecycling is a service in which someone uses the internet to advertise possessions they no longer need and that they want to pass on to other people who need them, for no money. Freecycling limits the amount of waste going to landfill and also cuts down on the amount of new goods being manufactured. There are thousands of freecycling groups around the world listing items that are available in that area.

EXTRA ACTIVITY

Focus on the phrases get rid of, double-check and mix-up by asking the following questions:

- What do people use Freecycle for? (to get rid of stuff they don't want any more)
- How does Mark know the new desk is the right size? (He's double-checked the measurements.)
- What's another word for 'confusion' or 'mistake' that Mark uses at the end of the conversation? (mix-up)

- d  Students work in small groups to discuss the questions. Encourage them to react to what they hear. Nominate a few students to talk about their experiences to the class.

4 USEFUL LANGUAGE Telling a story

- a  Give students one minute to complete the sentences. Then play the recording for them to check. Check answers as a class.

Answers

- funny
- turned out
- anyway
- end
- best

LANGUAGE NOTES

We often use the multi-word verb turn out in stories to mean 'was discovered' or 'was understood'.

I couldn't understand why Emma didn't say anything about my news. It turned out she'd never received my email. (I found out later that she hadn't received my email.)

- b In pairs, students complete the sentences. Check answers as a class.

Answers

starting a story: You won't believe what (I did).
adding new information: The funny thing is, ... The best thing is, ... finishing a story (or part of a story): It turned out that ..., In the end...

- c  Give students five minutes to prepare their stories individually. Then students work in small groups to tell each other their stories.

5 PRONUNCIATION

Stress in word groups

- a  Write this sentence on the board and read it aloud, marking the natural break between the word groups as you do so: It turned out // I'd ordered a children's desk.

Remind students that we pause between word groups to make a message clearer. Play the recording for students to mark where the speaker pauses. Check answers as a class.

Answers

- The funny thing is, // It was really, really small.
- In the end, // Rachel suggested I try one of those // 'freecycling' websites.
- Well, // I phoned the company to explain, // and luckily // they agreed to give me a refund.

- b  Ask students to read through the information in the box. Play the recording again for them to underline the stressed syllables.

Answers

- The funny thing is, // It was really, really small.
- In the end, // Rachel suggested I try one of those // 'freecycling' websites.
- Well, // I phoned the company to explain, // and luckily // they agreed to give me a refund.

- c  Play the recording again. Pause it after each sentence for the students to listen and repeat.

6 SPEAKING

- a Give students up to five minutes to prepare their stories. Monitor and help as necessary.
- b  Students work in pairs and tell each other their stories. Put students into different pairs so they can tell their stories to someone else. Monitor, but don't interrupt fluency unless students make mistakes with stress in word groups or phrases to react to what they are hearing. Nominate a few pairs to tell their stories for the class.

LOA TIP MONITORING

As you monitor, listen for examples of good language to mention during feedback. Giving positive feedback is motivating for students. Try not to note these down with pen and paper while you're monitoring, as this can be distracting and sometimes worrying for students. If it's hard to remember what you're monitoring, return to note things down at your desk from time to time.

3D Skills for Writing

He wanted to see the world

OPTIONAL LEAD-IN

Books closed. Write this list on the board:

Important life events

- graduating from university
- marriage
- starting school
- learning to drive
- the birth of a younger brother/sister
- meeting your best friend
- going abroad for the first time
- having children
- moving house

Students work individually to decide which three events they think are the most life-changing and why.

Put students into small groups to compare their choices and explain their reasons. Encourage students to justify their answers as far as possible. Take feedback as a class.

1 SPEAKING AND LISTENING

- a Put students into pairs to discuss the questions. Take feedback as a class. Ask: Who knows more about their family history, you or your partner? How and when did you/your partner learn about it?
- b Give students time to read the question. Play the recording for students to listen and answer it.

Answer

They're talking about their grandparents.

Audioscript

- BRYAN It's a shame we don't know much about our grandfather, isn't it? Mom used to love talking about him and Grandma. She always used to tell so many interesting stories about them. But I've got no idea where or when they met.
- SUSIE Yeah. Well, I know he was born in England.
- B Who, Grandad? Yes, I know. And he wanted to go out and see the world, didn't he? That's why he went to train as a chef – so he could get work on a ship.
- S What kind of ship?
- B Cruise ships. And that was before the war. Some time in the 1930s.
- S Oh, right.
- B He loved travelling and that was the best way to see the world if you didn't have a lot of money back then.
- S So, how did he meet Gran? She was a nurse, wasn't she? And how did they both end up in Canada?
- B I... I don't know. I guess we'll have to do some research!

- c Tell the students to look at the black-and-white photos. Ask: How do you think Bryan and Susie's grandparents met?

Answer

They probably met on a ship they were working on.

- d Give students time to think and make notes about a family member who interests them. Point out that this person doesn't have to be someone who is still alive. Monitor and help as necessary.

At the end of this lesson, students will be able to:

- understand a person telling a story
- understand an email giving more information about a story
- use phrases for describing points or periods of time in a story
- write a biography of someone they know or know about

- e Put students into pairs to talk about the family member they made notes about.

L TIP ELICITING

Ask students to cover the email and the pictures on the next page. Elicit ideas about why Bryan and Susie's grandparents decided to live in Canada. Put their ideas on the board. When eliciting ideas like this, you can elicit directly from a strong group or indirectly (give students some thinking time in pairs first) from a weaker class. Compare their ideas with the real story after reading.

- a Students read Bryan's email to Susie and answer the question. In pairs, students discuss the answer. Check answers as a class.

Answers

They both liked Vancouver and decided they would start a new life in Canada.

CULTURE NOTE

Vancouver, on the west coast of Canada, is often listed as one of the world's most pleasant cities to live in. It is one of the country's largest cities, with a population of more than 600,000.

- b Give students five minutes to read the email again and put the pictures on SB p.41 in order. Students discuss the answers in pairs. Check answers as a class.

Answers

1 b 2 d 3 a 4 c 5 e

EXTRA ACTIVITY

Write these extra questions on the board and give the students five minutes to read the email again and find the answers.

- 1 Where are their grandparents in picture b? (on a cruise ship going from England to Vancouver)
- 2 How long did their grandfather work on cruise ships? (for two years)
- 3 How did their grandmother feel before she started working at the hospital? (lonely)
- 4 Where did they get married? (in Canada)
- 5 Has Bryan been to the house in Vancouver where their grandparents lived? (Yes, he used to go and visit them when he was at school.)

3 WRITING SKILLS Describing time

- a Put students into pairs to look at the words in bold. Check the answer as a class.

LANGUAGE NOTE

We use over to mean during with time phrases like the next few / the last few days/weeks/months/years/decades:

Technology has changed a lot over the last few decades.

We can also use over with seasons (the winter/spring/summer/autumn) or specific periods of time (the school holidays, etc.):

I hope we can meet up a few times over the summer holidays.

We can't use over to mean during with nouns like film or lesson:

Sally fell asleep during the film. (NOT ~~Sally fell asleep over the film.~~)

- f Put students into pairs to read their sentences to each other. Monitor and listen for correct usage of the target language from this lesson. Nominate a few pairs to perform their conversations for the class.

4 WRITING

- a Tell students that they going to write a biography of someone they know or know about. Give them time to plan their work using the questions in the book to guide them.
- b Give students up to 20 minutes to write the biography. Remind them to include words and expressions from the lesson for describing time. Monitor and point out errors for students to self-correct.

FAST FINISHERS

Ask fast finishers to choose one key event from their biography and write two or three more details about it. Encourage them to be creative and use their imaginations to give surprising or interesting details. Check their work during feedback.

- c Put students into pairs to read each other's work. Make sure they all think of a question to ask about the person their partner has written about. Give the class feedback on their written work, focusing on their use of expressions for describing time as well as their use of narrative tenses.

- Using question tags
- Writing an informal online advert

OPTIONAL LEAD-IN

Books closed. Write this gapped word on the board: _ E _ _ O _ A _ I _ _ . Ask students to take turns to guess the letters to find the title of the unit. Tell them that this is something we all have, but it is different for all of us. Give the class 10 chances to guess the word and cross one off every time they guess a wrong letter.

Put students into pairs and ask them to tell their partners how their personalities have changed since they were children or whether they have stayed the same. Ask them to give examples. Take feedback as a class and find out who has changed the most since childhood.

GETTING STARTED

- a  Ask students to look at the photo and the title of the unit, Personality. Put students into small groups to discuss the questions. Take feedback as a class.

Suggested answers

- 1 shy, quiet, thoughtful, calm, peaceful
- 2 lively, funny, outgoing, noisy, confident

EXTRA ACTIVITY

Ask: Do you think these children are like this all the time? Why? Why not? Do you think these two children's personalities will change much as they grow older? Why/Why not?

Take feedback as a class.

- b  Elicit the meaning of take after someone (to be similar to an older member of the family). Put students into pairs to discuss the questions. Take feedback as a class on the most interesting people students talked about.

4A I could sing quite well when I was younger

OPTIONAL LEAD-IN

Books closed. Write this word snake on the board:

skiing communicating with people music computing cooking riding a bike

Ask two or three students to come up to the board to divide the wordsnake into words or phrases. Encourage the rest of the class to help them. Check answers as a class (skiing, communicating with people, music, computing, cooking, riding a bike).

Ask: What are these things examples of? (skills)

Put students into pairs and ask them to divide the skills into academic skills (connected with study and learning), life skills and physical skills. Take feedback as a class. Suggested answers are below, but students may have different ideas:

academic skills: music, computing life skills: communicating with people, cooking physical skills: skiing, riding a bike

Ask the class to think of one or two more skills for each category.

1 VOCABULARY Ability

- Give students two minutes to write down what they think they are good at. Encourage them to think of reasons.
- Put students into pairs to talk about the things they are good at. Take feedback as a class.
- Ask students to look at the title of the article and the two photos. Ask: Have you heard of Andrew Halliburton? What about Oprah Winfrey?

Give students one minute to read the article quickly and answer the question.

Answer

Oprah Winfrey became successful, but Andrew Halliburton didn't.

EXTRA ACTIVITY

Write these questions on the board. Ask students to read the article again and answer the questions.

- What subject is Andrew Halliburton good at? (maths)*
- Why did he leave university early? (He thought the course was too easy.)*
- What did he do after university? (He cleared tables in a fast-food restaurant.)*
- What was his childhood like? (His parents pushed him; he didn't spend enough time making friends; other children didn't like him because he was so clever – or at least that's what he thinks now.)*
- What is Oprah Winfrey's most well-known job? (She is a TV presenter.)*
- What was her childhood like? (Difficult; her family had no money; she did well at school.)*
- Did she feel positive or negative about her future when she was young? (positive)*

At the end of this lesson, students will be able to:

- use a lexical set related to ability correctly
- understand a radio programme about talented people
- use modals and phrases of ability to talk about things they can and could do
- talk about personal success and what helped them be successful

CULTURE NOTE

IQ (intelligence quotient) tests measure people's cognitive ability. The average result is 100. A result over 130 is considered exceptional. Andrew Halliburton has an IQ of 145. Stephen Hawking, Bill Gates and Quentin Tarantino are all reported to have IQs of 160.

- Students underline the correct words in the article. They then compare answers in pairs. Monitor to check that students are pronouncing the words correctly.

Answers

- talented
- gave up
- successful
- intelligent
- positive attitude
- determined
- success

- Put students into pairs to discuss the words and phrases. Check answers as a class.

Answers

- talented, brilliant, ability, intelligent, bright
- confident, a positive attitude
- successful, achievement
- give up

LANGUAGE NOTE

We tend to use have the ability to for specific talents, e.g. He has the ability to sing two notes at the same time. For a normal singing ability, we would usually say He can sing, and for a very good singing ability He is talented at singing.

We can also use the expression have an ability in + noun, e.g. ... bright kids who have a particular ability in maths, music or science.

- Students work individually to complete the sentences. Check answers as a class.

Answers

- at
- at
- at
- to/towards
- to

- Give students time to complete the sentences. Point out that we use an -ing form of the verb after prepositions (e.g. good at swimming). However, we use to + infinitive after need (e.g. you need to practise). Monitor and help as necessary.
- Put students into small groups to compare and discuss their sentences in 1g. Take feedback as a class on the most interesting things students talked about.

2 LISTENING

CULTURE NOTES

The listening compares two 'early achievers' (Tsung Tsung and Lionel Messi) with two 'late bloomers' (Vivienne Westwood and Andrea Bocelli).

- Tsung Tsung is a young classical pianist from Hong Kong who has now become famous in the US and beyond.
- Lionel Messi is a footballer from Argentina who plays for FC Barcelona and the Argentine national team.
- Vivienne Westwood is an unconventional fashion designer from Britain. In the 1970s her style influenced the punk rock movement.
- Andrea Bocelli is an Italian singer. He is completely blind after losing his sight in a football accident when he was 12.

a  Put students into pairs or small groups to discuss the questions. Elicit students' ideas but don't check answers at this point.

b  Play the recording for students to check which of their ideas were correct.

Answers

Tsung-Tsung could play the piano at three.
Lionel Messi was playing football at five.
Vivienne Westwood became a successful fashion designer in her 30s.
Andrea Bocelli became a famous classical singer at 36.

Audioscript

PRESENTER That was Rimsky-Korsakov's Flight of the Bumblebee, a piece which was recently performed to a live audience on TV by a six-year-old boy called Tsung Tsung. Tsung Tsung could play the piano when he was three. At the age of five, an Internet clip with him at the piano made him famous. Now, he says, he wants to be able to play like Mozart. Our question today is: Do we have to start young to succeed? We've all heard about kids like Tsung Tsung, bright kids who have a particular ability in, say, music, maths or science. But do they grow up to be successful adults? And if you're over 30 and you haven't achieved your goals yet, is it too late? Ed Bickley's been looking into it for us. Ed, what have you found out?

ED OK, well, clearly some talented children go on to do very well as adults. Take Lionel Messi. He started playing football on the street at the age of five. Soon, he was playing against much older boys – and they couldn't get the ball off him. He was so good that he was able to join the Barcelona Junior team when he was 11, and achieved international success at 20. Now he's one of the greatest players in the world!

P A real success story!

E Yes, but what's surprising is that most of these talented children when they grow up don't actually achieve much more than other adults. A recent study followed a group of talented children from 1974 until now. Less than 5% managed to become very successful adults.

P That does seem surprising.

E And now for the good news! If you haven't achieved your goals by the time you're 30, don't give up! Plenty of people have found success much later in life. British fashion designer Vivienne Westwood's first job was in teaching. She always wanted to be a designer, but her successful fashion career didn't begin until she was 30 when she started making clothes for a shop in London called Let it Rock. Then there's Andrea Bocelli. He's been able to sing well since he was a child, but he didn't become a famous classical singer until he was 36. At 41, his album became the most successful classical album by a solo artist of all time, with 5 million copies sold around the world.

P So to do well at something, we don't have to be good at it at a young age?

E That's right. In most cases, talent develops with experience. You need to practise, make mistakes, get frustrated, learn from your mistakes, practise more... it's hard work. You need a lot of patience, a lot of determination. Confidence and a positive attitude help, too. Say to yourself, 'I can do it!' And just maybe you will! And don't worry if your 10-year-old child can't play the piano. Maybe they'll be able to do it when they're a bit older.

P Ed, you've given us all hope! Thank you very much.

c  1.54 Give students time to read through the sentences, then play the recording again. Students compare answers in pairs. Check answers as a class. Ask students to correct the sentences which are false.

Answers

- 1 F An Internet clip had already made him famous before he appeared on TV.
- 2 T
- 3 F The study showed that less than 5% of talented children did very well when they grew up.
- 4 T
- 5 T
- 6 F He believes they learn from their mistakes.

EXTRA ACTIVITY

Ask: Of the four people you've just heard about, whose story do you find most interesting? Why?

Put students into small groups to discuss the question, then take feedback as a class to get a general sense of how the students feel about the four people. You may wish to ask: How do you think Tsung Tsung and Messi's careers will develop in the future?

d  Give students time to think about whether they agree or disagree with the statements and why. First, put students into pairs to discuss their opinions, then put pairs with other pairs to form small groups to extend and develop the discussion. Take feedback as a class to find out whether students generally agree or disagree with each statement.

3 GRAMMAR

Answer

play

 LOA TIP DRILLING

- Give students some controlled practice of the language with this substitution drill. For the first sentence, they listen and repeat. After that, they use the word you give them to change the sentence. Make sure students are stressing the sentences correctly.

I can swim. → I can swim.
she → She can swim.
could → She could swim.
he → He could swim.
couldn't → He couldn't swim.
swim to the island → He couldn't swim to the island.
was able to → He was able to swim to the island.
We → We were able to swim to the island.
managed to → We managed to swim to the island.

- Go through the drill once slowly, then once or twice more at a faster pace until students are producing the sentences comfortably.

- d  Play the recording for students to listen and decide which word is stressed the most. Ask students to repeat the sentence.

Answer

can

- e Put students into pairs to discuss the pronunciation rules. Check answers as a class.

Answers

- don't usually
- usually

- f Individually, students complete the sentences. They then compare answers in pairs. Check answers as a class.

Answers

- was able to / managed to
- managed to / were able to
- been able to
- could
- can't / 'm/am not able to
- be able to

 CAREFUL!

Students at this level make errors with the verb forms which follow these modals, e.g. He can sang very well or He can to sing (Correct form = He can sing ...), They won't be able agree (Correct form = They won't be able to agree).

However, most problems relate to meaning and use. Students don't use be able to enough when talking about an achievement on one occasion or future ability, e.g. I could find his phone number, so I called him (Correct form = I was able to find ...), We'll can visit Sarah (Correct form = We'll be able to visit ...). They overuse be able to when talking about general ability, e.g. I can be able to cook Chinese food (Correct form = I can cook). They may also confuse could and can, e.g. He can walk when he was nine months old (Correct form = He could walk ...).

- g  Students read the information in Grammar Focus 4A on SB p.138. Play the recording where indicated and ask students to listen and repeat. Students then complete the exercises. Check answers as a class. Tell students to go back to SB p.46.

Answers (Grammar Focus 4A SB p.139)

- a 2 He's been able to swim 3 both 4 both 5 could, can't 6 be able to 7 be able to 8 not being able to 9 both 10 be able to
 b 2 to be able to 3 couldn't walk 4 was able to jump
 5 didn't manage to 6 could all swim 7 was able to stand
 8 managed to climb 9 needed to be able 10 can swim

- h Give students five minutes to make notes on the topics. Monitor and help as necessary.

- i  Put students into pairs to talk about the topics. Encourage students to listen carefully to each other and to think of questions to ask at the end. Take feedback as a class.

4 SPEAKING

- a Ask the class a few questions about the graduation photo: What's just happened? How's he feeling? Give students time to read through the topics and prepare what they are going to say. You may wish to give a short, personal example of your own as a model.
- b  Put students into small groups and make sure each student gets a chance to talk for a minute or so. Encourage students to listen carefully to each other and to think of questions to ask at the end. Monitor for correct usage of vocabulary to talk about ability and modals and phrases of ability. Take feedback as a class.

 FAST FINISHERS

Ask fast finishers to discuss which of the points in 4a can help someone to learn English well and why. Check their ideas during class feedback. See if the rest of the class agree.

4B Are you an introvert?

OPTIONAL LEAD-IN

Books closed. Ask students to stand up. Make sure two areas of the classroom have enough space for all the students to stand in, if necessary. Ask: Which do you like best – mornings or evenings? Indicate a 'morning' area of the class and an 'evening' area of the class. Students have to make a quick decision and move to the appropriate area. They can briefly talk to the others there about why they like that option best. Ask the following questions:

Which do you like best:

... reading books or watching films?

... staying in or going out?

... working alone or with a team?

... the city or the countryside?

... summer or winter?

... large or small parties?

If students can't move around the class, they work in small groups and write down their choices in secret before revealing them to the rest of the group and giving reasons for their choice.

1 VOCABULARY -ed/-ing adjectives

- a  Put students into pairs to discuss the questions. Take feedback as a class. Ask who thinks they are introvert and who thinks they are extrovert.

CULTURE NOTE

The 20th-century psychologist Carl Jung identified introverts and extroverts as two basic personality types. According to Jung's theories, everyone is either an introvert (with their focus directed inside themselves, towards their own thoughts and feelings) or an extrovert (with their focus directed outwards, to the people around them and the outside world).

It is generally agreed that this division is too simple and most people are ambiverts, falling somewhere on the scale between introvert and extrovert.

- b Give students time to read the description of the book and the reviews below it. Allow them time to make notes about their ideas, then put them into pairs to discuss the question. Take feedback as a class.

At the end of this lesson, students will be able to:

- use -ed and -ing adjectives to talk about things, people and feelings
- understand an article about introverts
- use a lexical set of personality adjectives correctly
- use articles correctly
- talk about a time when they experienced strong feelings

EXTRA ACTIVITY

Ask students to read the description of the book and the reviews in more detail. Write these statements on the board and give students five minutes to read the texts again and decide if they are true or false.

- 1 Introverts and extroverts need different amounts of sleep. (true)
- 2 Susan Cain is an introvert. (true)
- 3 JD liked speaking in public at school. (false – He/she was often terrified.)
- 4 'Quiet' compares the way introverts are seen in different countries. (false – Susan Cain only writes about society in the USA.)
- 5 'Thinker' didn't find the information about business in the books very interesting. (true)

- i  Put students into pairs. Make sure they understand how the activity works by demonstrating with an example of your own for them to guess. Monitor and listen for correct usage of -ing and -ed adjectives. Take feedback as a class.

2 READING

- a Tell the class that they are going to do a quiz to find out if they are an introvert or an extrovert. Give students about five minutes to read and do the quiz. Once they've counted up their Yes answers, they go to SB p.128 and read about their results.

Put students into small groups to compare their answers and tell each other whether or not they think the results describe them well.

FAST FINISHERS

Ask fast finishers to think of two more statements they could add to the quiz, one for an extrovert and one for an introvert. They can read their statements to the rest of the class during feedback and see which students would tick Yes or No.

- b Put students into small groups to share what they know about the four famous people. Take feedback as a class.
- c Give students up to 10 minutes to read the article and check their ideas. Take feedback as a class.

CULTURE NOTES

Mahatma Gandhi helped to gain freedom for India but he lived a peaceful life and avoided too much attention. He once said, 'In a gentle way, you can shake the world.'

Rosa Parks named her autobiography Quiet Strength. People described her as 'timid and shy' but with 'the courage of a lion'.

Mark Zuckerberg became the world's youngest billionaire in 2008, four years after launching Facebook. He is quiet and thoughtful and described by most people who know him as an introvert.

Angelina Jolie, Oscar-winning actor, has visited more than 30 countries as part of her work for the UNHCR (United Nations High Commissioner for Refugees). She says she likes staying at home and describes herself as 'not very social'.

Vincent Van Gogh spent many hours painting alone. He is quoted as saying, 'often whole days pass without my speaking to anyone'.

Albert Einstein, who developed the Theory of Relativity, is quoted as saying 'the monotony and solitude of a quiet life stimulates the creative mind'.

- d Allow students time to read the questions, then give them up to 10 minutes to read the article again and answer them. Tell students not to worry about the words in bold at this point. Put students into pairs to compare answers. Check answers as a class.

Answers

- 1 The attitude is that the qualities of extroverts are valued more than the qualities of introverts.
- 2 So students can work in groups more easily and put employees in shared offices so they can work in teams.
- 3 Extroverts can communicate introverts' ideas to the world.

- e  Give students time to think about their answers, then put them into small groups to discuss the questions. Take feedback as a class.

EXTRA ACTIVITY

Ask students to think of and write down the names of family and friends that the six personality adjectives describe. Put students into pairs to talk about the people they listed, using the sentences in 3b as examples.

CAREFUL!

Errors with articles are very frequent at this level: students often mix them up, add them unnecessarily, or miss them out altogether.

They may use the or a/an where no article is needed, especially before time periods, e.g. ~~The last week~~, ~~I was #~~ (Correct form = Last week ...) and uncountable nouns, e.g. ~~We need a new software~~ (Correct form = We need new software). There is often confusion about nouns that have both countable/specific meanings and uncountable/general meanings, such as school, life, work and time, e.g. ~~When will she start the school?~~ (Correct form = start school).

Students may miss out the before next, first and last, especially when talking about time, e.g. ~~We had a party on last day~~ (Correct form = ...on the last day). This is also true of the following words: the cinema, the countryside, the city, the same, the time, the park.

Similarly, students often omit a/an after have, e.g. ~~If you have problem, call me!~~ (Correct form = If you have a problem ...). Also, before these words: a very (e.g. good idea), a new (e.g. key), a good (e.g. holiday), a lot, a few, a big (e.g. mistake), a long (e.g. time).

- c  Students read the information in Grammar Focus 4B on SB p.138. Play the recording where indicated and ask students to listen and repeat. Students then complete the exercises. Check answers as a class, making sure students are using the correct articles in their answers. Tell students to go back to SB p.49.

Answers (Grammar Focus 4B SB p.139)

- a 2 Can you give me (some) advice?
3 I want to buy a new shirt.
4 We had good fun at the beach.
5 I want to go to the countryside.
6 I hope we have good weather at the weekend.
7 If you have a problem, call me.
8 I was in shock for a few days.
9 My brother is an engineer.
10 Please visit us if you have time.

- d Give students up to ten minutes to write a paragraph individually. Monitor and help with articles as needed.
- e In pairs, students read and check each other's work. Encourage them to comment on the content of their partner's writing so that they're not only focusing on the use of articles. Monitor and point out errors for students to self-correct.

EXTRA ACTIVITY

Books closed. Put students into teams. Say the quiz questions below. Teams write down the answers. Check answers as a class and give one point for every correct answer and one point for every correct use of articles.

- 1 Which animals have black and white fur and eat bamboo? (\emptyset Pandas)
- 2 In which sea or ocean are the Canary Islands? (the Atlantic Ocean)
- 3 How often is it 3 o'clock? (twice/two times a day)

- 5 Who works in a clinic and looks after your teeth? (a dentist)
- 6 When you travel by taxi, who do you give the money to? (the driver)
- 7 Which river begins in the mountains north-west of Moscow and finishes in the Caspian Sea? (the Volga)
- 8 Where are Chad, Togo and Malawi? (\emptyset Africa)

5 SPEAKING

- a Give students time to read the task and tell them to look at the speech bubble below 5b. Give students up to 10 minutes to think about what they are going to say. Monitor and help as needed.

TIP ELICITING

Students sometimes need help to come up with ideas for a task like 5a. Before they work individually, spend a short time eliciting ideas from the whole class. Ask for examples of possible experiences for the different ideas in the box and possible feelings. Put some of these on the board to encourage weaker members of the group (or the less creative). Tell students that if they cannot think of a real example, they can invent one.

- b  Put students into small groups to talk about their experiences. Monitor, but don't interrupt fluency unless students make mistakes with articles and -ing/-ed adjectives. Take feedback as a class and ask students to say which of the stories were most interesting and why.

- manual/physical work (e.g. lifting and carrying)
- jobs around the house (e.g. DIY)
- housework
- help with your studies
- technical help (e.g. with computers and other equipment)
- medical help (e.g. First Aid)

- B Yes. And there's the beach. It was only a few metres from the hotel.
- R Wow, Becky, these are really good.
- B Thanks. I enjoyed taking them.
- R They're amazing. Actually, can I ask a big favour? You know I'm making a new website, don't you? Well, I need some photos of the shop for it. Do you think you could take them?
- B Hmm, I'm not sure. I'm not a real photographer. It's just a hobby.
- R But I really love your pictures. Will you do it?
- B Well, if you're sure. I'd love to.
- R Great!
- B So, Mark, Tom told me about your internet shopping mistake. You bought a child's desk. Instead of an adult one, didn't you?
- MARK It was an easy mistake to make – could have happened to anyone! Anyway, it all turned out well in the end. Actually, I'm going to get the desk on Saturday.
- B Oh, do you need a hand? I'm sure Tom will help.
- TOM Oh yes? You'll need a bit of muscle!
- R It would be great if you could, wouldn't it, Mark?
- M Yeah, I was wondering how I was going to move it on my own.
- T Why not? But could I ask you a favour in return, Rachel?
- R Yes, of course. What?
- T I'll tell you later.

At the end of this lesson, students will be able to:

LOA TIP CONCEPT CHECKING

Check students' understanding of intonation in question tags. Tell them you're going to say some sentences with question tags and that they have to tell you if you're checking something or asking a real question. Make sure you use falling intonation when checking and rising intonation when asking 'real' questions.

You like swimming, don't you? (checking)

I saw you at the cinema, didn't I? (question)

That man used to be an actor, didn't he? (question)

We're going to miss the bus, aren't we? (checking)

EXTRA ACTIVITY

Ask students to look again at questions 1 and 2 in 2c. Put students into pairs to read them both as if checking something they already think is true, with falling intonation. They can then try reading sentences 3–6 as 'real' questions, with rising intonation.

At the end of this lesson, students will be able to:

- understand people talking about websites they used
- understand online adverts
- understand the style and language of informal adverts
- write an informal online advert

OPTIONAL LEAD-IN

Discuss the following questions as a class:

- What do people advertise for in 'Wanted' adverts? (volunteers, furniture, companions)
- Where do you see them? (websites, magazines, newspapers, shop windows, noticeboards)
- Have you ever written one?
- Have you ever responded to one?

Audioscript

SHEENA Last year, I had some free time and a bit of money to spend. I'd always wanted to go walking and climbing in the Himalayas, but I didn't want to go on my own and none of my friends wanted to go. So I found a website called Travel Groups, where you can contact other people who want to go to the same places as you, and you can join up and go together as a group. Anyway, I found three other people to go with and we all met in Delhi in north India and we travelled together. It worked out really well. I think websites like this are a good idea because lots of people don't want to travel on their own, and it works as long as everyone's reasonably sociable. I'm quite self-confident and I think I'm an extrovert, so I think I'm quite good at getting on with people and making friends.

ALYA I had a few months off after university, so I looked on the internet for volunteer work and found a really good website for last-minute volunteer jobs called the Volunteer Community Project. It was good because you can arrange things straight away and they pay your fares, and you get basic accommodation and food. You don't earn money, but you don't really spend much either. I went to London and worked there with young children from problem families. I didn't have any experience, but that doesn't matter. You just need to be able to get on with kids and understand what they need. I never realised before, but actually it seems like I've got a natural talent for teaching children. So it was a really great experience and now I've decided to train as a primary school teacher.

BRAD I really needed to earn some money and I couldn't get a proper job. Someone told me about this website called Short Work, where people offer short jobs for a few days or a couple of weeks that they need doing, like helping out with things or fixing things for people. I'm quite good at things like that, and I know a bit about electricity and plumbing. I found this advert for a family who've got a large house and needed someone to do some basic work on it. So I went along and chatted to them, and they gave me the job. I think they could see that I was quite serious about it and I was determined to work hard. It was really good. I was only there for two weeks, but in that time I managed to clear their garden, mend their garden fence, I painted three rooms for them, and I got their kitchen light working. So not bad for two weeks' work!

EXTRA ACTIVITY

Ask questions about the photos to help students predict what they will hear.

Photo c: Is this man working in his own garden or in someone else's garden?

Take feedback as a class.

- c Give students time to read through the topics. Play the recording again. Put students in pairs to compare their answers, then check answers as a class.

The expressions in 3d are reduced passive forms in which the verb be is omitted. They catch people's attention without sounding too formal.

No experience is required. Climbing experience is preferred. No qualifications are required.

In the case of 3, the article has also been omitted.

A volunteer is needed.

This kind of 'telegraphic' (only using key words) style is often used in newspaper headlines. Reducing the number of words means larger lettering can be used: the overall effect is attention-grabbing.

Answers

- 1 Assistance is urgently needed.
- 2 A driving licence is required.

4 WRITING An informal online advert

- a Tell students they are going to write an informal 'wanted'/'looking for' advert. Put students into pairs and give them up to 15 minutes to choose a topic, discuss their advert and plan it. Monitor and help as necessary. Remind students to think about wording the advert so that it's not too formal, and encourage them to include reduced expressions like No experience required. Then give a further 5–10 minutes to write the advert out in full. Even though they are working in pairs, each student should write out their own version of the final advert. Make sure they write their name on it.

LO TIP MONITORING

As you may not get the opportunity to check the written work unless you take it in at the end of the lesson, use your monitoring time to point out errors and encourage self-correction at this stage. Focus on the points covered in the lesson, but also look out for basic grammatical, vocabulary or punctuation mistakes too.

- b Students do a final check of their work using the two questions.
- c When all the students have finished writing, they exchange their adverts so that each student has a different advert to look at. Give students 10 minutes to write a reply to their new advert.

When everyone is ready, tell students to give their responses – along with the original adverts – back to the advert writers. In pairs, students look at the two responses and decide who they think sounds more suitable and why.

Give the class feedback on their written work, focusing on the level of formality they used in their adverts and on how effectively they used reduced expressions.

FAST FINISHERS

Ask fast finishers to write another short reply to the same advert, but this time they should write it from the point of view of someone who is not suitable. They should give this back with their other reply to the advert writers.

Do this drill as a class to give controlled practice of so and such for emphasis. Encourage students to say the sentences with the stress on so and such and with a wide intonation range to express feeling.

She sings so well. / good singer → She's such a good singer!

He drives so badly. / bad driver → He's such a bad driver!

She eats so slowly. / slow eater → She's such a slow eater!

She's such a good singer! / so → She sings so well.

He's such a bad driver! / so → He drives so badly.

She's such a slow eater! / so → She eats so slowly.

GETTING STARTED

OPTIONAL LEAD-IN

Books closed. Write the anagram HETHACE on the board and tell students that this is an animal. Find out which student can solve the anagram the fastest (cheetah).

Put students into pairs and ask them to write down as many other animals that live in Africa as they can in three minutes. Stop them after three minutes and check the animals. If you are not sure whether the animal is found in Africa, take a class vote and abide by the decision. Find out the pair with the most animals.

- a Tell students to look at the photo and the title of the unit, The natural world. Give students time to think about the questions, then put them into small groups to discuss their answers.

- b Pre-teach endangered (of animals or plants that may die out because so few still exist). Put students into pairs to discuss the questions. Take feedback as a class.

CULTURE NOTE

Cheetahs live in eastern and southern Africa. There is also a small population in north-eastern Iran. This photo was taken in South Africa.

They eat small to mid-size animals, such as gazelles and impala. Cheetahs don't consider humans as prey (animals to be hunted and caught for food). They generally avoid people if they can, and aren't dangerous in the way that lions, tigers and leopards are. Of course, if you annoy them (for example, by going near their cubs), they will probably hurt you in self-defence.

Cheetahs are an endangered species. There were over 100,000 cheetahs in the last century, but only around 11,000 today. There are two main reasons for this: their habitat has become smaller because of human activity (e.g. farming) and they are sometimes hunted and killed for their fur.

- c Put students into small groups to discuss the questions. Take feedback as a class. Nominate a few students to talk about what they are doing about the environment or endangered animals.

EXTRA ACTIVITY

Ask students to write down five animals they think people probably will no longer see in the wild a hundred years from now. Students should then compare their lists with a partner and see if they agree. Ask for examples with reasons during feedback.

5A People will care more about the environment

At the end of this lesson, students will be able to:

- use a lexical set about the environment to talk about problems and solutions
- read and understand a text about a charity which supports environmental causes
- use future forms correctly
- make predictions about the future

OPTIONAL LEAD-IN

Books closed. Write these groups of words on the board:

- 1 ape, butterfly, panda, fox (They're all mammals except butterfly, which is an insect.)
- 2 orchid, tree, camel, grass (They're all plants except camel, which is an animal.)
- 3 gorilla, snake, crocodile, turtle (They're all reptiles except gorilla, which is a mammal.)
- 4 duck, vulture, shark, penguin (They're all birds except shark, which is a fish.)
- 5 ant, bee, fly, lizard (They're all insects except lizard, which is a reptile.)

Tell students to look at the groups and decide which word is the odd one out in each. Check the meaning of all the words before students give their answers.

Students then compare answers in pairs. Check answers as a class.

1 VOCABULARY Environmental issues

- a Tell students to look at the photo at the bottom of the page and ask: What's the problem here? Why is it happening? What possible solutions are there? Put students into pairs to do the matching task. Check answers as a class. You may wish to point out that the n in environment and environmentally, while not completely silent, isn't pronounced strongly.

Answers

- the environment
- prevent, protect, save, recycle
- damaged
- pollution, climate change
- conservation projects
- wildlife
- endangered
- environmentally friendly

- b  Pronunciation Read through the words in the box, and make sure students know what the vowel sound at the top of each column in the table is. Put students into pairs to complete the table. Encourage them to say the words out loud to each other. Play the recording for students to check their answers.

- c  Play the recording again for students to listen and repeat.
- d  Ask students to read the questions again and choose two that interest them. Put students into small groups to discuss their answers. Take feedback as a class.

- e  Students complete the exercises in Vocabulary Focus 5A on SB p.154. Individually, students do Exercise a. In pairs, students complete Exercise b. Play the recording for students to check their answers. Monitor Exercise c. Put students into small groups to do Exercise d. Tell students to go back to SB p.56.

Answers (Vocabulary Focus 5A SB p.154)

- a 1 natural 2 local 3 limit 4 species 5 survive
6 destroy 7 creature 8 endangered
- b 1 endangered 2 destroyed 3 creature/species 4 natural
5 creatures/species 6 survive 7 limit 8 local

READING

- a Ask: Has anyone heard of the Whitley Fund for Nature? Give students two minutes to read the text and answer the questions. They then compare answers in pairs. Check answers as a class.

Answers

- 1 They give money to environmental projects in different parts of the world.
- 2 They give up to £35,000.
- 3 They can use the money for local environmental projects.

CULTURE NOTE

The Whitley Fund for Nature (WFN) has existed since 1994. Since then, it has awarded more than £10 million to over 160 conservation projects in 70 different countries around the world.

The money is invested in conservationist project leaders who are passionate about their local environment. These are local people who want to build organisations that will balance the needs of the local community as well as the environment and its wildlife. There are Whitley Award winners in every continent, working to preserve all kinds of environments – from deserts, mountain ranges, caves and rainforests to rivers, oceans, wetlands and coral reefs.

- b Students look at the photos on SB p.57 and guess what the three projects are. Elicit suggestions from the class, but don't say if they're correct at this point.
- c Divide the class into groups of three and assign texts a, b and c. Give students up to 10 minutes to individually read their text and answer the comprehension questions. You may wish to put students into pairs or small groups with other students reading the same text if you think they will find the reading difficult. Tell them that they don't need to read the two other texts at this stage. Monitor and help as necessary.

- 4 Yes, he does. He encourages local communities to be proud of the forest's biodiversity, and he manages a project which does biological research in the forest.
- 5 He hopes they will be able to create a safe future for the Ebo forest.

Text b

- 1 Dr Aparajita Datta works in the Pakke Tiger Reserve in north-east India.
- 2 She arrived there to study the local wildlife, and her attention was instantly captured by the hornbills there.
- 3 She leads a programme to conserve hornbills in the region.
- 4 Yes, she works with local people and the government. She tells local people about what the hornbills do.
- 5 She hopes they will find a balance between wildlife conservation and the local communities' needs.

Text c

- 1 Çağan Şekerçioğlu works in different parts of Turkey.
- 2 A local wetland area near where he had played as a child was destroyed.
- 3 In 2008, his aim was to protect the natural environment around Lake Kuyucuk, including 40,000 birds of 227 species. In 2013, he persuaded the Turkish government to create Turkey's first wildlife corridor, the largest conservation project in the country. Four and a half million trees will be planted, which will also allow large animals like the wolf, brown bear, and lynx to move freely and safely.
- 4 Yes, he does. His work has included education programmes for schools.
- 5 He hopes to stop the construction of a dam that could destroy an important wetland.

VOCABULARY SUPPORT

biodiversity – the number and types of plants and animals that exist in a particular area dam – a wall built across a river that stops the river's flow and collects the water resource (B2) – a useful or valuable possession or quality of a country, organisation or person tribe (B2) – a group of people who live together, sharing the same language, culture and history, especially those who do not live in towns or cities

FAST FINISHERS

Ask fast finishers to underline any unfamiliar vocabulary in the part of the article that they read. They should use the context to try to guess the meanings. Check this during feedback.

- d  Put students into groups of three with people who read the other two texts. Students discuss the questions by sharing what they have learnt from their text. Take feedback as a class.

EXTRA ACTIVITY

Use these extra reading questions to exploit the reading text further. Write the questions on the board and tell students to look through the whole article to find the answers.

- 1 Why is the Nigeria-Cameroon chimpanzee amazing? (It uses tools to catch fish and open fruit.)
- 2 Why is the Goliath frog special? (It's the largest frog in the world.)
- 3 Why are the rainforests in north-east India so important to some tribes? (The tribes depend on them for resources.)
- 4 What different kinds of natural environments are there in Turkey, according to the article? (Mediterranean forests, coastal mountains, wetlands.)
- 5 What is a 'Wildlife Corridor'? (It's an area created in order to join environments together so that animals can move between them freely and safely.)

3 GRAMMAR Future forms

- a  Ask students what they can see in the photos at the top of the page. Check that they know where Costa Rica is. Tell students they're going to listen to a conversation between Masha and her friend Phil. Give students time to read the question, then play the recording. Check the answer as a class.

Answer

Masha doesn't know much about the project, only that it's something to do with looking after turtles.

Audioscript

- PHIL Are they environmentally friendly in Costa Rica? Do they protect their rainforests and animals?
- MASHA Well, yes they do. The government is doing a lot, but it takes quite a long time for forests to recover if they've already been cut down. They'll probably grow back, but not immediately.
- P Are you going to work in the rainforests?
- M No, no I'm not. I'll be by the sea. I'm going to work on a project that looks after turtles.
- P Turtles? That's very cool. But how do you look after turtles? I mean, what do you do?
- M Well, to be honest – I don't really know! Tomorrow I'm meeting someone who worked on the project, and she's going to tell me about the kinds of things I'm going to do.
- P So, who else works on the project? Just people from overseas or local people too?
- M I'm not sure about that either. Perhaps I'll work with local people as well.
- P So, you're off to save the world. I think that's great.
- M Don't know about saving the world. But I'll definitely be able to save some turtles! And I'm going to make the most of my time in Costa Rica and learn some Spanish too.
- P Let me know how things go.
- M Sure. Actually, I'm going to keep a blog, so I'll write regular updates on the blog and you can follow that.
- P Good idea. I'm sure you'll have a great time.
- M Yeah, so am I.

CULTURE NOTE

Costa Rica, in Central America, has a population of about 4.5 million. One fifth of this country is covered by forest: both tropical dry forest and tropical rainforest. The country has over 2,000 different kinds of trees, 9,000 species of flowering plants, 200 species of reptiles and many kinds of mammals and insects.

LO TIP MONITORING

Give sentence starters to the class and nominate different students to complete the sentence in their own words.

- 1 After class, I'm going to ...
- 2 At the weekend, I'll probably ...
- 3 Next lesson, we'll ...
- 4 On Saturday afternoon, I'm ...

CAREFUL!

Students at this level sometimes have difficulty using will for predictions correctly, e.g. I think you enjoy/enjoying it (Correct form = I think you will/'ll enjoy it). A common problem is will be, with students often using the present simple instead, e.g. Tonight, there's food, drinks, music and dancing (Correct form = Tonight, there'll be food, drink...).

The most common error with be going to is to use will instead, e.g. My parents will travel around the world next year (Correct form = My parents are going to travel ...). Students also sometimes use the present simple or continuous where be going to would be more appropriate.

Students sometimes avoid using shall for its appropriate uses (making offers, asking opinions), but they may also use it incorrectly when should, would, must or can would be better.

- d Put students into pairs to do the task. Check answers as a class.

Answers

1 a bit sure, probably 2 very sure, definitely
3 a bit sure, Perhaps 4 very sure, sure

LANGUAGE NOTE

I'm sure ..., definitely and probably can be used with be going to for future predictions that we have some degree of certainty about. Highlight the position of probably and definitely (between be and going to):

- I'm sure you're going to have a good time.
- We're definitely going to win!
- It's probably going to rain.

- e Give students a minute to read Masha's blog. Individually, students choose the best phrases. Check answers as a class. Ask: Would you like to work on the same conservation project as Masha? Why/Why not? and find out what different students think.

Answers

- f Students read the information in Grammar Focus 5A on SB p.140. Play the recording where indicated and ask students to listen and repeat. Students then complete the exercises. Check answers as a class, making sure students are using the most appropriate future forms. Tell students to go back to SB p.58.

Answers (Grammar Focus 5A SB p.141)

6 will you be 7 will probably finish/is probably going to finish
8 Shall I pick 9 are you staying 10 I'm going to be/'ll be 11 'll phone 12 'll be

- g Give students time to write predictions about their partner. Monitor and help as necessary. You may wish to write some adverbs and expressions of time and place on the board for them to add to the end of their sentences, e.g. soon, this week, in the next few years, in this country, in this town.

- h Put students into pairs to discuss their predictions. Ask students to make a note of how many of their partner's predictions they agree with. Take feedback as a class.

EXTRA ACTIVITY

Write this task on the board:

Work in pairs. Plan these things:

- a meal
- a day out
- an evening out

Put students into pairs and encourage them to use Shall we ...?, Shall I ...? and I'll ... as they make their plans. Monitor and listen for correct usage of the target language from this lesson. Take feedback as a class.

4 SPEAKING

- a Give students a few minutes to read and change the sentences where necessary. Encourage students to justify their answers as far as possible. They can note down the key words and phrases they will need to use for this. Monitor and help as necessary.
- b Put students into small groups to compare, discuss and justify their views. Monitor, making sure they're asking each other questions and noting how well they are using the vocabulary from the lesson and future forms. Towards the end of the activity, remind them to think about the two questions: do they generally agree with each other and are they optimistic or pessimistic about the future? Take feedback as a class.

How many natural things (objects and materials) can you see inside the classroom? Make a list.

Put students into small groups to compare their lists.

1 LISTENING

- a In pairs or small groups, students look at photos a and b and discuss the questions. Elicit students' ideas but don't check answers at this point.
- b Pre-teach inspire (to give someone an idea for a book, film, product, etc.). Students read the TV guide extract. Check answers as a class.

- 2 Velcro is used for fixing two things together, e.g. a strap on a shoe.

EXTRA ACTIVITY

Write these questions on the board.

- 1 When was Velcro invented? (1948)
- 2 Who invented it? (George de Mestral, a Swiss engineer)
- 3 How did the plant inspire him? (He noticed how the seeds stuck to his dog's fur.)

Put students into pairs to ask and answer the questions. Take feedback as a class.

Audioscript

PRESENTER I visited biologist

Andrew Parker to find out more about how the natural world has inspired everyday objects. Andrew, hello! What's this little animal you've got here?

ANDREW It's a thorny dragon lizard from the Australian desert. As you can see, it's quite small, about 20cm long. But it's an amazing animal. You see, what I'm really interested in is what this little creature can teach us about collecting water.

P OK.

A So, as I said, this lizard lives in the desert in Australia. And, as you know, it's an incredibly dry place. But this lizard manages to live there very successfully. And we've discovered one of the reasons for this. If the lizard puts a foot somewhere wet – even just a tiny, tiny bit wet – its skin pulls the water up and over its whole body. When the water reaches the lizard's mouth, it drinks it.

At the end of this lesson, students will be able to:

- understand a conversation from a programme about how things from the natural world inspired inventions
- use the zero and first conditional correctly
- use a lexical set about the natural world correctly
- understand an article about how animals adapt to their environments
- talk about the best place to experience the natural beauty of their country

P That's very clever!

A Yes. On the lizard's skin, well, in fact, in the skin, we discovered there's like a system of very, very small pipes. So the skin collects the water and these pipes pull it towards the lizard's mouth.

P That sounds really efficient.

A Well, right, yeah. So, you see, we want to copy that system and use it in a device that collects water. If we are successful, the device will provide water for people who live in very dry environments.

P That's fantastic. And what other ideas have we taken from nature?

A Engineers are doing a lot with robots these days. For example, there's the rescue robot. It's just like a spider because it moves on eight legs. And so it can move very quickly and make itself very small. So these rescue robots will be able to help people who are stuck in small spaces, or who are trapped in buildings, for example, if there's an earthquake.

P So they'll be able to help save lives.

A Exactly. And then we're looking at seashells, which are very strong, but, at the same time, they're very light – they don't weigh much at all. Scientists have discovered that seashells are made of lots of tiny blocks that fit together, but this makes them really hard to break. The plan is to copy this material to make safety equipment such as gloves and helmets.

P So this material will protect people like a shell protects a turtle.

A That's right. And again, this could help save lives.

- e Give students time to read the summary, then play the recording again. Check answers as a class.

Answers

- 1 skin 2 collect 3 dry 4 quickly 5 rescue 6 small 7 strong 8 equipment

- f Individually, students answer the question.

- g Put students into small groups to compare ideas and discuss the question. Take feedback as a class. Ask students if they know of any other man-made things inspired by the natural world.

2 GRAMMAR Zero and first conditional

- a Put students into pairs to complete the rules. Check answers as a class. Remind students that the if-clause can be the second part of the sentence. In that case, we don't use a comma to separate the clauses.

Answers

- 1 first conditional
2 zero conditional

LOA TIP CONCEPT CHECKING

Write these two gapped sentences on the board and ask students to complete them:

– If spiders _____ (need) to get into small spaces, they _____ (can) make themselves very small.

– If you _____ (try) to break a sea shell, you _____ (find) it very difficult.

Ask concept-checking questions to confirm understanding:

– If spiders need to get into small spaces, they can make themselves very small. Is this something that's generally true, or only a future possibility? (generally true, so we use the zero conditional)

– If you try to break a seashell, you'll find it very difficult. Is this something that's generally true, or only a future possibility? (a future possibility, so we use the first conditional).

- b Give students time to complete the rules. Check answers as a class.

Answers

1 If 2 when

CAREFUL!

The most common student error with the first conditional is to use will or the past simple instead of the present simple in the if-clause, e.g. If I'll have enough money, I'll go there with my friends. (Correct form = If I have ...).

Another area of difficulty for students at this level can be the confusion between if and when, e.g. When you need to book accommodation, you can ask us (Correct form = if you need to book ...) and if term finishes, I'll have to take an exam (Correct form = When term finishes, ...).

- c Put students into pairs to complete the text. Check answers as a class.

- d Students read the information in Grammar Focus 5B on SB p.140. Play the recording where indicated and ask students to listen and repeat. Students then complete the exercises. spider: web

EXTRA ACTIVITY

Books closed. Ask students these questions to check the vocabulary.

- 1 What grows out from the main part of a tree? (branches)

50 Everyday English

Why did you become a florist?

OPTIONAL LEAD-IN

Books closed. Divide the class into four or five groups and give students two minutes to make a list of as many hobbies and interests as they can think of connected to these aspects of the natural world:

- animals, birds and fish
- rivers, seas and lakes
- hills and mountains
- flowers, trees and plants

After two minutes, collate their answers by telling a student from each group to come to the board and write their list. Leave the list there for the first activity of the lesson.

1 LISTENING

- a Establish with the class some general categories of hobbies, e.g. art, games, music, sports, outdoor activities, etc. Put students into pairs or small groups to discuss the questions. Take feedback as a class.
- b Ask the class if they can remember what Rachel's job is (she's a florist). Point out that Rachel owns her own shop. She doesn't work for someone else. Put students into pairs to discuss the questions. Take feedback as a class.
- c Play Part 1 of the video or audio recording for students to see if Becky and Rachel mention any of their ideas.

Video/audioscript (Part 1)

- BECKY Hi!
- RACHEL Oh hi, Becky.
- B How are you?
- R I'm fine, thanks.
- B So, are you ready for your photoshoot?
- R Ha! I guess so.
- B The shop looks great!
- R Oh, that's because of Tina. She spent the morning cleaning up!
- B Well, she did a great job. So Tina, are you going to be in the photos too?
- TINA No, I hate having my photo taken!
- B I see! Anyway, if you're ready.
- R Make sure you get my good side!
- B You look great!
- R Thank you! So, how do you want to do this?
- B Let me see. I think it would be best if I just take some natural shots of you looking busy with the flowers.
- R OK.
- B Hmm! That's really good!
- R Oh, shall I carry on?
- B Yes, that's great. So, why did you become a florist?
- R That's a good question, I've always loved flowers, ever since I was a little girl, so it seemed a natural thing for me to do. I think it's really important that you do something that you enjoy.
- B Fantastic! Yeah, it must be nice to have a job like yours, the freedom you have, and you can be creative, and you're your own boss.
- R You sound like you don't enjoy your job.
- B No, not at the moment. Not for a while, actually.
- R Really? What's wrong with it?
- B Oh, lots of things. For instance, all I seem to do is deal with other people's problems, like issues with their pay or holidays. And I hate being stuck inside an office all day, staring at the clock.
- R Oh dear!
- B I wish I had a job where I could travel the world, spread my wings, be free!
- R Such as?

At the end of this lesson, students will be able to:

- understand informal conversations in which people talk about decisions they have made
- use appropriate phrases for talking about reasons, results and examples
- give themselves time to think in conversations
- pronounce voiced and unvoiced consonants
- maintain informal conversations based around decisions

- B I don't know, that's the problem. ... Lovely!
- R Can I see?
- B Sure. Here you go.
- R Hmm! That's great.
- B Thank you.
- R Well, how about becoming a professional photographer? You're really good!
- B I don't know. Tina, how about a quick shot of you and Rachel together?
- T Do I have to?
- B Oh, go on! Just stand by Rachel for a moment.

- d Play Part 1 of the video or audio recording again. Put students into pairs to discuss the answers. Check answers as a class.

Put students into pairs. Ask them to write down the beginnings of four sentences finishing with a word or phrase from the box. Give them an example, e.g. I missed my train home from work yesterday. As a result ... They should swap sentences with another pair for them to complete. If you have a strong group, they can write the sentences individually and ask their partner to finish them. 4 CONVERSATION SKILLS

Giving yourself time to think

FAST FINISHERS

Ask fast finishers to write more W/h-questions to ask other students. Encourage them to write the kind of questions that their partner might need time to think about. Put them into pairs to ask and answer the questions.

5 PRONUNCIATION

Voiced and unvoiced consonants

LANGUAGE NOTE

Many voiced consonants have an unvoiced 'partner':

- /b/ and /p/
- /g/ and /k/
- /d/ and /t/
- /v/ and /f/, etc.

The focus in this lesson is on the voiced consonant /b/ and unvoiced consonant /p/.

- a 2.11 Pronunciation Give students time to read the task, then play the recording for students to hear the sounds.
- b In pairs, students do the task and complete the rules. Check answers as a class.

Answers

- 1 /b/ 2 /p/

- c  2.19 Give students time to look at the pairs of words, then play the recording for students to decide which words they hear. Check answers as a class by playing the audio again and pausing it after each word. Write the correct answers on the board.

Answers

- 1 bay
- 2 pie
- 3 bear
- 4 rope
- 5 pride

- d  2.20 Play the recording for students to practise saying the pairs of words in 5c.

Answers

The words with 'b' are voiced. The words with 'p' are not voiced.

LO TIP DRILLING

Repetition drills can help pronunciation a lot because the more we repeat something, the more it becomes a pattern that we remember. Write the pairs of words on the board and model each pair for the class to repeat. To vary the drill, sometimes nominate an individual student to repeat the word. Students can then repeat the drill in pairs with one student pointing at a word for their partner to say:

lap/lab, plank/blank, park/bark, pump/bump, tap/tab

6 SPEAKING

-   Divide the class into pairs and assign A and B roles. Tell Student Bs to turn to SB p.128. Give students about five minutes to read their role cards and prepare what they're going to say in each conversation. They will need to use their imagination to answer the questions about their situation and they also need to prepare some questions to ask each other. Encourage them to think about what reasons, results and examples they can include. Monitor and help as necessary.

Put them into pairs to have their conversations. Monitor and listen for correct usage of the target language from this lesson.

5D Skills for Writing

Looking after the seas

At the end of this lesson, students will be able to:

- understand a live news report
- understand an essay about pollution
- organise an essay correctly
- use phrases for signposting an essay correctly
- write a discussion essay on an environmental issue

OPTIONAL LEAD-IN

Books closed. Write this word snake on the board:

shorebucketfloattowelwetsuitmarinenet

Tell students there are seven words in the word snake connected with the topic of water. Ask: Can you find the seven words?

After a minute, invite one or two students to the board to circle the words (shore, bucket, float, towel, wetsuit, marine, net).

Make sure students understand what all the words mean by telling them to turn to SB p.64 and asking these questions:

- Which of the words can you see in the photos? (shore, wetsuit)
- Which word means 'connected with the sea'? (marine)
- What can you dry yourself with? (a towel)
- What do you carry water in? (a bucket)
- What do people use to catch fish? (a net)
- What's the opposite of 'float'? (sink)

1 SPEAKING AND LISTENING

a Put students into small groups to discuss the question. If they need some ideas to get them going, ask: Where do they live? How many different kinds of whales can you name? How big are they? What dangers do they face? How do they breathe? How do they communicate?

b In pairs, students do the quiz and check on SB p.127.

c 2.21 Pre-teach come ashore (arrive on land after being in or on the water). Students look at the photo of people on a beach. Ask: What are they doing? (helping whales who have come ashore and can't swim away). Play the recording for students to listen and answer the questions.

Answers

- 1 Up to 30 whales have come ashore, but Liz is looking after one whale.
- 2 In a group of four people.
- 3 The whale floated when the tide came in and swam back out to sea.

Audioscript

LIZ I'm on my way to Lane Cove where between 20 and 30 whales have come ashore and can't get back out to sea again. When I get to Lane Cove, I'm meeting Sam Collins from the Marine Life Service. I'm going to help Sam and a team of local people to try and save these whales. OK, I've just arrived and talked to Sam. It's quite cold, so I think I'll change into my wetsuit before going down onto the beach to work with other people who've come here to help these whales. So far about 50 people have turned up and more are coming. If more people come, we'll have a chance of succeeding. So, I'm in a team of four people and we're looking after just one poor whale. Sam says it's female, and what we've done is we've covered her with wet towels and we're pouring buckets of water over her to keep her cool. We have to be careful where we put the towels. If we cover her blowhole, she won't be able to breathe. Sam says our whale's in good condition and he thinks she'll survive. The tide's coming in soon.

I'm going to help dig up sand around the whale to make a hole. When the water comes in, it'll fill up the hole. Better get going ...
Yes! Success! The tide came in, our whale floated again. There were about five of us. We pushed and pushed and she fought back a bit, then she took off. What a great feeling! She's swimming back out to sea. I think she's going to be OK.

d 2.21 Pre-teach tide (the rise and fall of the sea that happens twice a day). Play the recording again for students to listen and complete the sentences. Check answers as a class.

Answers

- 1 life
- 2 cold
- 3 wet
- 4 cool
- 5 cover
- 6 hole
- 7 push

EXTRA ACTIVITY

Ask: Do you know what other dangers whales face? Put students into pairs to discuss the question. Take feedback as a class. Possible ideas include the following:

- getting caught in the fishing nets of fishermen who are catching other kinds of fish (this is the biggest threat not only to whales but also to dolphins).
- whaling (people catching whales for their meat and oil).
- water or noise pollution (ships and underwater equipment create noises which interfere with the communication between whales).
- climate change is making the seas and oceans warmer; as a result, some of the species of fish that whales eat are dying out.

2 READING

a Students look at the essay quickly. Give students one minute to find the answer to the question. Check the answer as a class. To expand on this answer, ask: How does Tomas, the writer, suggest we can do this? (We should remember to take our rubbish away with us when we have been near water.)

Answer

All of us.

b Give students five minutes to read the essay again and complete the task. Check answers as a class.

3 WRITING SKILLS Organising an essay; signposting language

- a Put students into pairs to answer the question, then check the answer as a class.

Answer

- b Point out that we use signposting phrases to make the structure of an essay clear to the reader. Put students into pairs to answer the questions, then check the answers as a class. Elicit the phrase that introduces the final paragraph (in conclusion). Remind students that they can use Firstly, ... as well as First of all, ... to introduce the first topic.

Answers

- 1 Paragraph 2
- 2 It introduces a new topic.
- 3 Secondly; Finally

- c Individually, students answer the questions. They then compare answers in pairs.

Answers

- 1 the reader
- 2 people in general
- 3 Tomas uses you to communicate directly with the reader. He uses we to try to suggest that most people will think like this.
- 4 'I would say that'

4 WRITING

- a Tell students they are going to write an essay on an environmental issue. They can choose a topic from the box or their own idea.

If you think students need help generating ideas for their essays, put them into pairs or small groups to discuss some of the topics in the box and see which they feel most strongly and have most ideas about.

Monitor and help as necessary. Make sure they have made notes on each of the five paragraphs before they begin writing.

- b  Put students into pairs to compare their ideas.
- c Allow up to 20 minutes for students to write their essays. Monitor and point out errors for students to self-correct.

FAST FINISHERS

Fast finishers can look again at the topics in the box and write down three main points for each one. This will prepare them for when they read other students' essays at the next stage.

LOA PREPARE FOR SUCCESS!

Ask students to write down some information about the natural world that they have learned in this unit. These should be things that they didn't know about before studying the unit. They should then compare the information they have written down in pairs. Check ideas during feedback and ask which is the most important piece of information they think they've learned and why.

- d  When all the students have finished, tell them to read each other's essays (at least three, if possible) and think about whether they agree or disagree with the other students' opinions.

Give the class feedback on their written work, focusing on the structure of their essays, the signposting phrases they used and how they communicated with the reader in the introduction and conclusion.

GETTING STARTED

OPTIONAL LEAD-IN

Books closed. Tell students about a festival from your country. Say when it happens, what it includes and what it celebrates. Then put them into pairs. If you have a class made up of different nationalities, ask them to tell their partner about a festival from their countries. If you have a class from the same country, ask them to choose a festival and describe it to their partner without giving the name for their partner to guess. Take feedback as a class and ask the class to vote on what sounds like the most interesting festival.

- a Students look at the photo and the title of the unit, Different cultures. Put students into pairs or small groups to discuss the questions for a few minutes, guessing as much as they can about the people in the photo. Take feedback as a class.

Although there are no right or wrong answers to these questions, use the discussion to bring out the themes which run through this unit (of experiencing different cultures by spending time in other countries).

CULTURE NOTE

The photograph shows two visitors to Chiang Mai in Thailand, talking to a Thai woman dressed in traditional clothes. Chiang Mai is the largest city in northern Thailand and is very popular with tourists. It used to be an ancient walled city and visitors can still see the old walls and visit the historic town. The attractions of Chiang Mai include many ancient temples and festivals. Visitors can see traditional clothes, dance and music as well as taste traditional food.

- b Students discuss the questions in pairs or small groups. Take feedback as a class.

EXTRA ACTIVITY

Ask students to tell their partners which country's culture they would like to learn more about and why. Ask for ideas during feedback.

6A You have to use pedestrian crossings

OPTIONAL LEAD-IN

Books closed. Ask students what comes to mind when they think about the 'culture' of a different country (e.g. food, language, music, religion and other beliefs, clothing, etc.).

Draw a simple compass in the middle of the board with the abbreviated compass points marked on it.

Elicit eight places (countries, regions or cities, near or far) that are in eight different directions from where you all are right now. Write the place names on the board at the relevant points on the compass.

Put students into small groups and ask them to talk about which (if any) of the places on the board they have visited. Ask: What do you know about the culture in those places? Is it similar to or very different from your culture? Students discuss the questions. Take feedback as a class.

1 READING AND SPEAKING

- a Put students into small groups to discuss the questions for a couple of minutes. At the feedback stage, choose five or six of the most difficult jobs they mention and write them on the board.
- b Ask students to look at the photos which are with The Toughest Place to be a .... Put students into pairs to discuss what they can see and which country they think each photo was taken in.

Students then read The Toughest Place to be a ... and answer the questions. Give students one or two minutes to do this before comparing their answers in pairs. Take feedback as a class.

VOCABULARY SUPPORT

densely (B2) – with a lot of things close together episode (B2) – one of the single parts into which a story is divided, especially when it is broadcast on television or radio jeepney (B1) – a means of public transport in the Philippines, similar to a bus tough (B2) – difficult to do or deal with

CULTURE NOTE

The Toughest Place to be a ... was a BBC TV documentary series, first shown in 2011. Among the jobs and places featured were a paramedic (in Guatemala), a bus driver (Philippines), a midwife (Liberia), a refuse collector (Indonesia), a fisherman (Sierra Leone), a train driver (Peru), a miner (Mongolia), a ferryman (Bangladesh), a nurse (Mexico) and a farmer (Kenya).

The series raised awareness of the difficult situations in which people in the host countries have to work, compared with conditions in the UK.

At the end of this lesson, students will be able to:

- talk about jobs they would like to do or think are difficult
- recognise and form compound nouns
- understand a conversation about a documentary
- use a lexical set of multi-word verbs correctly
- use modals of obligation
- give advice on living or working in a different country

2 VOCABULARY Compound nouns

- a Ask: Can you see a compound noun in the title of this lesson? (pedestrian crossings = safe places to cross a road, marked by lights and/or black and white stripes).

Give students one minute to read through the rules about compound nouns. Students then underline the compound nouns in the article and check answers in pairs. Take feedback as a class, writing the compound nouns on the board.

Answers

taxi driver, Emergency Department, bus driver, firefighter, forest fires, culture shock, workplace, living conditions

LANGUAGE NOTE

A compound noun is a single item, composed of two parts. It can be difficult to decide whether two words are an adjective + noun phrase or a compound noun. Usually, a compound noun cannot be interrupted by other items, e.g. new country is not a compound noun because it could be interrupted (a new and interesting country). Similarly, working environment can be interrupted (working and living environment).

We usually (but not always) stress the first word in compound nouns and the second word in adjective + noun phrases. Compare a greenhouse (compound noun = a glass building for growing plants in) and a green house (adjective + noun = a house painted green).

- b Pronunciation Play the recording for students to listen and check. Then put students into pairs to practise saying the compound nouns.

Answer

We usually stress the first word in the compound noun.

- c Put students into pairs to complete the exercise. Check answers as a class.

Answers

- 1 pedestrian crossing
- 2 air conditioning
- 3 rush hour
- 4 traffic lights
- 5 traffic jam
- 6 cycle lane

- d Give students two minutes to complete the email. They then compare answers in pairs.

Answers

- 1 rush hour
- 2 traffic lights
- 3 pedestrian crossing
- 4 traffic jam
- 5 air conditioning
- 6 cycle lane

- e Put students into pairs and tell them to turn to SB p.129. Give them two minutes to find as many compound nouns as they can.

Find out which pair has found the most compound nouns. Check answers as a class. Point out that all the compound nouns in this list are stressed on their first word apart from pedestrian crossing. Tell students to turn to SB p.69.

Suggested answers

traffic lights, road sign, pedestrian crossing, cycle lane, ambulance driver, ice cream, ice-cream van, taxi driver, sunglasses, bus driver, headscarf, walking stick, market stall, hairbrushes, toothbrushes, toothpaste, cash machine, bookshop, washing line, swimming costume, swimming pool, sports centre, football, football pitch, football players, car park, ticket machine, litter/rubbish bin

3 LISTENING

- a Ask students to read about the episode and to think about what a UK taxi driver would find difficult about working in one of India's largest cities. Take feedback as a class.

At this stage, you could ask if anyone in the class has been to Mumbai or anywhere else in India. If so, find out about their experience of travelling by road.

- b Play the recording for students to tick the things that are mentioned.

HARRY Hi, Mel!

MEL Ah, there you are! Hi.

GEMMA We were just talking about that programme last night – that Toughest Place to be ... Did you see it?

M No, why?

H It was about this London taxi driver ...

G Mason something.

H ... and he went to Mumbai. It looks like a nightmare – really, really busy roads, and people and cars all over the place! And people – even little kids – walking through the traffic.

M So ... what, did the guy have to be a taxi driver in Mumbai? I've seen some of that series. It's such a culture shock for the people when they discover how different their job is somewhere else.

G Yeah. This one was good. Mason was a very likeable guy, you know, and he got on really well with Pradeep, the guy who showed him around. You really wanted him to do OK, and he did in the end. He didn't find it easy, though. He'd spent about three years in London learning all the street names and where everything was. And then he only had a week in Mumbai to learn the job. And apart from anything else, it was so hot.

M Yeah, I can imagine.

H He drove two different cars and neither of them were 'cool cabs' – that's what they call the taxis there with air conditioning – and the temperature was over 40°, so he was finding it really difficult. And in the old car he had to use hand signals instead of lights to indicate left and right.

M Bit different from London! And did he manage on his own OK?

H Yes, it was amazing, actually. He learned how to get around the city pretty quickly, and he did all right when he went out on his own. He picked up a few phrases of the local language and of course a lot of people in India speak English.

M Mm-hmm.

H But there's a lot of competition, so he had to work really hard to get passengers.

M I guess that's true for all taxi drivers in Mumbai.

- G Well, yeah. It was clear that taxi drivers in Mumbai have to work very hard and don't earn much money. Pradeep works 15 hours a day to support his family and his brother's family, and only earns about £10 a day. When Mason went back to London, he collected money to send to Pradeep and his family.
- M Wow, that's really good of him.
- H Yeah, so, anyway, I guess we should check out the menu ...

- c Give students a minute to read through the sentences. Then play the recording again. They then compare answers in pairs.

- d Put students into small groups to discuss the questions. Take feedback as a class.

EXTRA ACTIVITY

Put students into pairs. Ask them to read about the three other people in the programme on SB p.68 again. They should choose one of these people or another person who might have been featured, e.g. a teacher, and discuss what changes and difficulties the person might have faced. They then swap pairs and take turns to role-play an interview with their new partner. Take feedback and nominate some pairs to repeat their roleplays if appropriate.

4 VOCABULARY Multi-word verbs

- a Put students into pairs to complete the sentences. Play the recording for students to check.

Answers and audioscript

- 2 He learned how to get around the city pretty quickly.
- 3 He picked up a few phrases of the local language.

FAST FINISHERS

Write these multi-word verbs with around on the board and ask fast finishers what they might mean:

- 1 bounce around (be moved around by the movement of something, e.g. in a car)
- 2 glance around (look around quickly)
- 3 hang around (wait with nothing to do)
- 4 pass something around (transfer something from person to person)
- 5 throw something around (throw something from person to person)

5 GRAMMAR Modals of obligation

- a  Discuss the question as a class.
- b Give students two minutes to read Culture shock and find four things people might find difficult about living in another culture. Check answers as a class.

Answers

Life feels too fast or too slow; the food tastes strange; you miss your favourite television programmes; laws are different.

- c  Put students into small groups to discuss the question, then take feedback by asking each group to summarise their experiences of culture shock.
- d Tell students that obligation refers to rules, laws and other pressures from outside, while advice refers to helpful suggestions. Give students one minute to read the text again and underline any words or phrases which express obligation or advice. You may wish to tell students that they also have to find an example of a lack of obligation (don't have to spoil). They then compare answers in pairs.

Answers

obligation: have to move, mustn't do, can do, don't have to spoil advice: ought to be prepared

- e Put students into pairs to complete the grammar rules. Check answers as a class.

Answers

- 1 ought to, should
- 2 don't have to
- 3 have to, must
- 4 can't, mustn't
- 5 can

CAREFUL!

Students are likely to make a number of errors of form and use with modals of obligation.

Problems with form include using the wrong verb form after a modal, e.g. I must to go (Correct form = I must go). With have to, students may also contract the structure inappropriately, e.g. I've to go to the doctor (Correct form = I have to go ...). They also make mistakes with word order, e.g. We have also to wear a uniform (Correct form = We also have to wear ...).

The difference between mustn't and don't have to can also be difficult for students at this level, e.g. You don't have to eat too many sweets. They're bad for you. (Correct form = You mustn't eat ...), and I mustn't go to the shops. There's enough milk (Correct form = I don't have to go ...).

- f  2.25–2.27 Students read the information in Grammar Focus 6A on SB p.142. Play the recording where indicated and ask students to listen and repeat. Students then complete the exercises. Check answers as a class. Tell students to go back to SB p.70.

Answers (Grammar Focus 6A SB p.143)

- a 2 had to 3 Does (Alex) have to 4 mustn't 5 didn't have to 6 must 7 have to 8 mustn't
- b 2 don't have to pay 3 mustn't/shouldn't leave
4 mustn't/can't use 5 must/should only use

- g Give students up to five minutes to think about rules associated with travel and transport in their country and to complete the sentences. Monitor and help as necessary.

If your class is multi-national, put students from different countries in groups to compare their answers. Take feedback as a class.

- h Give students up to 10 minutes to prepare some advice and rules. Monitor and help with vocabulary as necessary.
- i  Put students into pairs or small groups to discuss their tips. They should listen to each other's rules carefully and then discuss questions 1–3. Take feedback as a class and ask a student from each group to read out one or two rules connected with safety and one or two rules about being polite to people. Encourage a full class discussion about the most important rules.

6 SPEAKING

- a Tell students to imagine they can work or study anywhere they want to in the world. It could be in a different part of their own country, or in a foreign country far away. Give students time to make notes on the questions. Monitor and help students with any language they need.
- b  Put students into pairs to tell each other about where they would like to go and why, and to give each other advice. Monitor and check that students are using modals of obligation appropriately. Nominate a few pairs to perform their conversations for the class.

LOA TIP MONITORING

When students are having a paired discussion like this, it can be easy for a more dominant student to do most of the talking. As you monitor, try to redress the balance if possible by gesturing to the quieter speaker to make a contribution or by asking him/her directly, e.g. What else should your partner think about? What sort of clothes should he/she take?

OPTIONAL LEAD-IN

Books closed. Ask students to think of the different kinds of food and drink they have had so far today. Tell them to write the names of the ingredients, rather than just the dish, e.g. beefburger = beef, onions, lettuce, bread, etc. They then compare lists with a partner and create a combined list of their words. Elicit a few examples and write them on the board. Check the spelling, pronunciation and form of the words.

1 VOCABULARY Describing food

- use comparative and superlative adjectives correctly
- read and understand a blog post about eating out in Singapore
- talk about a special meal that they have made or eaten

EXTRA ACTIVITY

Write these pairs of words on the board with the vowels underlined, and ask students to decide if the pronunciation of the vowel sounds is the same (S) or different (D).

2 sour – soup (D)

3 creamy – sweet (S)

4 rich – bitter (S)

5 raw – sauce (S)

6 heavy – creamy (D)

7 slice – light (S)

8 tasty – grapes (S)

Check answers as a class. Then ask students to practise saying the words.

- e Pronunciation Play the recording for students to listen and repeat the words. Put students into pairs to practise saying the words.
- f Write the following question on the board: What should I eat while I'm here? Tell the class to imagine they are giving advice to a visitor to their town. Give students time to prepare what they are going to talk about. If they can't think of an appropriate local dish, they can think of a national dish that someone from another country might not know. Monitor and help with vocabulary if necessary.

Put students into pairs to conduct the roleplay. Student B is the visitor and can begin the conversation by asking: What should I eat while I'm here? Monitor and note down any common errors to deal with during feedback.

- g Students change roles for the second roleplay. Monitor and point out errors for students to self-correct. Take feedback as a class and ask a few students to say how well their partner described the dish. Would they like to eat it? Why/Why not?

2 LISTENING

- a  Ask students to look at the photo and elicit the name of the machine the woman is using (a vending machine). Put students into pairs or small groups to discuss the questions, then take feedback as a class.
- b  Give students time to read the questions, then play the recording. Play the recording again if necessary. Check answers as a class.

Answers

- 1 coffee, bananas, snacks, (Instant) noodles, curry and rice
- 2 It's quicker and easier.
- 3 It's much better than he expected.

Audioscript

PRESENTER Japan has by far the highest number of vending machines per person in the world. In fact it has 5.6 million – that's one vending machine for every 20 people. These machines sell all sorts of things, from coffee to bananas, flowers and umbrellas. In a busy society, they play an important role. It's much cheaper for sellers to run a vending machine than a shop. And customers can buy things more quickly and easily from a machine than in a shop. And we're not talking here just about drinks and cold snacks. Japan also has vending machines that serve hot food, like instant noodles. Japanese students love curry and rice, it's one of the most popular meals there, and, sure enough, you can get it from a machine. The meal comes out of the machine hot and ready to eat. It's more convenient than cooking at home. But is curry and rice from a machine as good as curry and rice from a restaurant? Our reporter Luke went to central Tokyo to find out.

LUKE OK, I've just put my 300 yen into the vending machine and I'm waiting for my curry and rice to appear. Hmm, it's taking a bit longer than I imagined. OK, so my meal is here. I just have to open the packet of steamed rice. Hmm ... the curry smells, well, it smells OK, like a lot of instant curries. Right, let me go and find somewhere to sit down and try it. OK, this will do. Well, this is fine. It's actually much better than I expected. What can I say? I think it might be the best vending machine meal I've ever eaten – just not the best curry I've ever eaten! For 300 yen – that's less than two pounds – I can't really complain. But I think next time I'll spend a bit more and go to a proper restaurant!

VOCABULARY SUPPORT

convenient (B1) – easy to get to or use instant (adj) (B2) – happening immediately and without delay

- c Discuss the question as a class. Find out if anyone in the class has eaten hot food from a vending machine and what it was like. You could also ask if they eat any other kind of 'instant' hot food (e.g. soups or noodles to which you add hot water).

3 GRAMMAR

Comparatives and superlatives

- a  Put students into pairs and ask them to complete the sentences from memory. Then play the recording for them to listen and check their answers.

Answers and audioscript

- 1 Japan has by far the highest number of vending machines per person in the world.
- 2 It's much cheaper for sellers to run a vending machine than a shop.
- 3 But is curry and rice from a machine as good as curry and rice from a restaurant?
- 4 It's taking a bit longer than I imagined.
- 5 It's actually much better than I expected.
- 6 I think it might be the best vending machine meal I've ever eaten.

LO TIP CONCEPT CHECKING

Ask these questions to check understanding of the words and expressions:

Which phrase do we use to say there is no difference? (as ... as)

Which words or phrases do we use to show that there is a big difference between two things? (much, by far)

Which phrase do we use to say that there is a small difference? (a bit)

CAREFUL!

Students at this level may use comparatives unnecessarily, e.g. It's very cheaper (Correct form = It's very cheap) and have difficulty with word order, e.g. We need a cupboard bigger (Correct form = ... a bigger cupboard).

Most errors involve the use of more. Students may add it unnecessarily before a comparative adjective, e.g. Life is more easier now (Correct form = Life is easier now) or use more instead of a comparative adjective, e.g. My town will be more big in 20 years' time (Correct form = ... will be bigger).

Similarly, students make errors with most when using superlatives. They may leave it out before long adjectives, e.g. It's the beautiful city in the world or use more instead of most, e.g. It's the more beautiful city in the world (Correct form = ... the most beautiful city ...). They may also add it unnecessarily, e.g. She's the most kind person I know (Correct form = ... the kindest person).

Students also often forget to use the before a superlative, e.g. It was best day of my life (Correct form = ... the best day).

Other errors are connected with spelling, e.g. easier, thinner, biggest (Correct forms = easier, thinner, biggest).

- b Students read the information in Grammar Focus 6B on SB p.142. Play the recording where indicated and ask students to listen and repeat. Students then complete the exercises. Check answers as a class, making sure students are using the correct comparative or superlative forms. Tell students to go back to SB p.72.

- c Write the following words on the board: dark chocolate, milk chocolate and white chocolate. Point out the example sentence in the book (Dark chocolate isn't as nice as white chocolate) and find out who agrees/disagrees with the statement. Elicit more sentences comparing the three kinds of chocolate from the class, then give students five minutes to write more sentences using the ideas in the box. Monitor and point out errors for students to self-correct.
- d Put students into small groups to read out and compare their sentences. Take feedback as a class and find out which sentences caused the most disagreement in each group.

4 READING

- a Put students into pairs to look at the photo and guess which country it shows. Elicit students' ideas but don't check the answer at this point.
- b Give students 30 seconds to look through the blog quickly and check the answer to 4a. Ask: Why has the person written the blog? (to share experiences of Singapore's food with her readers). You may wish to find out how much students know about Singapore. Ask: Where is it? How big is it? What language(s) do people speak there?

Answer
Singapore

CULTURE NOTE

Singapore has a population of over 5 million and is located south of the Malay peninsula in south-east Asia. It consists of Singapore Island and more than 50 smaller islands.

Singapore is culturally very diverse. About 75% of the population are Chinese, with the rest being mostly Malay, Indian and European.

- c Give students a few minutes to read the blog again and match the dishes with the photos. They then compare answers in pairs. Ask: Which word does the writer use in her May 14th entry to mean 'a cooking style connected to particular culture'? (cuisine). Point out that cuisine is a French word, pronounced /kwi:'zi:n/.

Each student should aim to speak for about a minute. Encourage students to think about how they can use adjectives to make their descriptions more effective. Monitor and help if necessary.
- b Put students into groups to describe their memorable meals. Tell them to listen out for which meal sounds the most delicious. Monitor for any problems and clarify these as you check answers as a class.

Take feedback as a class on the most interesting or fun meals their partners talked about. Give the class feedback on their speaking skills, focusing mostly on their positive achievements.

FAST FINISHERS

Ask fast finishers to work in pairs and talk about:

- the first meal they ever cooked.
- the most expensive meal they've ever had.
- the longest meal they've ever had.

Answers

They are in a shopping mall. They're going to look at rings. They're talking about how and where Tom should ask Becky to marry him.

Video/Audioscript (Part 1)

- RACHEL Hi, am I late?
- TOM No, you're right on time.
- R So are you ready to go shopping? I am so excited! I still can't believe you're going to ask Becky to marry you.
- T Well, I've been thinking about that.
- R Oh no! Don't tell me that you've changed your mind!
- T Oh no, not at all. I just don't know how to do it.
- R What do you mean?
- T Well, do you think I should take her somewhere special?
- R Um, yes!
- T Maybe Paris? I was thinking I could propose at the top of the Eiffel Tower.
- R Wow! Just like in the movies!
- T Do you think that's too much?
- R No, but is it what Becky would really like?
- T Um, I just don't know. What do you suggest?
- R Well, if I were you, I'd take her somewhere special.
- T Exactly, like Paris.
- R I mean special for the two of you! Like Mark took me to the place where we first met. It was really romantic, because he'd clearly thought about it. Where did you two first meet?
- T At the office where we both worked.
- R Oh OK, but there must be somewhere special.
- T Hmm, maybe. How about the restaurant where we had our first date?
- R Now that sounds like a possibility. Anyway, let's go and look for this ring.

At the end of this lesson, students will be able to:

- understand informal conversations in which people ask for and give recommendations
- use appropriate phrases for asking for and giving recommendations
- express surprise appropriately

EXTRA ACTIVITY

Ask: Where was Tom thinking of proposing to Becky? (on top of the Eiffel Tower). Ask: Why there? (Because Paris, and the Eiffel Tower in particular, is considered by many people to be a romantic place.) Ask students if they have been to Paris or what they know about it. Then ask them which cities they think are the most romantic, and why. If there are any students who are married in the class, you could ask them to tell the other students how they proposed or were proposed to.

- e Put students into pairs to discuss the questions. Take feedback as a class.

2 USEFUL LANGUAGE Asking for and giving recommendations

- a Put students into pairs to categorise the phrases, then check answers as a class. You may wish to point out that worth and recommend are followed by verb + -ing (e.g. It's worth asking for help.).

Video/Audioscript (Part 2)

- RACHEL Seriously? Tom, do you know Becky at all? It's much better to buy something that's her style. Something that you think she'll like. She doesn't need to show off.
- T I'm getting this all wrong!
- R That's why I'm here. Come on.
- R How about that ring?
- T Oh, that's a nice one.
- R It's £1500.
- T I don't believe it! That's ridiculous.
- R Tom! It's Becky! Over there.
- T You're kidding! What should we do?
- R Quick! Let's go in.

- c  Play Part 2 of the video or audio recording again. Check answers as a class. You may wish to check that students understand the meaning of kidding (joking). Ask students to think of other ways to express surprise, and write them on the board (You're joking! No way! Really? What?!, etc.). Play the audio again so students can listen to the speakers' intonation.

Answers

- 1 Seriously

- 3 You're kidding

- d  Put students into pairs to do this practice task. After a few minutes, nominate a few pairs of students sitting across the class from each other to have the mini-conversations in front of the class.

4 PRONUNCIATION

Sounding interested

- a  Give students time to read through the rule as well as the extract. You may wish to use hand gestures to make sure students understand varied (changing) and flat (staying the same). Play the recording for students to listen to the extract and complete the rule.

Answer

Rachel's intonation isn't flat.

- b  Give students time to read through the exchanges. Play the recording for students to listen and decide which speaker sounds bored. Ask students to think of other adjectives they could use when sounding interested, and write them on the board (wonderful, brilliant, fantastic, excellent, awful, dreadful, etc.).

Answer

The second speaker in 2 sounds bored.

- c Put students into pairs to practise reading the exchanges a few times. Encourage them to sound as interested as possible.

FAST FINISHERS

Students who finish early can try saying the exchanges again but with different adjectives (wonderful, brilliant, etc.).

5 SPEAKING

-  Divide the class into pairs and assign A and B roles. Tell all the Student Bs to turn to SB p.128.

Give students time to prepare what they are going to say during the roleplay. Encourage them to think about how they can present their news, e.g. with introductory phrases like Guess what? or I've got some exciting news! and to think about some extra details they can add. Make sure they plan how they will ask for recommendations. Remind them to sound surprised and interested when they hear their partner's news, and to listen carefully so they can give their partner some good advice. Take feedback as a class.

6D Skills for Writing

It's definitely worth a visit

At the end of this lesson, students will be able to:

- understand people talking about places they go to
- read and understand reviews of a café
- use positive and negative phrases in reviews appropriately
- write a review of a place to go out to

OPTIONAL LEAD-IN

Books closed. Put students into groups and give them one minute to make a list of these things:

- a very cheap local café or restaurant
- a very expensive local café or restaurant
- a local café or restaurant where you can sit outside
- a local venue where you can hear music.

Tell each group to read out their list to the rest of the class. Have the other students heard of the places? Don't start any discussion about the different places yet as there's an opportunity for this later in the lesson.

1 SPEAKING AND LISTENING

- a Give students a few minutes to read the question and consider the options.
- b  Put students into pairs or small groups to discuss these questions, then take feedback as a class. Does everyone agree?
- c  Give students time to read the task and look at the photos. Play the recording for students to listen and decide which photo matches each speaker.

Jeff is talking about photo 3.
Fabio is talking about photo 1.

Audioscript

JEFF I like eating out, but I don't really like expensive restaurants. It's not the money so much as the atmosphere. The waiters are often quite unfriendly and you feel you have to talk quietly, or I do anyway. No one seems to be very relaxed. And the food can be good, but you don't often get much on your plate. I'd much rather go somewhere where the food's good and you don't have to pay so much.

FABIO I love going to cafés, either with friends or on my own. I sometimes take a book or a newspaper to read, or I just order a coffee and sit there. I sometimes start talking to someone. In fact I've got quite a good friend who I met in a café. We started talking and then found out we both liked the same kind of music. I like pavement cafés best. You don't have to think about anything, you can just sit and watch the world go by. It's a great way to pass time, I think, very relaxing.

CARLA I really love dancing, so I often go out with a group of friends to a club in the evening. It's such a good way to spend the evening. We usually order some food, maybe just some starters and some grilled meat and something to drink, and then we start dancing. There's a favourite place of mine where they have live music and we all dance Latin American dances like salsa or merengue. It's quite cheap. You have to pay something to get in, but it's not much and it's always full of people, maybe 200 people all dancing. It's got an amazing atmosphere.

EXTRA ACTIVITY

Ask students if they can recall the words/phrases used in the listening for these things:

- the mood or feeling of a place (atmosphere)
- watch people walk past, for pleasure (watch the world go by)
- a word to describe music that's not recorded (live)

If necessary, play the recording again, pausing just after the vocabulary items. Write the words on the board.

- d  Give students time to read the comprehension questions then play the recording again. Students compare answers in pairs. Check answers as a class.

- 3 Both.
- 4 You don't have to think about anything – you can just sit and watch the world go by.
- 5 She orders some food and something to drink.
- 6 Latin American dances.

- e Ask students to think of the kind of things people judge when they go out somewhere (atmosphere, quality of food, etc.). Individually, students decide on a place they like and another place they don't like. Give students one or two minutes to make notes on each place. Monitor and help if necessary. Encourage students to justify their opinions as far as possible.

- f  Put students into small groups to tell each other about their two places. Tell students to listen carefully – they might hear a description of a place they know. Take feedback and ask: Did anyone describe a place you know? If so, do you agree with their description? Did anyone describe a place you'd like to go to? Why would you like to go there?

2 READING

- a Ask: Do you ever read reviews of cafés or restaurants? Why/Why not? Discuss the question as a class. Give students two minutes to read the four reviews and decide how many stars each one might get. They then compare their ideas in pairs.

Suggested answers

- b Four stars – the only negative point is that it's a bit noisy.
- c One star – the only positive comment is about the waiters being friendly, but they were also very slow.
- d Three stars – there are more positive than negative comments, but overall the reviewer isn't very enthusiastic.

VOCABULARY SUPPORT

overcooked – cooked for longer than necessary overpriced – too expensive overrated – when something is considered to be better or more important than it really is tasteless (C1) – having no flavour

b Put students into pairs to find words or phrases in the reviews. Take feedback as a class.

Answers

- 1 the atmosphere: relaxing (a); great place to sit and relax, a bit noisy (b); a fairly pleasant atmosphere (d)
- 2 the kind of food and drinks they serve: coffee and cakes, free birthday drinks (a); fish, salads (b); pasta, soup (c)
- 3 the quality of the food: delicious (a); lovely food, fresh, delicious (b); overcooked, completely tasteless, tasty, half cold (c); good food, portions aren't very generous (d)
- 4 the service: very friendly (a); waiters were friendly (b); awful, friendly enough, so slow (c); reasonably friendly and relaxed (d)
- 5 value for money: a bit overpriced (d)
- 6 the location: right in the town centre, a convenient place to meet, fairly easy to get to (b)

LANGUAGE NOTE

The prefixes over- and under- mean 'too much' and 'too little'. Other words containing these prefixes include overcrowded (too many people), oversleep (sleep too late), undercooked (not cooked enough) and underused (not used enough).

3 WRITING SKILLS

Positive and negative language; adverbs a Elicit the meaning of fairly (quite, a bit), then give students a few minutes to do the task.

positive	fairly positive
relaxing plenty of space very friendly definitely recommend lovely food fresh great place to sit and relax friendly a convenient place to meet definitely worth a visit tasty	fairly easy to get to a fairly pleasant atmosphere reasonably friendly and relaxed fairly negative	negative
portions aren't very generous a bit overpriced	extremely disappointing overcooked completely tasteless half cold so slow

b Put students into pairs to compare their answers. Take feedback as a class.

c Put students into pairs to do the task, then check the answer as a class.

Answer

- b The writer doesn't want to be too negative.

LANGUAGE NOTE

The adverbs in this lesson are adverbs of degree. Most of them can be used before positive and negative gradable adjectives, e.g. not very generous, fairly pleasant, a bit overpriced, extremely disappointing. We usually use completely before extreme adjectives. It often conveys a negative meaning, e.g. My meal is completely tasteless! It was completely unacceptable. We can use absolutely before positive and negative extreme adjectives (e.g. absolutely delicious, absolutely tasteless).

d Put students into pairs to do the task. Check answers as a class.

Answers

- 1 very negative
- 2 slightly negative
- 3 very negative
- 4 slightly negative
- 5 slightly negative
- 6 very negative

e In pairs, students sort the adverbs into two groups. Take feedback as a class.

Answers

stronger: absolutely, completely, extremely, really, terribly weaker: a bit, fairly, not really, not very, quite, rather, reasonably, quite

LANGUAGE NOTES

- You may wish to explain that rather is often used to mean 'not as I expected' (e.g. The portions were rather small = they were smaller than I expected). We can also use rather in a positive sense (e.g. The food was rather delicious! = more delicious than I expected).
- Before gradable adjectives, quite usually means 'a bit' (It was quite good). But before extreme adjectives, it can mean 'absolutely' (It was quite delicious!).
- Although the adjective terrible means 'unpleasant', the adverb terribly can mean 'very much' if it is placed before an adjective (The food was terribly good).

f Individually, students rewrite the sentences. Point out that there are several possible answers. Students compare answers in pairs. Take feedback as a class.

Suggested answers

- 3 The sauce wasn't very tasty.
- 4 My soup was completely cold.
- 5 The portions were absolutely tiny.
- 6 The service wasn't very good.

4 WRITING A review

a Tell students that they are going to write two short reviews of places they know. If you did the Optional lead-in, you could remind them of some of the places they thought of then, but they don't have to write about somewhere local. Give them time to read the task and make notes individually.

b Put students into pairs to compare their ideas.

c Give up to 20 minutes for students to write their two reviews. Monitor and note down any common mistakes to deal with during feedback.

FAST FINISHERS

Ask fast finishers to write a short email to the manager of the place they gave a bad review to and outline what could be improved and why. They can read their emails to the class during feedback.

d In pairs, students read and check each other's work, checking for points 1–3.

- e  Give students five minutes to read each other's reviews. Nominate some students to tell the rest of the class whether they've been to any of the places they read about. If so, did they agree with the review(s)? Why/Why not?

Give the class feedback on their written work, focusing on how clearly they communicated their opinions and the positive and negative language (and adverbs) they used.

LO TIP REVIEW AND REFLECT

Put students into small groups and ask them to note down new words they've learned in this unit from these categories: compound nouns, multi-word verbs, adjectives to describe food and food preparation verbs. Ask students to prioritise the words they've noted in order of usefulness. Take feedback as a class.

ICELAND

- Size: 103,000km²
- Population: About 320,000
- Latitude (how far north/south of the equator): 65° 00 North
- Climate: average winter temperature: 0° C, average summer temperature 12° C
- Average price of a burger: $11
- Life expectancy: 82 years

Put students into pairs to compare their own country with Iceland using the points above and adjectives and adverbs like: big, far north of the equator, cold, warm, expensive, long, more, less.

Remind students to use much, slightly, a bit, etc. if possible. Take feedback as a class. To finish the activity, invite some students to share some of their sentences with the class.

- Describing a town or city
- Making polite offers and requests and asking for permission
- Using appropriate phrases to show that you can imagine other people's feelings
- Offering choices
- Writing a note with useful information

Although there are no right or wrong answers to these questions, use this whole-class discussion stage to bring out the themes which run through this unit: different styles of houses and other forms of accommodation.

CULTURE NOTE

The photo shows guests having breakfast at ICEHOTEL in Jukkasjärvi, a village in northern Sweden. It was the first ice hotel in the world and was first built in the early 1990s. It is constructed from 20,000 tons of snow and 3,000 tons of ice each year, including the tables, chairs and glasses. Artists from around the world apply every year to design the hotel's famous suites.

- b  Give students time to think about the questions. Put them into pairs to discuss their ideas. Take feedback by asking a few students to report back on their partner's ideal home and whether they would like to live there too.

EXTRA ACTIVITY

Write this question on the board: Which room do you think is the most important in a house? Why? Ask students to compare their choices in small groups. They should discuss their reasons and find out if their views about why this room is the most important have changed since they were children and why. Ask for their answers in feedback and see which room is the most popular.

GETTING STARTED

OPTIONAL LEAD-IN

Books closed. Put students into pairs and ask them to tell their partners about the different homes they have lived in during their lives. If they have lived in the same place all their life, they should describe changes that have been made to the home. They should also tell their partner about a memory they associate with each home. Ask for examples during feedback. Find out who has lived in the most unusual home and who has the most interesting memory.

- a  Ask students to look at the photo and the title of the unit, House and home. Put them into small groups and ask them to discuss the questions. Nominate a few groups to share their ideas with the rest of the class.

7A It might be a holiday home

OPTIONAL LEAD-IN

Books closed. Write this sentence on the board: Home is where the heart is.

You may wish to explain that this proverb means: 'Home isn't a building, but the place where the people you love are.'

Ask: Do you have a similar expression in your own language? What does it mean? Do you agree with the expression?

1 GRAMMAR Modals of deduction

a  Tell students to look at the four photos of different homes. Put students into pairs or small groups to discuss the questions. Take feedback as a class by asking different groups to say something about each photo. Write their ideas on the board. Do the other groups agree? Add notes from what the other groups say, and leave them there for 1c.

b  Play the recording for students to listen and match the speakers with the photos. Check answers as a class.

Audioscript

SPEAKER 1 Well, it's very small so it can't belong to a big family, maybe a small family or an older couple who live on their own. Where is it? It's somewhere dry and sunny, so it could be Mexico, maybe, or Spain.

SPEAKER 2 There can't be much space in there, so I think it must belong to a single person or a couple. And where is it? It could be in any big city, but on the outskirts of the city, I think. It might be somewhere like Tokyo, where land's expensive so you can't build big houses. It might not be a house; it might be two separate flats. No, they can't be flats, the ground floor one is too small, so it must be a house.

SPEAKER 3 You can see tall buildings outside the window, so this flat must be somewhere like Dubai or some modern city. Whoever lives there can't have children; it's much too tidy. It might be someone who works a lot, or someone who doesn't spend much time there.

SPEAKER 4 It's a huge house, so a very big family must live there, or maybe two or three different families. Or it might be a holiday home because it's in the mountains somewhere. It could be Switzerland or Austria, or perhaps Slovenia. Somewhere in Europe.

VOCABULARY SUPPORT

outskirts (B2) – the areas that form the edge of a town or city

c  2.38 Refer students back to their suggestions on the board for 1a. Ask: Did you hear the speakers talking about any of the ideas on the board? Play the recording again for students to listen and check their ideas. Then check answers as a class.

You may wish to tell students that the buildings in the photos are in: a Switzerland, b Dubai, c Mexico, and d Japan.

At the end of this lesson, students will be able to:

- use modals of deduction appropriately
- use a lexical set to describe houses and buildings correctly
- understand an article about alternative places to stay when travelling
- discuss homes and places to stay

Answers

Photo a: Switzerland, Austria or Slovenia; a big family, or two or three different families; it might be a holiday home.

Photo b: Dubai or a modern city; someone without children, someone who works a lot; someone who doesn't spend much time there.

Photo c: Mexico or Spain; a small family or an older couple.

d Discuss the question as a class.

e Ask: Why did the speakers use the words 'maybe' and 'perhaps' when they were talking about the four houses? (Because they weren't sure; they were making guesses.) Tell students that they are going to look at other ways of making deductions (guesses based on limited information). Put students into pairs to complete the sentences. TIP ELICITING

Write these sentences on the board and elicit ways of rephrasing them using modals of deduction. Suggested answers are given below in brackets.

1 I'm sure that's a noisy area. (That must be a noisy area.)

2 It's possible that it's cheaper to live in the country. (It might/could be cheaper to live in the country.)

3 I'm sure that isn't my phone. (That can't be my phone.)

4 Perhaps the teacher speaks French. (The teacher might/could speak French.)

If you have a strong group, ask them to give you reasons for each deduction.

CAREFUL!

The most frequent error with modals of deduction is using other modals where must or might is required. Instead of must, students often use have to or should, e.g. You have to be / should be tired (Correct form = You must be tired). Instead of might, students often use can, e.g. I think this can be the key (Correct form = I think this might be ...).

- i ▶ Students read the information in Grammar Focus 7A on SB p.144. Play the recording where indicated and ask students to listen and repeat. Students then complete the exercises. 5 could/may/might be the perfect person for the job.
6 may/might not know the answer.
7 can't need that coat today
8 could/may/might be building a new shopping centre.

FAST FINISHERS

To focus on deductions about things happening now, ask fast finishers to think of a few famous people and imagine what they might be doing right now.

EXTRA ACTIVITY

Ask students some questions about the building you are in at the moment:

- Which floor are we on?
- What's upstairs from here?
- What's downstairs from here?
- Does this building have a balcony?
- Does it have a basement?
- What's in the neighbourhood?

3 READING

- a ▶ Tell students to imagine they're travelling on their own to a city they don't know. They'll be staying there for three nights. Where would they prefer to stay? Give students time to look at the three options then put them into pairs or small groups to compare their choices, giving reasons and referring to the advantages and disadvantages of each one. Take feedback as a class. Ask for a show of hands for who'd rather stay in a hotel and ask those students to explain why. Repeat for the other two options.
- b Pre-teach the word host (someone who has guests). Give students one minute to read the introduction and choose the best summary. They then compare their choice with a partner. Check answers with the class. Ask: Has anyone heard of or used Airbnb?

Answers

- 2 Airbnb is a website for travellers and people who have rooms to rent.

CULTURE NOTE

Airbnb is a website that helps people who want to rent out rooms in their own homes for other people to stay in (for short stays or longer). It was founded in 2008. It has more than 600,000 listings worldwide in nearly 200 countries. Most of the places listed are rooms in houses and flats, but there are also hosts offering rooms in castles, tree houses and on boats. The website has user reviews for every listing.

- c ▶ Before students read the next part, ask them to imagine the good and bad points of paying to stay in someone else's home. Put them into pairs or small groups to discuss their ideas, then take feedback as a class.

Suggested answers

Good points: It's cheaper and more personal than other forms of accommodation.
Bad points: It could feel too personal, or it might not be as clean or well organised as a hotel.

d Students look at the photos. Ask: What kind of buildings can you see? Tell students that they are going to read what two guests, Antonia and Kumi, say about their experiences as guests in these places. Individually, students read the article and do the task. They then compare answers in pairs. Check answers as a class. Ask students to justify their answers by using information quoted from the article.

Answers

- 1 A 'It had ... a pool'
- 2 K 'I felt like a local by the end of the week!'
- 3 K 'the rent included a bicycle too'
- 4 K 'They let me use the kitchen'
- 5 A 'he's going to come and stay in my house when he comes to Italy next year'

EXTRA ACTIVITY

If you think your students need to spend more time processing the article before doing 3e, write these comprehension questions on the board. Give students time to read the article again and answer the questions.

- 1 How do you use a website like Airbnb if you want to find a place to stay? (You browse the profiles of places to rent.)
- 2 How much do most places cost per night? (between about £25 and £100)
- 3 Where is the villa? (California)
- 4 Who cooked Antonia's breakfast? (Jeff, the host)
- 5 Where is the old house? (Berlin)
- 6 Which part of the house did Kumi have? (the whole of the top floor)
- 7 What happened at mealtimes? (She ate and chatted with the hosts.)
- 8 Why was Kumi glad she could use the kitchen? (The restaurants nearby were quite expensive.)

e  Put students into small groups to discuss which of the two places they'd rather stay in and why. Take feedback as a class.

f  Before students read the next part of the article, ask them to imagine the advantages and disadvantages of being an Airbnb host. Put them into pairs or small groups to discuss their ideas, then take feedback as a class and write some of their ideas on the board. Leave them there for 3g.

g Give students one or two minutes to read the texts quickly to see if any of the ideas on the board are mentioned. They then compare answers in pairs. Ask: Would you like to be an Airbnb host? Why/Why not?

Answers

Advantages: you meet wonderful people, from all over the world; most people are charming and friendly.
Disadvantage: you have to do a lot of washing and cleaning; you have to trust people to treat your property as if it was their own home.

h Give students one minute to read the texts again and match the words with the definitions. Check answers as a class by reading out the definitions and asking students to say the words. Make sure they can pronounce the words correctly.

Answers

- 1 property

4 SPEAKING

a  Ask students to look at the photos. Explain that they are going to guess things about each building. You may wish to remind them to use modals of deduction, or wait and see whether they produce them naturally as they speak. Put students into pairs or small groups to discuss the questions. Monitor to check how well they are using modals of deduction and vocabulary from the lesson.

Take feedback as a class and find out if students have the same or different ideas about each building.

b  Put students into pairs for this speaking activity, in which they imagine that they can stay in one of the buildings for a few days. (If possible, mix students up so they are talking to someone they haven't just been speaking to.) Give them one or two minutes to try and agree on which house or flat they like best. Nominate a few pairs to share their final decisions with the rest of the class, and to say whether it was easy or difficult to agree.

FAST FINISHERS

Ask fast finishers to think about the best area to live for the following people:

- a young couple who have just got married
- a university student
- a pensioner living alone

Check their ideas during feedback.

7B There are plenty of things to do

OPTIONAL LEAD-IN

Books closed. Write these words on the board: lighthouse, skyscraper, tree house, museum, cottage, hospital, chalet.

Put students into small groups to discuss whether you usually find each building in a city or in the countryside.

Take feedback as a class. Ask: Which of the buildings have you been in? When? Why?

1 LISTENING

- a Put students into pairs or small groups to discuss the questions. Nominate a few students to share their answers with the class.
- b Give students a few minutes to read the list and answer the questions. Put them into pairs to discuss their answers. Take feedback as a class and find out if students have more reasons for why small towns are better than cities. Possible reasons might include: there's less crime; it's quieter; property prices are cheaper; the air is cleaner; you can see the stars at night.
- c Put students into pairs to make a list of reasons why cities are better places to live than small towns. After a few minutes, take feedback by writing a list of students' reasons on the board. Leave the list on the board for 1d.
- d Tell students that they are going to hear two people, Tim and Kate, talking about the same topic. Does Tim mention any of the reasons on the board? Play the recording for students to listen and check. Take feedback as a class. Ask: Did any of Tim's reasons surprise you?

Answers

Tim thinks cities are better places to live than small towns because there is so much going on; it's safer to live in a big city; it's better for the environment.

Audioscript

TIM What are you reading?

KATE Fran just sent me the link to this list of five reasons why small towns are better than cities.

T Ha-ha!

K What are you laughing at? Small towns are better than cities.

T Yes, if you want to have nothing to do and never meet anyone new!

K Well, I loved growing up in a small town. There's a real sense of community. People care about you. It's like you belong to one big family.

T Yes, I know you liked it. But I've always been a city boy. I love being in the centre of things – there's so much going on here. Cinemas, restaurants, museums. And there are lots more work opportunities in big cities than in a small town.

K But there's also more crime. Life's more dangerous here.

T Actually, research has shown that it's actually safer to live in the city.

K Really? I find that hard to believe.

T Yes, they did a study in the US that compared the number of accidents in country and city areas. And in the country there was a much higher number of accidents than in the city. Car crashes mainly, because people drive more in the countryside.

K That makes sense if you think about it. And hospitals are nearer, I suppose, so you get help quicker.

At the end of this lesson, students will be able to:

- understand an informal discussion about living in towns and cities
- use a lexical set of verbs and their dependent prepositions correctly
- use quantifiers appropriately
- talk about the area where they live

T Exactly. So it's actually safer to live in the city. And it's better for the environment.

K Really? How do you work that out?

T Well, you can't rely on public transport in the countryside like you can in the city, so you have to drive more. It's been proved that if you live in the city, you actually have a smaller carbon footprint, especially if you live somewhere with good public transport.

K I've definitely noticed that I walk more now I live in the city. Everything's closer, I guess.

And it's nice not to have to get into the car just to go to a supermarket.

T You see. There are a lot of advantages to living in a city. You can't argue with that.

K No, I can't – there are definitely advantages. But I still miss my little home town.

- e Give students time to read the statements. You may wish to pre-teach the phrase carbon footprint (a measurement of the amount of carbon dioxide that someone's activities produce). Play the recording again. Students compare answers in pairs. Encourage students to justify their answers as far as possible.

5 F People who live in the country generally drive more and so have a bigger carbon footprint.

- f Give students time to read through the questions. Put them into pairs to discuss their ideas. After a few minutes, put pairs with other pairs to extend the discussion. Take feedback as a class. Nominate a few students to talk about the question that their group discussed the most.

2 VOCABULARY Verbs and prepositions

- a Write this extract from the recording on the board with the preposition gapped: You can't argue ___ that. Focus on the verb argue and ask: What's the missing preposition? (with).

Tell the class that they are going to learn more verb and preposition combinations. Individually, students complete the sentences then compare answers in pairs. Elicit their ideas but don't check answers at this point.

- b Pronunciation Play the recording for students to listen and check their answers.

Answers and audioscript

1 People care about you.

2 It's like you belong to one big family.

3 That makes sense if you think about it.

4 You can't rely on public transport in the countryside like you can in the city.

LO TIP CONCEPT CHECKING

Check that students understand the meaning of the verbs plus their dependent prepositions by asking these questions:

Who do people usually 'care about' most? (friends and family – or perhaps just themselves!)

If something 'belongs to' you, is it yours? (yes)

If you can 'rely on' someone, do you trust them or worry about them? (trust them)

Give students time to read through the pronunciation rule. Then play the recording again for students to complete the rule.

Answers

c Play the recording again for students to listen and practise saying the sentences in 2a.

d Students work in pairs to match the verbs with the prepositions. Check answers as a class.

Answers

- 1 argue
- 2 cope
- 3–5 care, complain, worry
- 6 apologise
- 7 believe
- 8 succeed
- 9 depend
- 10 belong/apologise

EXTRA ACTIVITY

Write these symbols on the board:

o
oO
Oo
oOoo

Tell students that the patterns represent syllables and stress. Say each verb from exercise 2d clearly, and ask different students to come to the board and write the verbs next to the correct stress pattern. Ask the other students to help.

o care, cope, pay, think, wait oO complain, believe, belong, depend, rely, succeed Oo argue, worry
oOoo apologise

Put students into pairs to practise saying the verbs with their prepositions. Remind students not to stress the prepositions.

e Give students five minutes to complete the sentences with the verbs and prepositions from 2d. They then compare answers in pairs. Check answers as a class.

Answers

- 1 depends on
- 2 cope with
- 3 succeeded in
- 4 apologise for
- 5 argued with
- 6 complain about
- 7 believe in
- 8 belongs to

Give students time to look quickly through the instructions, then ask them to add the missing prepositions. They shouldn't discuss the game topics at this point. Check the correct prepositions as a class.

Answers

- b about
- c for
- d for
- e about
- f in

Divide the class into teams to play the game. Make sure they understand that they'll win more points by writing down things that the other teams might not think of. Create a competitive atmosphere by asking the teams to give themselves a name. Set a time limit of three minutes and encourage students to think carefully before they write down their answers. Remind them to keep their voices quiet so that other teams don't hear their ideas.

Stop the teams when the time limit is up. Check answers and award points by reading each question and asking each team to give their answers. Teams win points for answers that no one else has. The team with the most points at the end wins.

Suggested answers

- a in cash, by cheque, online, with a credit card, on the phone
- b noise, the food, a lack of hot water
- c I'm sorry I'm late; Sorry I'm late; Please forgive me for being late.
- d check their phones, listen to music, read
- e health, money, work
- f fairies, magic, Father Christmas

3 GRAMMAR Quantifiers

a Put students into pairs or small groups to discuss the questions. Take feedback as a class.

b Tell students to look at the photo of the High Line, New York. Invite a few students to describe what they can see in the photo. Ask: What's unusual about it? Then give students one or two minutes to read the article and check. Check the answer as a class. Find out if anyone in the class has been to or heard of the High Line or would like to go there.

Answer

It's on an old railway bridge, 10 metres above the street.

CULTURE NOTE

The High Line project was started in 1999, when two local residents, Joshua David and Robert Hammond, had the idea of transforming a 2.3km-long stretch of disused railway track into a park.

Six years before work on the High Line began, Paris already had its own elevated park created on reclaimed urban space. The Promenade Plantée, built in 1993, stretches for almost 5km across the city on a railway line which closed in 1969.

- c Give students a few minutes to read the article again and underline the correct words. They then compare answers in pairs.

Answers

- 1 lots of
- 2 many
- 3 very little
- 4 too many
- 5 lots of
- 6 not much

CAREFUL!

Students are likely to omit some and any before plurals and general nouns, e.g. I'd like to ask you questions. (Correct form = ... ask you some questions) or We got there without trouble. (Correct form = ... without any trouble.)

 46 Students read the information in Grammar Focus 7B on SB p.144. Play the recording where indicated and ask students to listen and repeat. Students then complete the exercises. Check answers as a class, making sure students are using the correct quantifiers. Tell students to go back to SB p.85.

Answers (Grammar Focus 7B SB p.145)

- a 2 a lot of 3 enough 4 much 5 enough 6 a lot of 7 a lot 8 none 9 a few 10 too
- b 2 few chairs for everyone. 3 none left. 4 lot of money.
5 give us enough information. 6 few people.
7 no money. 8 lot of time tomorrow.

EXTRA ACTIVITY

Write these sentences on the board and put students into pairs to find and correct the mistakes in the underlined phrases.

- 1 There are a lot bookshops here. (a lot of/lots of)
- 2 I didn't bring plenty bags. We need more. (enough)
- 3 Nina gave me plenty advice about what to do. (plenty of)

- 7 They aren't building the new school enough fast. (fast enough)
- 8 I'd like to ask you any questions, if you have time. (some)

- e Ask students to read through the task. Demonstrate the activity by describing a place that all the students should know. Can they guess the place you're talking about? Give students five minutes to prepare what they're going to say individually. Monitor and check that they are using quantifiers correctly. Encourage them to add some details at the end of their descriptions that will help the other students guess.

- f  Put students into pairs to read out their sentences. Monitor and point out any errors for students to self-correct. Take feedback as a class and ask students which descriptions they found easier/harder to guess.

4 SPEAKING

- a Tell students that they are going to talk for one or two minutes about the place where they live. Give students up to five minutes to read the task and prepare what they're going to say. Monitor and help with any vocabulary that they need.
- b  Put students into small groups. Before they begin talking, make sure they know what they need to listen for and think about. Tell students not to rush this speaking activity. Encourage each student to talk about their place for at least a minute. When everyone has spoken, the group should discuss which places would suit the teenager, the family with young children, etc. Monitor and listen for correct usage of the target language from the lesson. Take feedback as a class.

OPTIONAL LEAD-IN

Write this word snake of adjectives on the board:

annoying stressful worried annoyed embarrassing painful embarrassed

Put students into pairs and ask them to find adjectives in the word snake. Tell them to use the words to finish these sentences.

- People can feel ...
- Situations can be ...

Check answers as a class (people can feel worried, annoyed, and embarrassed; situations can be annoying, stressful, embarrassing, and painful).

Tell the class that they will need some of the adjectives later on in the lesson.

1 LISTENING

- a Put students into small groups and give them a few minutes to discuss the questions about visiting people's houses. Nominate a few students to share their group's answers with the rest of the class.
- b In the same groups, students discuss what they think is happening in the photos and how they think the people feel. Take feedback as a class.
- c Pre-teach the word allergic (having a condition that makes a person sick or develop skin or breathing problems because they have eaten certain foods). Play Part 1 of the video or audio recording for students to see if their guesses were correct. Check answers as a class.

Answers

Becky is meeting Tom's parents for the first time. She's feeling a bit nervous.

Video/Audioscript (Part 1)

- BECKY Do I look OK, Tom?
TOM You look great! You've got nothing to worry about.
B Oh, I really hope your parents like me.
T Of course they will. You'll be fine! After you, go on... Dad, this is Becky.
MICHAEL Hello, Becky. I'm Michael. It's very nice to meet you.
B Nice to meet you.
T And this is my mum, Charlotte.
CHARLOTTE Hello! It's lovely to meet you at last!
B Oh, you too!
C Thank you. They're lovely.
M Take a seat, Becky,
B Oh, thank you.
C Would you excuse me for a moment? I just need to check on the food.
B Of course. Is there anything we can do to help?
C Oh no, it's all under control!
B So, Martin...
T Michael!
B Er, Michael. I expect you're excited about the match this afternoon.
M I'm not really a football fan, to be honest. I prefer golf.
B Oh, I see.
C Tom, do you think you could give me a hand in here?

At the end of this lesson, students will be able to:

- understand informal conversations in which people visit other people's homes
- use appropriate phrases for making offers, requests and asking for permission
- use phrases to show that you are trying to imagine how someone else is feeling
- use intonation to sound polite

- T Sure.
M So, do you play golf?
B No.
B So Caroline, Tom tells me you're an architect. That must be very interesting.
C Oh, er, yes, I really enjoy it. In fact, at the moment, I'm working on...
M Here we go.
B Oh, this looks delicious.
M It's my own recipe.
B What's in it?
M It's chicken and mushroom.
B Oh. Um...
M Is something wrong?
T She's a vegetarian!
B And I'm allergic to mushrooms.
C What? Tom, why didn't you tell us?
T I sent you an email yesterday. Didn't you see it?
M Oh no, we didn't!
C I'm really sorry, Becky. Let me get you something else.
B Oh no, Caroline, it's fine, really. Is it OK if I just have some bread and butter?
C No, we can do better than that. I'll get you a green salad.
B Oh OK, that would be lovely. Thanks.
T Becky, my mum's name is Charlotte, not Caroline.
B Oh no! How embarrassing!

- d Give students time to read through the sentences. Play Part 1 of the video or audio recording again. Students compare their answers in pairs. Check answers as a class. Ask: Why can't Becky eat mushrooms? (because she's allergic to them). To check understanding, ask: What else are some people allergic to? (e.g. eggs, nuts, seafood, pollen from plants in summer). You may wish to contrast the pronunciation of the adjective allergic /ə'ɪ:dʒɪk/ and allergy /'ælədʒi/.

Answers

- 1 T
- 2 F Becky thinks that Michael will watch the football match, but he isn't interested in football.
- 3 T
- 4 F She's an architect.
- 5 T

- e Discuss the questions as a class. You may wish to mention that Becky hasn't been a bad guest, but she has been a bit awkward and made a few mistakes. She probably hasn't made a very good impression, but she has tried to be friendly and interested in Michael and Charlotte. She is also very polite when she is offered food that she can't eat.

EXTRA ACTIVITY

Ask students to think of a time when they were hoping to make a good impression and made some mistakes. If they can't think of one, they can recall a time when they were worried about meeting someone and how the meeting went. Put students into pairs to tell their partners about the event. Ask for examples during feedback. Find out whose experience was the most embarrassing or most successful.

- c Put students into pairs to match the requests and responses, then check answers as a class. You may wish to point out that Do you mind? means Is it a problem?. So we reply with Not at all or No, that's fine if we are happy about the request, e.g. Do you mind if I leave now? No, that's fine.

3 LISTENING

- a Ask the class to guess what Tom and Michael are talking about.
- b  2.51 Play Part 2 of the video or audio recording for students to see if their guesses were correct.

Answer

They're talking about Becky.

Video/Audioscript (Part 1)

TOM Listen, I know today hasn't gone very well.

MICHAEL What do you mean?

T Well, Becky kept getting your names wrong. And she didn't eat the food you made.

M Oh, don't worry about that. It wasn't her fault. Becky seems really great.

T You really think so?

M Yes, of course.

T Well, I'm really happy to hear that, because, well, I'm thinking of asking her to marry me.

M Really? But that's great!

- c  Give students time to read the sentences. Play Part 2 of the video or audio recording again. Check the correct answers as a class. Ask: How do you think Tom feels about his dad's reaction? (happy).

Answers

- 1 T
- 2 F Michael likes Becky.

4 CONVERSATION SKILLS Imagining people's feelings

- a  2.5 Put students into pairs to complete the sentences. Play the recording for students to listen and check. Ask: Does Becky know how Tom's dad feels about football and how Tom's mum feels about being an architect, or is she guessing? (She's guessing.)

Answers and audioscript

- 1 I expect you're excited about the match this afternoon.
- 2 Tom tells me you're an architect. That must be very interesting.

- b Give students one minute to read the exchanges and underline phrases for imagining how someone else is feeling. Check answers as a class.

Answers

- 1 You must be very tired!
- 2 I imagine you're a bit nervous!

- c  Tell students to look at the example and ask for some other possible responses, e.g. You must be very busy! Remind students of the silent ts in That must be /ðə'mʌsbɪ/. Put students into pairs to think of good responses to sentences 2–4. They then practise short conversations. Encourage them to sound like they can really imagine the other person's feelings.

Suggested answers

- 2 That must be really painful. You must be in a lot of pain.
- 3 That must be so annoying! You must be fed up!
- 4 That must be interesting. That must be quite difficult.

LANGUAGE NOTES

We follow I expect/imagine you're/You must be with adjectives that describe feelings (excited, stressed, annoyed, nervous, etc.), e.g. You must be really annoyed (about that)!

We follow That must be with adjectives that describe things or situations (exciting, stressful, annoying, nerve-wracking, etc.), e.g. That must be really annoying!

When imagining other people's feelings, we often use adverbs like rather, quite, so, very, really and extremely before gradable adjectives and absolutely before extreme adjectives, e.g. You must be really angry. You must be absolutely furious!

TIP DRILLING

Give students intonation practice with a substitution drill. Say the following sentence with the correct intonation:

That must be exciting!

Use these different adjectives one at a time for students to substitute: interesting, disappointing, fun, difficult, frightening, easy, dangerous, enjoyable, e.g.:

– interesting (That must be interesting!)

– disappointing (That must be disappointing!)

- d  Give students time to prepare the plan, hobby and problem they're going to talk about. Then put students into pairs to practise listening to each other and show empathy by imagining each other's feelings.

5 PRONUNCIATION Sounding polite

- a  2:57 Tell students that they are going to hear two sentences. Each sentence will be said in two different ways. They need to listen and decide which version sounds more polite. Play the recording for students to listen and decide. Check answers as a class.

Ask: What makes one question sound more polite than the other? Establish that the difference lies in the intonation. In the polite versions, the voice moves up and down on the key words, whereas in the other versions, the voice doesn't move much. Play the recording again for students to listen and notice.

Answers

- b  2:58 This task gives students more practice in noticing the difference in intonation. Play the recording for students to listen and check. They then compare answers in pairs.

Answers

- c  Put students into pairs to practise saying the sentences in 5b with polite intonation. Encourage them to use appropriate facial expressions to look and sound more interested.

6 SPEAKING

- a  Divide the class into pairs and assign A and B roles. Student B looks at the instructions on p.131. Give students about five minutes to read through their instructions and prepare what they are going to say. Then put them in pairs to role-play the two conversations. Monitor but don't interrupt fluency unless students make mistakes in their choice of language when asking for and giving permission.

Nominate a few pairs to perform their conversations for the class. Ask Student As: How helpful was your partner? Can you do all the things you want to do in his/her home? And how polite was he/she? Did he/she sound interested in your new job? Ask Student Bs: How polite was your partner? Did you get permission for everything you want to do in the office?

FAST FINISHERS

CULTURE NOTE

Miami is a city on the Atlantic coast of south-eastern Florida, US. The area has a tropical monsoon climate, so it's always warm there, but with a lot of rain. The area also suffers from hurricanes and tropical storms.

Miami Beach is a smaller city near Miami. It is a popular holiday destination for American and international tourists. Its architecture is a mix of modern business blocks, art-deco houses and old Spanish-style buildings.

Give students time to read the information. Then put them into small groups to compare and discuss their answers. Take feedback as a class. Ask: Did you all want to do similar or very different things?

VOCABULARY SUPPORT

wander (B2) – walk slowly endless (B2) – never seeming to finish swamp – (an area of) very wet, soft land

At the end of this lesson, students will be able to:

- talk about a recent holiday
- understand information about a place to go to on holiday
- understand an informal conversation about holiday plans
- understand a note in which useful information is given
- use phrases for offering choices
- write a note with useful information

Audioscript

- JON So you're going to Florida, Sue. Lucky you! It must be nice and warm – not like here.
- SUE Yes, it's about 30°C, I think.
- J I'm so jealous! Where are you staying? In a hotel?
- S No, we've got an apartment near Miami Beach, with a swimming pool. It actually belongs to my cousin, but she's going to New York so she said we can use it while she's away. And her car.
- J And her car? Wow, she must like you a lot!
- S Well, yes, it's really generous of her. It means we're just paying for the flight. We couldn't afford it otherwise, not with the four of us.
- J So, what are you going to do? Are you going to travel around?
- S Well, it depends on the weather. It's hurricane season so it might be quite windy. But we'll probably go to the beach for a start – we all like swimming. Then Mia, my daughter, she's really into wildlife, so she wants to go to the Everglades and see the alligators, so we'll definitely do that. And of course we're going to have to go to Disney World for a day. I don't really want to, but Mark – that's my son – he wants to go there, and he wants to go on all the rides.
- J Oh, come on, it might be fun. You'll enjoy it.
- S Yes, I might.
- J Sounds like you're going to be busy, anyway.
- S Yeah. Oh, and my husband says we've got to go to Cape Canaveral – he wants to see the Apollo space rockets, so I guess we'll spend a couple of days doing that. I don't really want to go there. It's so far away, I'm not sure I can cope with so much driving. But there's no point in arguing with him about it. Once he gets an idea in his head.
- J So, you're doing everything your family wants. What about you? What do you want to do?
- S Me? Oh, I'd just like to relax and do nothing – sit by the pool and read a few books.
- J Well, it sounds like you're going to be too busy. You won't have time for that.
- S No ...

- d  2.5: Play the recording again for students to complete the table. They then compare answers. Check answers as a class.

	Where does he/she want to go?	Why does he/she want to go there?
Sue's daughter	the Everglades	She's really into wildlife.
Sue's son	Disney World	He wants to go on all the rides.
Sue's husband	Cape Canaveral	He wants to see the Apollo space rockets.

- 2 Jon wouldn't like to go to Miami.
- 3 Sue can use her cousin's car while they're there.

5 WRITING

A note with useful information

- a Tell students that they are going to write a note like Jutka's. Give them time to read the task and make notes before they start writing. Give students up to 20 minutes to write their notes.

LOA TIP MONITORING

It is a good idea to have a particular focus when you monitor. As you monitor this activity, look in particular at the way the students have structured their notes and the order of the information. Encourage them to write notes that are neither too short and sharp, nor too long and detailed, and to use linking words in their sentence construction.

- b  Put students into pairs to compare their ideas.
- c In different pairs, students read and check each other's work.
- d Tell students to imagine they have just arrived at their partner's home and seen the note. Ask them to write a short email in reply, thanking them for the information and responding to anything else in the note they want to. Give students up to 10 minutes for this stage.

Give the class feedback on their written work, focusing on the structure of their notes and the expressions they used for offering choices.

GETTING STARTED

OPTIONAL LEAD-IN

Books closed. Students play 'Guess the sportsperson'. They choose a famous sportsperson – someone who is known internationally (if your class is multilingual) or well known in their country (if the group is monolingual). In pairs, students take turns to ask yes/no-questions to guess the person. Take feedback to find out the most popular sportsperson, then ask which sportspeople have been in the news recently and why.

- a  Students look at the photo and the title of the unit, Information. Elicit the meaning of headline (the title of a news photo or story). Put them into groups to discuss the questions. Take feedback as a class.

CULTURE NOTE

The photograph shows famous footballer, Cristiano Ronaldo, being interviewed by the press and media. Ronaldo is a professional Portuguese footballer who has played for Manchester United and Real Madrid. He became the most expensive player in the world in 2009 when he moved to Real Madrid and is said by many to have been the highest-paid and best footballer of his generation.

- b  Give students one minute to read the question and think about the news story they want to talk about. Put them into pairs or small groups to tell each other their stories.

EXTRA ACTIVITY

In pairs, students choose two famous sportspeople that have been in the news recently and role-play interviews with them. First, give them some time to think of questions they would like to ask these people. Ask some pairs to repeat their role plays for the class if appropriate.

8A He said he'd read the news online

OPTIONAL LEAD-IN

Books closed. Write this question on the board with the gapped options below it:

What kind of news do people share with each other?

- 1 updates on international e_ents
- 2 l_c_l news
- 3 hu_an-i_te_est sto_jes
- 4 funny i_cide_ts that have happened to them
- 5 u_da_es on their personal lives
- 6 g_ss_p about friends and neighbours

Ask students to complete as many of the gapped words as they can. Check answers as a class, making sure that students know what all the words mean (1 events 2 local 3 human-interest stories 4 incidents 5 updates 6 gossip).

Put students into pairs to talk about the kind of news they have shared with other people over the last few days, referring to the list on the board.

1 VOCABULARY The news

- a Put students into pairs or small groups to discuss the questions. Take feedback as a class.
- b Give students two minutes to look at the infographic and check if their answers are similar. If they aren't, ask: Why do you think your answers are different from the information here?

EXTRA ACTIVITY

Ask: Look at the infographic again. Which of the facts and figures do you think will change in the future? How? Why?

Give students one minute to think about their answers. Then put them into pairs or small groups to discuss the question. Take feedback as a class.

- c Tell students to read the blog quickly, ignoring the gaps at this stage, to find the answer to these questions:

- 1 Does the writer think he/she is addicted to the news? (yes)
- 2 Does he/she want to stop being so addicted? (yes)

Individually, students complete the blog. They then compare answers in pairs. You may wish to point out or elicit that current in current affairs means 'happening now'.

Answers

- 1 the news
- 2 articles
- 3 news feeds
- 4 affairs
- 5 breaking
- 6 celebrity
- 7 headlines

At the end of this lesson, students will be able to:

- use a lexical set about the news correctly
- understand an article about news and social media
- use reported speech (statements and questions) appropriately
- talk about a website that they often visit

- d Tell students to think about their answers first, then put them into small groups to discuss the questions. Take feedback as a class by asking some students to say whether their answers were similar or very different.
- e Students complete the exercises in Vocabulary Focus 8A on SB p.159. Individually, students do Exercises a–c. Monitor for Exercise d and take feedback as a class. Tell students to go back to SB p.92.

FAST FINISHERS

Ask fast finishers to think of one current news story for each of the kinds of news in Exercise a. They can then share their ideas with the rest of the class.

- f 3.2 Pronunciation Play the recording for students to listen and notice the pronunciation.

2 READING

- a Ask the class to look at the photos. Put students into pairs or small groups to guess what happened, or talk about the stories, if they know about them.
- b Give students about five minutes to read the article and answer the questions. They then compare answers in pairs. You may wish to pre-teach the word tweet (it literally means the short sound made by a bird, but it can also be used to describe a short remark or piece of information published on Twitter).

Answers

- 1 The photos show news stories which were spread on social media.
- 2 A story about ice being found on Mars; an earthquake (a sudden movement of the Earth's surface, causing damage) in Haiti; a story about a hurricane in New York.
- 3 Some stories are false.

VOCABULARY SUPPORT

collapse (B2) – to fall down suddenly because of pressure or having no strength or support crash (B1) – to hit something, often making a loud noise or a lot of damage crash-land (B1) – to land an aircraft suddenly because of an emergency, sometimes resulting in serious damage or injuries crew (B1) – a group of people who work together (especially on a ship or aircraft) explode (B1) – to break up into pieces violently hurricane – a violent wind that has a circular movement meteor – a piece of rock from space that produces a bright light as it travels through the Earth's atmosphere

- c Tell students to read the article again and answer the comprehension questions. They then compare answers in pairs. Check answers as a class.

Answers

- 1 No one died.
- 2 on social-media sites
- 3 the discovery of ice on Mars
- 4 He used information on social-media sites to help people find family members after the earthquake.
- 5 They were fakes.

CULTURE NOTES

The Hudson River crash

When his plane struck some birds shortly after take-off, Captain Sullenberger took the decision to land the plane in the Hudson River. The event occurred in a densely populated area during the day, so there were many eyewitnesses and the news spread quickly. Jim Hanrahan's tweet, sent just four minutes after the crash, read 'I just watched a plane crash into the hudson riv in manhattan'.

Carel Pedre

More than 100,000 people lost their lives in the 2010 earthquake in Haiti. For his work in communicating news of the earthquake to the rest of the world and helping people find their loved ones, Haitian journalist Carel Pedre was awarded the 2012 Humanitarian Shorty Award. The French media call him 'The eye of Haiti' and 'the host with the big heart'.

The Meteor over Chelyabinsk

This meteor was a 10,000-tonne space rock which broke apart high in the atmosphere. More than 1,000 people were injured by the flying debris. According to NASA, the shockwave was so powerful it travelled around the world twice.

Ice on Mars

The discovery of water ice on Mars, made by NASA's Phoenix mission, shows that there could be places on Mars that might be able to support life.

Hurricane Sandy

Hundreds of people died when Hurricane Sandy swept through the Caribbean and up the east coast of the US in 2012. Winds of over 80mph combined with a full moon to make sea tides 20% higher than usual. This created a dramatic storm surge which battered towns and cities along the coast.

- d Students read the article again and find the words. They then compare answers in pairs.

Answers

- 1 scene
- 2 dramatic
- 3 discovered
- 4 disaster
- 5 eyewitness
- 6 hoaxes
- 7 fakes

Make sure students can pronounce these words correctly. Point out or elicit that dramatic /drə'mætɪk/, discovered /dɪ'skʌvəd/ and disaster /dɪ'zɑːstə/ are all three-syllable words with the stress on the middle syllable.

EXTRA ACTIVITY

To exploit the article further, write these words and numbers on the board:

- 1 155
- 2 Jim Hanrahan
- 3 videos
- 4 celebrate
- 5 emergency
- 6 sharks, seals and a deep-sea diver

Put students into pairs to discuss their significance in the article, referring back to the context when they need to. Discuss the answers as a class (1 the number of passengers on the plane that crashed into the Hudson River; 2 the first person to tweet about the crash; 3 people took videos of the plane crash and the meteor and posted them online; 4 NASA used this word because the discovery of ice on Mars was so exciting; 5 local people in Haiti used social media to tell the world how bad the situation was; 6 people used photos of these things to start deliberate hoaxes about the after-effects of Hurricane Sandy on New York).

- e  Individually, students read the questions and think about their answers. Put them into pairs or small groups to discuss the questions. Take feedback as a class. If you feel it's appropriate with your class, you may wish to open the discussion up to cover the ways in which social media can bring about social/political change.

3 GRAMMAR Reported speech (statements and questions)

- a Ask students to underline the examples of reported speech. Check answers as a class by asking different students to read out the parts of the sentences that are reported speech.

Answers

- Present simple – Past simple
 Past simple – Past perfect
 Present perfect – Past perfect
 Present perfect continuous – Past perfect continuous

 CAREFUL!

Students at this level make a number of errors involving the use of say and tell with reported statements, often confusing the two verbs, e.g. Mary told that I was late. I said her she was wrong (Correct form = Mary said that I was late. I told her she was wrong), as well as making tense errors with these verbs, e.g. You say you would come (Correct form = You said you would come). They may also omit the pronoun after tell, e.g. He told it was broken (Correct form = He told us it ...).

When forming reported questions, students often use tell instead of ask, e.g. She told me if I was OK (Correct form = She asked me if I was OK). In reported commands, students may use say instead of tell, e.g. Someone said her to come in (Correct form = Someone told her to come in).

- e  Students read the information in Grammar Focus 8A on SB p.146. Play the recording where indicated and ask students to listen and repeat. Students then do the exercises. Check answers as a class, making sure students are using the correct reported speech forms. Tell students to go back to SB p.94.

Answers (Grammar Focus 8A SB p.147)

- a
- 2 didn't want to go out
 - 3 were waiting
 - 4 couldn't drive
 - 5 had lost
 - 6 might have
 - 7 would help me/us
 - 8 had bought
- b
- 1 your
 - 2 yesterday
 - 3 there
 - 4 he was
 - 5 you
 - 6 you liked
 - 7 you read
 - 8 I'd
 - 9 earlier
 - 10 you'd
 - 11 he was
 - 12 you'd love it

 TIP DRILLING

If students need more support, give the class statements with different tenses to report. They can do this as a class, but vary the activity by nominating different students from time to time. Tell students that they should start with You said that or You asked him, e.g.:

- Are you OK? (You asked him if he was OK.)
- I've read an interesting news story. (You said that you'd read an interesting news story.)

- f Tell the class that they are going to build a story by working in pairs and following instructions in four steps. Make sure each pair has a piece of paper to write on.

Ask students to read step 1. Remind students of the different kinds of news that people share with each other (updates on their personal lives, gossip, local news, etc.). Give students time to copy the first sentence and then plan and write the next sentence.

When all the pairs are ready, tell students to pass their papers to another pair and do step 2. Monitor as students work, making sure they are using reported speech correctly and giving help where needed. Continue in the same way for steps 3 and 4, but for step 4 make sure students check that the reported speech is correct.

Ask one student in each pair to read their story to the class. Ask: Which story was the funniest? Which story would you like to know more about?

4 SPEAKING

- a Students read through the task and prepare what they're going to say. Monitor and help if necessary.

- b  Put students into pairs for the speaking stage. Encourage them to talk for at least a minute. Their partner should listen carefully and think of questions to ask at the end. Monitor to check that students are using vocabulary connected with news and information.

Nominate a few students to tell the class which website their partner told them about, the questions they asked their partner and how their partner replied.

 FAST FINISHERS

Put fast finishers into new pairs and ask them to summarise the conversation they've just had to their partner.

8B I recommend visiting a local restaurant

OPTIONAL LEAD-IN

Books closed. Write the names of six things on the board:

- two shopping websites
- two big local shops
- two local cafés or restaurants

Students work individually to rate each one by giving it between one and five stars. Students then work in pairs to discuss and perhaps modify their ratings. Take feedback as a class.

1 VOCABULARY Shopping

2 LISTENING

- a Put students into pairs to discuss the questions. Take feedback as a class.
- b Give students time to read the review and answer the questions. Put them into pairs to compare answers. Check answers as a class.
- c Discuss the question as a class.
- d 3.6 Tell students they're going to listen to Harry and Erica talking about a restaurant called Oscar's. Play the recording for students to answer the question. Put students into pairs to compare answers.

Answer

It doesn't exist.

At the end of this lesson, students will be able to:

- use a lexical set to talk about shopping experiences
- understand an informal conversation about online reviews
- use verb patterns correctly
- use reporting verbs correctly
- talk about an experience using reporting verbs

Audioscript

- ERICA How do you like the sound of this restaurant, Harry? Have a look at the reviews.
- HARRY Hmm. Oscar's restaurant, mostly five stars, 'One of the best places to eat in Britain', 'Magical place' ...
- E Sounds pretty good, doesn't it?
- H Yeah. Why?
- E There's only one problem. It doesn't exist! Lots of people read those reviews and wanted to go there. But when they tried to book a table, there was no response.
- H Uh?

- e 3.7 Play the whole recording for students to listen and decide whether the statements are true or not. Encourage students to justify their answers as far as possible.

Answers

- 1 T
- 2 F A friend of the person who owned Oscar's had a hotel.
- 3 F Another hotel owner wrote bad reviews about his friend's hotel, and his friend lost a lot of business.

Audioscript

- ERICA How do you like the sound of this restaurant, Harry? Have a look at the reviews.
- HARRY Hmm. Oscar's restaurant, mostly five stars, 'One of the best places to eat in Britain', 'Magical place' ...
- E Sounds pretty good, doesn't it?
- H Yeah. Why?
- E There's only one problem. It doesn't exist! Lots of people read those reviews and wanted to go there. But when they tried to book a table, there was no response.
- H Uh?
- E People even went there to see if they could find it. But all they found was an empty street full of rubbish bins. Because the whole thing is a joke, a hoax, and there is actually no restaurant at all.
- H So someone made it up, made the whole restaurant up, and then wrote reviews about it?
- E Yeah, exactly.
- H But why would someone do that, go to all that trouble?
- E Well, apparently it was this businessman. He had a friend who owned a hotel. Another hotel owner wrote lots of bad reviews about the friend's hotel, and the hotel lost a lot of business and had financial problems because of the fake reviews. So this businessman wanted to make a point about online reviews.
- H About how they can damage people's businesses?
- E Exactly. He wanted to show that, really, anyone can write their opinion about anything online and a lot of people will believe it.
- H Wow! I never knew these review sites had so much power.
- E Yeah, they do. And I think this guy made a really good point. There should be much more control over which reviews are posted. People shouldn't just be able to write anything they like.
- H Actually, now I read these reviews again, they're not very realistic, are they? And all these fake reviewers have only written one review on the website. So, yes of course, they're all fake reviewers. Yes, it's obvious. I would have spotted that if I'd had more time to look at them.
- E Ahem. Yes, of course.

EXTRA ACTIVITY

To exploit the listening further, write these key words from the audioscript on the board: magical, rubbish bins, financial problems, power, obvious.

Check that students understand obvious (easy to see), then put students into pairs to talk about the significance of the five words and phrases in relation to Erica and Harry's conversation.

Play the recording again, then check answers as a class (one of the reviews described Oscar's as magical; when people went to find Oscar's, they found an empty street full of rubbish bins; the hotel owner had financial problems as a result of the fake reviews; Harry hadn't realised how much power online reviews have; at the end of the conversation Harry says it's obvious that the reviews for Oscar's are fake).

f Put students into pairs or small groups to discuss the questions. Take feedback as a class.

3 GRAMMAR Verb patterns

a Put students into pairs to match the -ing verbs with the rules. Check answers as a class by reading rules a–d and asking students to give the correct example sentence.

Answers

1 d 2 c 3 b 4 a

b Put students into pairs to match the to + infinitive forms with the rules. Check answers as a class by reading rules a–d and asking students to give the correct example sentence.

Answers

1 c 2 b 3 d 4 a

CAREFUL!

Students at this level may use the verb + -ing form where to + infinitive is required, e.g. We've decided leaving (Correct form = We've decided to leave) and vice versa, e.g. I enjoyed to meet your brother (Correct form = I enjoyed meeting ...). Another typical error is to use the infinitive for the second verb, e.g. I like be at home (Correct form = I like being ...).

c Students read the information in Grammar Focus 8B on SB p.146. Play the recording where indicated and ask students to listen and repeat. Students then complete the exercises. Check answers as a class, making sure students are using the correct verb patterns. Tell students to go back to SB p.96.

Answers (Grammar Focus 8B SB p.147)

- a 2 taking 3 to collect 4 to make 5 sit 6 to watch
7 to make 8 walking 9 them to have 10 stay
- b 2 to go 3 looking 4 to find 5 to see 6 Checking
7 forgetting 8 to ask 9 to ask 10 to do 11 helping 12 switching 13 to see 14 doing 15 to start 16 to fix
17 to take 18 to break

d Students complete the sentences by adding the verbs in the correct form and choosing an option or finishing the sentences in a way that is true for them. Read out the correct verb patterns for the eight sentences so students can check that their sentences are accurate.

TIP CONCEPT CHECKING

Check students fully understand when we use the different verb patterns by writing sentences based on the Grammar Focus rules on p.146 on the board with the forms underlined, and asking students why these verb patterns are used, e.g.

– I find it hard to remember grammar rules. (to + infinitive after an adjective)

– I don't mind waiting here for a moment. (-ing after certain verbs)

Conversation 1

HAIRDRESSER So I was thinking, maybe we could go for a much shorter style this time? What do you think? Something very different, really short.

WOMAN Yes, yes, really short! Do it!
H If you like, I can use this new product on your hair this time. It's very good. It'll make the cut a bit more expensive, though.

W Oh, no. No, thanks.

Conversation 2

WOMAN Here are the keys. It's been fantastic. Thank you.

RECEPTIONIST That's good to hear. Don't forget to write a review on our website when you get home!

W Yes, we will. We'll give you excellent feedback, don't worry!

Conversation 3

WAITER Here's your bill.

WOMAN I'm sorry, but I'm not going to pay for the dessert. It was terrible.

WA But you ate it, madam.

WO Well, yes, but ...

WA Then you have to pay for it, madam.

WO But it wasn't ...

WA Would you like me to get the manager?

- b  Play the recording again for students to listen and decide if the sentences are true or false. You may wish to point out that the reporting verbs in bold report the general sense of what people say, rather than their exact words. If students are unclear about the meaning of any of the verbs, give examples of direct speech to clarify them, e.g. threaten: 'If I have to pay for this dessert, I'll write a bad review about this restaurant.' Check answers as a class.

Answers

- 1 a T b F c T d F
2 a F b T c T d F
3 a T b T c F d T

 EXTRA ACTIVITY

Ask students to categorise the reporting verbs according to these three headings:

followed by verb + -ing (admit, suggest, recommend) followed by to + infinitive (agree, promise, refuse, threaten, offer) followed by object + to + infinitive (warn, invite, remind, advise)

- c  Pronunciation Play the recording for students to listen and notice the pronunciation of the letter s.

Answers

- 2 admitted
3 promised

5 offered

7 suggested
8 refused

 FAST FINISHERS

In pairs, students take turns to cover up reported sentences 1–8 and try to re-create them just by looking at the pictures and the direct speech.

5 SPEAKING

- a Tell students to read the task. Give them five minutes to prepare what they're going to say. Monitor and give help if necessary. When they've chosen which experience to write about, encourage them to think what details they can add (why the situation had occurred, what happened as a result, etc.).
- b  Put students into small groups to tell their stories. Each student should try to talk for at least a minute. The others should listen and think about whether they've been in a similar situation. Monitor to check that students are using verb patterns and reporting verbs correctly.

OPTIONAL LEAD-IN

Books closed. Put students into pairs and give them five minutes to make a note of everything they can remember about the people in the story so far. Don't allow them to look at the Student's Book. Ask the pairs to write two questions based on their notes. Say that they should try to make them as difficult as possible. Monitor and point out errors for students to self-correct.

As a whole class, nominate students to ask their questions. Tell the others that they should write down, not say the answers. Take feedback as a class.

1 LISTENING

- Put students into small groups to discuss the questions. Take feedback as a class.
- Put students into pairs to look at the photo and answer the questions. Elicit that Becky is having her interview for the photography course and she's probably feeling nervous.

Video/Audioscript (Part 1)

MARK Hi!

RACHEL Hi! What are you doing here?

M I left work a bit early, so I brought you some cakes.

R Really? Thank you! I was just getting hungry, actually. I haven't even had lunch yet. We've been really busy today.

M Well, that's good.

R Yes, yes it is.

M Are you still worried about that new florist's opening up down the road?

R Yes, kind of. I just don't know whether there's enough business around here for two places.

M Hmm. And have you heard anything from Becky? She's got her interview today, right?

R Yes, she should be there right now. I hope it goes well – she really wants a place on that course.

BEN And finally, what kind of photos do you enjoy taking the most? You have a couple of portraits in your portfolio.

BECKY Well, taking portraits can be really rewarding, especially if the person likes the final photo. But I think, on the whole, I prefer taking action shots – sport and that sort of thing. It's so satisfying when you manage to take the photo at just the right moment.

BEN OK, well that's all the questions I have. Do you have any questions for me?

B Actually, yes, I do. The course description mentions a work placement. Could you tell me a little more about that?

BEN Of course. It tends to either be working at a local gallery on a photography exhibition or working with a professional photographer as an assistant. The placement generally lasts two weeks and normally happens during the holidays.

B OK, and there are trips abroad too, aren't there?

BEN Yes, typically each class has two opportunities to go on study visits per year. Last year

At the end of this lesson, students will be able to:

- understand informal conversations in which people share their news
- use appropriate phrases for generalising
- use vague language appropriately
- recognise and say the sounds /h/ and /w/
- ask for and give general advice they went to Paris and Berlin to see exhibitions. In Berlin, they even had a private question-and-answer session with the photographer.

B That sounds fantastic.

TOM So, how did it go?

B Yeah. Pretty well I think, on the whole. But it was much more difficult than I thought it was going to be. I was there around two hours.

T Wow.

B Yeah, there was one question I didn't know how to answer, but otherwise, yeah, pretty well.

T What was the question?

B Oh, it was something about my opinion of a famous photographer. I'm not very good with that sort of thing.

T Don't worry. Surely that's what the course is for. Did you find out much about the course?

B Yeah, he told me quite a lot about it. It looks great. There's a job placement where we get to work with professional photographers. And the university itself seems really nice.

T When will you find out if you have a place?

B Well, normally they don't tell you during the interview, but the tutor said they'd be in touch this week.

- Play the recording again for students to complete the sentences. Put them into pairs to compare answers. Check answers as a class.

Answers

- business
- action shots
- placement
- study visits
- difficult
- this week

EXTRA ACTIVITY

Write these details from the listening on the board:

- lunch*
- rewarding*
- two weeks*
- Paris and Berlin*
- two hours*
- a famous photographer*

Ask students what each of the details refers to. Play the recording again, pausing after each conversation to check the correct answers (1 Rachel's hungry because she hasn't had lunch yet. 2 Becky finds taking portraits rewarding. 3 The work placement lasts two weeks. 4 last year's study visits 5 how long the interview lasted 6 Becky was asked a difficult question about a famous photographer.).

- Put students into pairs or small groups to discuss the questions. Take feedback as a class.

2 USEFUL LANGUAGE Generalising

- a  3, 12 Elicit the meaning of generalise (say something basic which is often, but not always, true). Give students time to read through the sentences, then play the recording. You may wish to explain that on the whole, generally, typically and normally are adverbs while tend is a verb followed by to + infinitive.

Answers

- 1 on the whole
- 2 tends to
- 3 generally
- 4 typically
- 5 normally

- b Put students into pairs to underline more phrases for generalising. Check answers as a class.

Answers

- 1 It can be
- 2 As a rule
- 3 don't usually

- c Students decide which sentences are true for them and change any that aren't. They then compare answers in small groups.

3 CONVERSATION SKILLS Being vague

- a Pre-teach vague /veɪg/ (not clear). Point out that sometimes we don't want to or we aren't able to be precise or give details, and in these cases we can use vague language. Students do the task individually. They then compare in pairs.

Answers

- 1 things
- 2 a couple of
- 3 sort

- b Students work individually. Check answers as a class. Put students into pairs to practise saying the sentences.

Answers

- 1 things/stuff like that, that sort/kind of thing
- 2 a couple of
- 3 things/stuff like that, that sort/kind of thing

EXTRA ACTIVITY

Write these topics on the board: weekends, clothes, breakfast, sport, evenings, sleep.

Ask students to use the topics to write six generalised, vague statements about themselves or people in their country. Put them into pairs or small groups to compare sentences.

4 LISTENING

- a  Put students into pairs to look at the photos and discuss the two questions.
- b  3, 13 Play Part 2 of the video or audio recording for students to check their answers. Ask: How does Rachel feel? (very happy, relieved). How does Becky feel? (very happy, excited).

Answers

- 1 b

Video/Audioscript (Part 2)

MARK Hi Tina, how are you?

TINA Hi Mark, I'm good thanks. Listen, I just saw Sam from the newsagent's. Apparently that new shop's not going to be a florist's. It's going to be a clothes shop.

RACHEL Really?

TINA Really!

M That's brilliant.

R Yes, that's fantastic news. Though of course we'd have had no problem with a bit of competition!

BECKY Thank you. I've got an email from the university. Tom, I've got a place. They've accepted me on the course.

TOM Wow, that's fantastic. I knew they would!

B Oh, I'm so excited, I can't wait to start.

T We should celebrate!

B We should, but first I have to phone Rachel. After all, it was all her idea in the first place.

B Hi, Rachel. I've got some fantastic news!

R So have I! You first!

TIP ELICITING

Read from the audioscript and pause to elicit words or phrases the characters used:

Hi, Tina, how ... (are you)?

Hi Mark, I'm good ... (thanks). I just saw Sam from ... (the newsagent's). Apparently, that new shop's ... (not going to be a florist's). It's ... (going to be a clothes shop).

Really?

That's ... (brilliant!), etc.

5 PRONUNCIATION

The sounds /h/ and /w/

- a  3, 14 Give students time to read the sentences then play the recording. Students compare answers in pairs. Check answers as a class. You may wish to point out that the letter w is silent when followed by h or r, e.g. write. Point out that the letter h is sometimes silent after w, e.g. where, why and when. It is also silent at the beginning of some words, e.g. hour or honour.

Answers

1 /h/ 2 /w/ 3 /əʊ/

- b  3, 15 Put students into pairs to match the words and sounds. Encourage them to say the words. Play the recording for students to listen and check.

Answers

/h/ hotel, who
/w/ white, work
first letter silent: honest, wrap

- c  3, 16 Play the recording for students to listen and choose the words they can hear. Put students into pairs to practise saying the two different versions of each sentence. Can their partner hear which version they're saying?

Answers

- 1 heat

- 3 earring
- 4 vest
- 5 ate

6 SPEAKING

 Ask students to read the task and look at the example conversation in speech bubbles. Give them time to write down a specific course, restaurant and area.

Put students into pairs. Encourage them to listen carefully to each other and to make some general comments about the course, restaurant and area they mention (or to be specific if they can). Monitor without interrupting their fluency, and observe how well they are generalising and being vague.

Nominate a few pairs to perform their conversations for the class.

FAST FINISHERS

Ask fast finishers to choose one of the points they didn't use in the activity to ask for and give advice on. Check their advice during feedback.

8D Skills for Writing

Fortunately, everything was all right

At the end of this lesson, students will be able to:

- understand people talking about a news story
- read and understand a short news story
- summarise information
- write a summary of a news story

OPTIONAL LEAD-IN

Books closed. Write human interest on the board. Point out that human-interest stories are about people's experiences of personal drama. They can be sad, happy, funny or serious. Ask students to think about the kind of themes that might appear in human-interest stories (e.g. crime, animals, illness, being a parent, coincidences, etc.) and write these on the board.

Put students into pairs to discuss the following questions:

- Do you like reading human-interest stories? Why/Why not?
- Which topics in the list interest you/don't interest you?
- Why do you think people like reading 'human-interest' news stories?

Nominate a few students to share their answers with the class.

1 LISTENING AND SPEAKING

- a Put students into pairs to talk about what's happening in the photos. Check answers as a class. You may wish to teach the words passport control and security check.

Suggested answers

- Passengers are boarding a plane.
- Passengers are going through a security check.
- A passenger is having her passport checked at passport control (or at the check-in desk).

- b Discuss the question as a class.
- c Tell students to look at the key words from a news story. Put them into pairs to discuss their ideas about what happened.
- d Put pairs with other pairs to compare their ideas, then take feedback as a class. Write notes on the board from their suggestions, and leave them there for the next exercise.
- e 3.17 Play the recording for students to listen and compare what really happened with their guesses. Put students into pairs to discuss whether any of the guesses on the board were right and what actually happened. Check the answer as a class.

Answer

An 11-year-old boy was shopping in Manchester with his mother. He left her without her noticing ('slipped away') and went to the airport where he managed to get through security and onto a plane to Rome. His mother complained to the airline.

Audioscript

People were commenting online recently about an 11-year-old boy from Manchester in England, who flew to Rome on his own. He was out shopping with his mother at a shopping centre near Manchester Airport and while she was busy looking at something, he slipped away and walked into the airport. Of course he had no money or anything, he was only 11 years old, but he followed a family who were going on holiday and no one noticed him – everyone thought he was part of that family.

Incredibly, he managed to get through security. It seems that no one noticed he didn't have a boarding pass, and they even let him get on the plane. Normally, of course, they check your boarding pass when you get on, but I guess they just thought he was with the family. Anyway, they let him on and he found an empty seat somewhere. They normally count the passengers to make sure they've got the right number, but it seems either they didn't do it this time or they didn't do it properly, so the plane took off and he flew to Rome. Then, luckily, when he got to Rome they found out he was on his own without a passport and they put him on the next flight back to Manchester. Naturally, his mother was extremely worried about him and she complained about it. Both the airline and the airport admitted it was their fault straight away and they promised to look at their security. And they even offered her a free flight. It's incredible that he managed to get through all the airport security controls without them noticing. But apparently, it happens quite often, and it's nearly always boys of about that age, between 11 and 14, who want to go on a plane.

- f Give students time to read through the statements. Put them into pairs to compare their answers. Encourage students to justify their answers as far as possible. Elicit students' ideas but don't check answers at this point.

- g 3.17 Play the recording again for students to check their answers to 1f.

Answers

- F The speaker read about the story online.
- F He was with his mother.
- DK
- F No one noticed him.
- T
- DK
- F They only offered her one free flight.
- F It happens quite often.

- h Put students into small groups to discuss the questions. Take feedback as a class.

2 READING

- a Ask students to look at the headline. Put them into pairs to do the task.
- b Give students one minute to read the story to see if their guesses were correct. Check answers as a class.

Answers

- 1 a 2 b

- c Individually, students read the article again and do the task. They then compare answers in pairs. Ask: How do you think Kenton's mother felt about what happened? Why?

Answer

Both boys took a flight alone, without their parents knowing, and with no ID.

EXTRA ACTIVITY

Write these extra questions about the article on the board:

- 1 How old is Kenton? (13)
- 2 How many flights did he take? (two)
- 3 Where were the flights from and to? (from Florida to Chicago, then from Chicago to San José, in California)
- 4 Where do his parents live? (His father lives in Florida and his mother lives in California.)
- 5 Why does Dean think Kenton flew to San José? (because he's fascinated by airplanes)
- 6 How does Dean think Kenton paid for the flight? (perhaps online, using Dean's credit card)

Ask students to read the article again and answer the questions.

3 WRITING SKILLS

Summarising information

- a Students read the summary and answer the questions. Tell them not to worry about the highlighted sentence at this point. Ask students to compare answers in pairs. Check answers as a class.

Answers

- 1 Apparently, It seems that
- 2 incredible, Amazingly, Fortunately

- b Tell students to look at audioscript 3.17 on p.171 and find more commenting words and phrases. Check answers as a class. You may wish to point out that we use phrases like these to draw attention to key points and show our attitude towards them.

Answers

- Of course, Incidentally, I guess, luckily, Naturally

- c Tell students to compare the sentences. Discuss the questions as a class.

Answers

- 1 There are five in 3c, but only one in 3a.
- 2 Apparently, and then, who
- 3 the boy, his mother, California; they're changed or left out to avoid repetition
- 4 The summary contains all the key points in a single sentence, and the sequence of events is clear. It's easier to understand what happened and isn't repetitive.

- d Individually, students complete this task. Monitor and help if necessary, checking students' sentence construction for accuracy.

Suggested answer

I read an incredible news story about a boy who apparently flew alone from Florida to California. He was only 13, but he managed to fly alone across America, and he even changed planes in Chicago. He bought a ticket online with his father's credit card number but no one at the airport asked him any questions. He even took his father's car and parked it in the airport car park before he got on the plane.

- e Put students into pairs to read each other's summaries and to see how similar or different they are.

FAST FINISHERS

Ask fast finishers to reduce the summary even further, starting with: Amazing story in news today . . . . Ask them to read these to the class during feedback.

4 WRITING

- a Ask students to look at the headlines. Ask: Does each one describe the beginning or ending of a dramatic situation? (They all announce an ending apart from the second headline, which announces the beginning of a situation.)

Put students into pairs to choose one of the headlines or a story in the news at the moment. Give them five minutes to make up the story for the headline they chose, or note down the key facts of the real news story.

TIP MONITORING

Some pairs may be quite imaginative and creative and have no problem finding ideas for a story for the headlines. Others, however, may need help. Monitor carefully to see which students need help with ideas and encourage them by suggesting that they think about questions with Who, When, Where and Why.

- b Explain to students that they are going to write a summary of the story in an email to a friend. The style can be fairly informal, as though they were speaking. Give students up to 20 minutes to write their summaries. Monitor and help if necessary.
- c Put pairs with other pairs and ask them to exchange their emails. Ask them to read and check each other's work using the four questions.
- d Put pairs with other pairs, but this time they talk about the new stories they read. Take feedback as a class. Encourage them to use the 'commenting' words in their speaking, too.

Give the class feedback on their written work, focusing on how well the key points of the news stories were organised and on the 'commenting' words they used.

GETTING STARTED

OPTIONAL LEAD-IN

Books closed. Write this gapped word on the board and ask students to guess the letters to find the word. Tell students that it is something we all need in our free time.

E _ _ E _ _ A I _ _ E _ _ (ENTERTAINMENT)

When they have guessed the word, put them into pairs and ask them to write down as many different types of entertainment as they can in two minutes. Take feedback and see which pair has found the most.

- a Tell students to look at the photo and the title of the unit, Entertainment. If necessary, explain what entertainment means (music, films, theatre, etc.). Pre-teach passers-by (people who are going past a particular place). Give students one minute to think about their answers to the questions before talking about the photo as a class.

You may also wish to teach the words entertainer (someone who entertains people for money), performer (someone who sings, dances, acts or plays a musical instrument) and the adjective live /laɪv/ (not recorded).

- b Play the recording for students to listen and check their answers.

Audioscript

We've been doing this for about five years now. We'd seen different kinds of street performers and thought it looked like a fun way of making some extra money – so we gave it a try. The costumes came later and we got more of a reaction, and more money. So now we always dress up. Some people give us strange looks, but most people are friendly. Some even stop to sing along or dance! We always play near the station – we try to bring a bit of fun into people's lives when they go to work every day.

CULTURE NOTE

The photograph shows a band called the Xylopholks performing in the Times Square subway station in New York. The band dresses in furry animal costumes and plays music from the 1920s on a range of instruments, but always featuring a xylophone (pronounced /ˈzaɪ.lə.fəʊn/).

- c Discuss the questions as a class.
- d Put students into small groups to discuss the questions for a few minutes. Take feedback as a class. Ask a few students to tell the class which they like best and why. Possible answers might include buskers (people who play music or sing in public so that other people will give them money), human statues (people who dress up and stay very still for long periods of time), jugglers, fire-eaters, clowns, etc.

EXTRA ACTIVITY

Put students into pairs or small groups and ask them to write a short music quiz. They should write three multiple-choice questions, each with a choice of three answers. When they have finished, ask them to swap their quizzes with another pair or group to answer. Take feedback as a class and allow pairs to ask the rest of the group their questions.

9A The film is still loved today

OPTIONAL LEAD-IN

Put students into pairs or small groups. Assign A and B roles. Ask Student A to write down as many kinds of TV programmes in the time limit as they can, e.g. reality TV show, cartoons, news. Ask Student B to write down as many different kinds of films as they can in the time limit, e.g. thriller, comedy. Allow two or three minutes, then stop the students and take feedback. Put their answers on the board to check against when they do the exercises in 1b.

1 VOCABULARY Cinema and TV

- a Put students into small groups to discuss the questions. If your class is made up of students from different countries, tell them not to worry if they can't translate a TV show's name into English: they can just describe what kind of show it is. Nominate a few students to report back on what programmes the group talked about.
- b Students do the exercises in Vocabulary Focus 9A on SB p.160. Individually, students do Exercises a and b. Play the recordings for students to check their answers. Students make notes individually in Exercise c. Put students into pairs to do Exercise d. Tell students to go back to SB p.104.

Answers (Vocabulary Focus 9A SB p.160)

- a 1 thriller 2 documentary 3 chat show 4 comedy
5 game show 6 action 7 science fiction 8 drama
9 animation 10 soap opera 11 horror 12 romance
- b 1 director 2 scene 3 studio 4 based on 5 film
6 character

EXTRA ACTIVITY

Write the following pairs of words on the board:

- 1 action – drama (same)
- 2 animation – science fiction (same)
- 3 documentary – comedy (different)
- 4 game show – chat show (same)
- 5 thriller – horror (same)

Ask: Is the stress pattern in each pair of words the same or different? Put students into pairs to say the pairs of words aloud and decide.

2 LISTENING

- a Tell students to look at the film posters. Ask: Have you seen any of these films? Did you like them? Why/Why not? Give students time to read the two questions and check that everyone understands the difference between CGI (computer-generated images) and special effects (a more general word used to describe images that are created to look real but aren't, e.g. by the use of equipment and clever camera work). Put students into pairs to look at the posters and discuss the questions. Take feedback as a class.

At the end of this lesson, students will be able to:

- use a lexical set to describe films and TV programmes correctly
- listen and understand an informal conversation about the use of computer-generated imagery in films
- understand an article about film-making techniques
- use the passive correctly
- recommend a film or TV show

- b Give students time to read through the information about The Big View and discuss the question in small groups. Take feedback as a class about what different points of view there might be on CGI.
- c Play the recording for students to listen and answer the question. Check answers as a class.

Answers

One of the presenters (Ellie) thinks there is too much CGI in modern films. The other presenter (Nick) disagrees.

Audioscript

- ELLIE Nick, it's time to talk about cinema.
- NICK OK.
- E Yeah, the thing is, I have a bit of a problem with films these days.
- N What's that?
- E Well, I'm getting a bit sick and tired of all the CGI. You know, I go to watch a drama, or an action film – and it just doesn't look real. It's the directors! They just seem to focus so much on cool special effects – they forget about the story. Think about classic films like Casablanca. They had absolutely no special effects. Just good story-telling, good characters, good acting.
- N But Ellie, even Casablanca has special effects. You know those scenes where they're driving through the streets of Paris – well, that wasn't Paris – it was all filmed in a studio in California! I think CGI is a fantastic tool for directors. Nowadays we can tell stories that wouldn't have been possible 50 years ago, The Hobbit, The Life of Pi, even Star Wars. You couldn't make any of them without special effects.
- E But still ... I really think special effects are used so much more than necessary. Take Christopher Nolan ...
- N Christopher Nolan who made the Batman films? And Inception? He uses loads of special effects!
- E Yes, but he only uses them when he really has to. When he was making Inception, he filmed in six different countries to get the different scenes he needed. And remember that fight scene in the room that was moving and turning?
- N Oh yes, I do.
- E Well, that wasn't done with special effects. They made a room that actually moved around. Leonardo DiCaprio and Joseph Gordon-Levitt had to fight in it.
- N Wow, I didn't know that.
- E Impressive, right?
- N OK, yes, that's clever. But I think that just shows that good directors can have good actors and a good story and they can also use modern technology. And when the technology is used with imagination and creativity, the results can be amazing. Really spectacular.
- E But still ... I really think special effects are used so much

- d Play the recording again for students to listen and decide which sentences are true. Encourage students to justify their answers as far as possible.

3 READING

- a Tell students to look at the two film posters and put them into pairs to discuss the questions. Take feedback as a class.
- b Give students two minutes to read the article to find out the writer's overall opinion. They then compare answers in pairs.

Answer

The writer seems to prefer traditional animated films ('handmade films will always be more impressive and fun to watch').

- c Give students five minutes to scan the article and complete the task. Check answers as a class. You may wish to explain the word frame (one of the single pictures that together forms an animated film).

Answers

- 33 – the number of animators who worked on The Pirates!
 1, 500,000 – more than 1, 500,000 frames were used to make Snow White and the Seven Dwarfs
 4 – On average, it took a day to make just four seconds of screen action in The Pirates!
 24 – For every second of finished film in The Pirates!, the puppets and models in each scene were moved up to 24 times.
 10,318 – the number of puppet mouths used during filming
 1937 – the year that Snow White and the Seven Dwarfs was made 525 – the number of people who worked on The Pirates!
 3 – the number of years it took to make Snow White and the Seven Dwarfs

EXTRA ACTIVITY

To exploit the article further, ask students to find words/phrases in the article which mean:

- 1 pleasant and attractive (charming)
- 2 grand and difficult (ambitious)
- 3 extreme care (great attention to detail)
- 4 something you admire because it is special or important (impressive)

- d You may wish to write a list of animated films on the board first. Ask students to list films they have seen or know about. Put students into small groups to discuss the questions. Take feedback as a class.

CAREFUL!

Students at this level make errors with both the form and use of the passive.

With the present simple and past simple passive, students are likely to omit the auxiliary verb be or make agreement errors, e.g. All the children given a present (Correct form = All the children are given ...) or The letter were sent yesterday (Correct form = The letter was sent ...).

Students may overuse the past simple and present perfect passive where the active is required, e.g. The situation was changed last year (Correct form = The situation changed ...) or We have been thought it was a good idea. (Correct form = We thought ...).

Students are also likely to make errors with future passives, using would instead of will, e.g. The results would announced tomorrow (Correct form = The results will be announced ...) or using the active form instead, e.g. It will send to you this afternoon (Correct form = It will be sent to you this afternoon).

- e Students read the information in Grammar Focus 9A on SB p.148. Play the recording where indicated and ask students to listen and repeat. Students then do the exercises. Check answers as a class, making sure students are using the most appropriate passive forms. Tell students to go back to SB p.106.

LOA TIP CONCEPT CHECKING

Write these two sentences on the board and ask concept questions to check students' understanding of the passive:

The new film was made in Wales. Ask: Do we know who made the film? (no) Is it important? (no) What is most important about the sentence? (Wales – the place it was filmed in)

The writer of the film is being interviewed on TV at the moment. Ask: Do we know who is interviewing the writer? (no) Can we guess? (yes – a presenter/interviewer) Is it important? (no) What is most important about the sentence? (the interview)

- f  Tell students that they are going to prepare a film quiz. They have all the information they need, including answers in brackets. Divide the class into two groups and assign A and B roles. Student Bs turn to SB p.130. Give them time to read through the questions and to complete the gaps with the correct passive form of the verbs in brackets. Monitor and help as necessary.

In pairs, students take turns to ask their questions. Their partner should try and guess the answer to the question (given in brackets at the end of each question).

Answers

Student A: 1 has been awarded 2 was made 3 has been seen
4 is/has been paid 5 will be made
Student B: 1 has been destroyed 2 was made 3 are (most films) produced 4 has been played 5 will be watched

EXTRA ACTIVITY

Students create their own film quizzes for each other, using the following verbs and their own ideas: was filmed, is based on, has been made, will be filmed, was banned, is going to be re-made.

5 SPEAKING

- a Tell students that they are going to talk about a film or TV show they like. Give students five minutes to read the questions and make notes on their answers. Monitor and help with vocabulary as necessary.
- b Give students time to think of their reasons. If necessary, tell them to think of the music, the actors, the special effects, the plot (or story), the characters, the presenter, etc.
- c  Put students into small groups and make sure they know what they need to do. Each student should try to talk about their favourite film or TV show for at least one minute. When each person finishes speaking, the others in the group should give their response. Monitor to check that students are using language from this lesson appropriately.

FAST FINISHERS

Ask fast finishers to think of another film or TV show and to make notes using the questions in 5a.

OPTIONAL LEAD-IN

Books closed. Write this word snake on the board:

trumpet drum singing flute violin keyboard silence piano whistling guitar cello

Put students into pairs and give them one minute to find eight musical instruments, two sounds that people make and one other word related to sound. Check answers as a class, explaining any words that need clarifying.

– musical instruments: trumpet, drum, flute, violin, keyboard, piano, guitar, cello

– sounds that people make: singing, whistling

– other word: silence

Ask: Which sounds do you like? Which don't you like? Put students into small groups to discuss the questions. Take feedback as a class.

1 VOCABULARY Music

- a Put students into pairs or small groups to talk about what's happening in the photos, using as many of the words in the box as they can. Encourage them to ask each other what any new words mean before checking in a dictionary. Take feedback as a class and ask different students to talk about what they can see in each photo. Make sure students can pronounce choir /'kwaɪə/, orchestra /'ɔ:ki.stɹə/, audience /'ɔ:di.əns/ and musician /mju:zɪjən/ correctly.

Suggested answers

- 1 A DJ is performing to an audience at a festival.
- 2 He's playing his guitar, but he isn't performing to anyone.
- 3 An orchestra is playing live to an audience. We can see several musicians, but we can't see a choir.

- b Play the recording for students to identify the kind of music being played. Check answers as a class.

Answers

- 1 live
- 2 musician
- 3 enjoying
- 4 a choir

- c Give students time to read the questions and make sure they understand all the words in bold. Ask: Which word means 'a recorded song or piece of music'? (a track) What is a personal collection of tracks? (a playlist). Put students into small groups to discuss the questions. Take feedback as a class.

At the end of this lesson, students will be able to:

- use a lexical set about music correctly
- understand people talking about experiences they have had related to music
- use defining and non-defining relative clauses correctly
- understand an article about different music festivals
- form nouns based on a set of noun endings
- talk about an experience which involved music

2 LISTENING

- a Put students into pairs and give them one or two minutes to make lists.

Suggested answers

playing in a band, dancing, having music lessons at school, learning an instrument, singing to children, singing in the car, singing around a campfire or on a beach with friends, hearing your favourite band perform live, singing in public

- b Put pairs with other pairs to compare their lists and answer the questions. If students don't have many ideas, build a longer list on the board as a class.

- c Play the recording for students to listen and match the people with the photos.

ANNIE Well, my music experience sort of started when I was seven. It was my grandmother who started it. She gave me a CD of samba music. I loved the rhythms. I played it constantly. My mum says I was always dancing to it. Samba music is Brazilian music with African rhythms and it's very loud, very energetic. Eventually, I decided I wanted to play the music, not just listen to it, so I saved up and bought a drum. It was an atabaque ... It's a drum you play with your hands. I taught myself to play it. And this year, I played in my first street carnival. We were playing in the street, and people around us were dancing, and it was like my whole body was part of the rhythm. It was incredible, the best thing I've ever done! So now I've decided that I want to be a music teacher.

JEFF Yeah, well, my music experience was going to the opera. I was travelling through Italy with a group from university. We got to Verona and there was this opera festival on. I wasn't really interested in opera, but my friends persuaded me to go. To be honest, it was a bit boring at first. But then it started to get dark. It was a clear night and you could see the stars. I was sitting next to one of the people who was in my group, Laura, and it was, you know, romantic, sitting under the stars, listening to this amazing music. And, well, we've been together ever since! We even went back to Verona for our honeymoon. Although we didn't go to the opera!

ERICA My friend Mark was living in Budapest, in Hungary, and I went to visit him. Mark knew a lot of places in the city and he took me to an old boat on the river, where you can hear bands practising. The atmosphere was great. It's the kind of place where you could sit and chat all night. Anyway, this band was amazing. They were playing folk music from Transylvania. I particularly remember the violinist. I'll never forget the way he played – so fast, but so relaxed. So there I was, in the middle of a freezing, icy river, listening to this amazing music. And I realised this is where I want to be. So a few months later, I quit my job, and Mark helped me find a job in Budapest. And I stayed there for nearly 10 years.

- d 25 Play the recording again for students to listen and make notes.

Suggested answers

	What sort of music do they talk about?	Where was the event?	How did it change his/her life?
Annie	samba	in the street	decided to become a teacher
Jeff	opera	In a stadium in Verona, Italy	one of the people in his group became his wife
Erica	folk music	on a boat in Budapest, Hungary	moved to Hungary

- e Put students into small groups to discuss the question. Take feedback as a class.

3 GRAMMAR

Defining and non-defining relative clauses

- a Individually, students circle the noun phrases. They then compare answers in pairs. Check answers as a class. Ask: Are the relative clauses in these sentences defining or non-defining? (defining – they give identifying information about the noun).

Answers

- 1 my grandmother 2 a drum 3 one of the people
4 the kind of place

- b Put students into pairs to study the two sentences and underline the correct answer in the rule. Check the answer as a class. If students need extra support, you may wish to write the following sentences on the board and underline the subjects to highlight their relationship to the verbs:

You play the drum with your hands. → It's a drum you play with your hands.

The rhythm gets right inside you. → It's a rhythm that/which gets right inside you.

Answer

don't need to

CAREFUL!

When using defining relative clauses, students at this level often choose the wrong relative pronoun, using what instead of that/which, e.g. Here's the information what you asked for (Correct form = the information that/which ...) and which instead of who for people, e.g. Is there someone which can help? (Correct form = someone who ...).

The most frequent error with non-defining relative clauses is the omission of the comma, e.g. We stayed at the Palace Hotel which is right next to the beach (Correct form = the Palace Hotel, which is ...). This might be because students have difficulty distinguishing between defining and non-defining relative clauses.

Students also tend to use that and sometimes what instead of which in non-defining relative clauses, e.g. I finally went to the US, that/what I had always dreamed of visiting (Correct form = ... which I had always dreamed of ...).

- c Pronunciation Play the recording for students to notice pausing in the sentences. Check the answer as a class. Point out that the comma in the written sentence matches the pause in the spoken sentence.

Word-building (nouns)

- a  Put students into pairs or small groups to discuss the questions. Take feedback as a class.

LANGUAGE NOTE

Prefixes, which appear at the beginning of words, change the meaning of the word they are attached to, e.g. un- and il- mean not (e.g. unhappy, illegal).

Suffixes, which appear at the end of words, often indicate word class, e.g. many adverbs end in -ly (e.g. slowly) and -ate and -ise are common verb endings (e.g. celebrate, organise). In this lesson, the focus is on typical noun endings (-ist, -ty, -tion, etc.).

It's useful to be able to recognise what part of speech an unknown word is when trying to deduce its meaning from context.

Some noun endings like -y, -ness, -ty and -ment are typical in abstract nouns, e.g. nouns connected with ideas and values (e.g. beauty, charity), feelings (happiness), personal qualities (creativity) and processes (development).

OPTIONAL LEAD-IN

Books closed. Think of (or invent) an evening out you had with friends. Tell the class they must try and guess what you did by asking you no more than 10 questions. Explain that they can only use yes/no questions. Give the class 10 lives and cross one off every time they ask a question.

1 LISTENING

- a Put students into pairs to discuss the questions. Take feedback as a class.
- b Give students time to read the task then play Part 1 of the video or audio recording. Check the answer as a class. Elicit or explain the meaning of retro in the conversation (similar to styles, fashions, etc. from the past).

Answer

They mention going to a jazz club or a classical music festival. They decide to go and see a local band called The Snowmen.

Video and audioscript (Part 1)

RACHEL Hi, Becky.
BECKY Hi, Rachel
R How are you?
B I'm good, thanks. Listen, Tom and I were thinking about going to see a band tomorrow night. Would you guys like to come?
R Oh, that's a great idea. Who were you planning to see?
B Well, we thought about going to that jazz club in town. They have live music every Friday and it's meant to be excellent.
R Wait a sec, I'll just ask Mark. ...
MARK Um, yeah! Sounds good. Let's do it!
R Really?
M Yeah, why not? Something a bit different.
R Um, Becky, are you still there?
B Yeah.
R Mark says yes! So what time does it start?
B Hang on a moment, I'll pass you over to Tom. What time does it start?
T Hi, Rach, it starts at 8, so shall we meet outside at half past seven?
R Great. See you there.
T Oh, and tell Mark to wear something cool.

R Yes, but I'm not sure Mark would be interested. What kind of music do they play?
B What kind of music is it, Tom?
T It's rock, but it's a bit retro. They sound quite 1980s, so Mark should like it.
B Tom says it's rock, but a bit retro. 80s' music.
R I doubt Mark would be interested. He hasn't seen a rock band for about 10 years. Wait a moment, I'll ask him, Tom's suggesting an 80s' rock band.

- c Give students time to read the task then play Part 1 of the video or audio recording again. They compare answers in pairs. Check answers as a class. Ask: What was the last thing Tom said? ('tell Mark to wear something cool'). Ask: Why do you think he said this? (Probably because he thinks Mark doesn't usually wear cool or fashionable clothes.)

At the end of this lesson, students will be able to:

- understand informal conversations in which people arrange an evening out
- use appropriate phrases for recommending and responding
- use stress to show contrast
- use appropriate phrases for asking someone to wait
- discuss places to go out to

EXTRA ACTIVITY

Point to some things in the room and ask questions that are obviously wrong so that students can practise correcting you, e.g.

Is the window open? → No, it's closed!

Is this Kumi's bag? → No, it's Joe's bag!

Encourage students to use stress to make the contrast really clear. Then put students into pairs to say and respond to similar statements about things around the room.

- c Put students into pairs to practise saying the questions and replies. Monitor and correct their pronunciation as necessary.

LO TIP ELICITING

To practise using stress to show contrast, write these sentences on the board:

1 We saw the film at the cinema.

2 It was filmed in London.

3 It came out in March.

Then ask these questions and elicit the answers and stressed words in brackets:

1 Did you see the film on TV? (No, we saw it at the cinema.)

2 Was it filmed in New York? (No, it was filmed in London.)

3 Did it come out in June? (No, it came out in March.)

B I don't know.

Don't you like it?

RACHEL Hi, guys.

T Er, not really!

B Hi.

- c Put students into pairs or small groups to discuss the questions. Take feedback as a class.

FAST FINISHERS

Ask fast finishers to think of other occasions when people have to think about the right clothes to wear, e.g. for a job interview, for college or university, at school, at a party, in the street, on the beach, etc. Ask for examples during feedback.

6 SPEAKING

- Ask two students to read out the example conversation (in speech bubbles) to the rest of the class. Divide the class into pairs and assign A and B roles. Tell Student Bs to go to SB p.130.

Give students time to prepare what they are going to say. Encourage them to think about how to recommend the places and events, using phrases like: It's meant to be very good. They should also think about how they will respond to suggestions, using phrases like: I'm not a big fan of ...

Give students up to 10 minutes to have conversations. Monitor to check that students are making correct usage of the language from the lesson. Take feedback as a class by asking a few pairs what their final plans are.

EXTRA ACTIVITY

In pairs, students have similar conversations about real places and events in the area. Nominate two pairs to perform their conversations for the class.

Books closed. Write these words on the board: popcorn, switch off, queues, box set, comfortable, darkness.

Ask students which words are about going to the cinema, watching TV or both. Put students into pairs to compare their ideas, then discuss the answers as a class.

You may wish to point out or elicit that you get queues at the cinema, box sets (several series of one TV show on a collection of DVDs) are connected with TV, and you can switch off the TV.

All the other words depend on people's personal preference, though popcorn and darkness may be strongly associated with the cinema.

1 SPEAKING AND LISTENING

Answers

- 1 Anna

- 3 She doesn't want to go because she doesn't like live music. This is because in concerts, the musicians often make mistakes. She doesn't like the crowds and you can usually only see the singer on the big screen.

Audioscript

ANNA I got two free tickets to the Kanye West concert. I mean, I couldn't believe it! Kanye West, one of the biggest hip-hop stars, for free! So I invited my friend Camila and she said 'no thanks'! And I said 'What? Are you crazy? The ticket costs nothing'. But then she tells me she doesn't like live music. She'd prefer to stay at home and listen to music on her computer. I find that very strange because, for me, music is something full of ... full of the singer's feelings, and if you can watch a singer perform, you can see what they're feeling and experience the music much more. But Camila thinks recorded music is better because you can hear everything more clearly. The quality's better, and you don't have crowds around you, and it's just easier to enjoy it. For me, it's more important to see the song come to life when the singer or band connects with the audience. And the other thing I love at the concert is the music is really loud. Anyway, Camila won't be coming with me, but lots of other people will want to.

CAMILA My friend Anna invited me to go to the Kanye West concert next month. She managed to get hold of two free tickets – she's very lucky. She asked me to go with her, but I said no. She thinks I must be mad, saying no to free tickets! I mean, I really like Kanye West and I've got all his albums, but I just don't like going to live concerts. I really prefer listening to music at home or through headphones. In a concert, singers and musicians always make mistakes. They get the rhythm a bit wrong or play notes that are wrong or something. And you see, mistakes can be fixed in recording. Well, that's part of it. The other thing is, but I didn't tell Anna this, I hate the crowds and there

At the end of this lesson, students will be able to:

- understand people talking about going out or staying in
- understand a blog about going out or staying in
- contrast ideas in an article
- organise an article correctly
- write an article about a kind of entertainment they love or hate are usually so many people that you can only see the singer on the big screen. So what's the point? I know lots of friends who will want the ticket. It was very kind of Anna, but no.

- c Give students five minutes to make notes on the positive and negative points of live and recorded performances. Remind them of some of the different kinds of entertainment event there are, including the ones in the photos.
- d  Put students into small groups to discuss the question. Take feedback as a class.

Ask: Do you prefer going to the cinema or watching films and TV at home? Why? Discuss the question as a class.

3 WRITING SKILLS

Contrasting ideas; the structure of an article

- a Ask these questions about the blog: Does the writer like films? (yes) Does the writer like going out with friends? (yes) Does the writer like going out to the cinema? (no). Tell them to look at the example with however. Ask: What short word means the same as 'however'? (but). Give students one or two minutes to find more examples in the blog. They then compare answers in pairs.

4 WRITING An article

- a Tell students that they are going to write an article about a kind of entertainment they love or hate. Give them time to read the task and make notes before they start writing. Give students up to 10 minutes to write their notes. Monitor and help as necessary.
- b  Put students into pairs to compare their ideas.
- c Give students 10 minutes for this planning stage. Monitor and help with vocabulary as necessary.

FAST FINISHERS

Ask fast finishers to start writing their articles. If this leads to them finishing early in the writing phase, ask them to make notes for another article about one of the other topics they didn't write about.

- d Give students up to 20 minutes for the writing stage. When all the students have finished, tell them to read each other's articles (at least three, if possible) and to say whether they agree or disagree with the other students' opinions.

Give the class feedback on their written work, focusing on the structure of their articles, and the language of contrast they used.

LO TIP MONITORING

Monitor while students are writing, as this is a good opportunity to give individual help where needed. Encourage students to check their work for grammatical accuracy, range of vocabulary, punctuation and spelling. Help them with this as you monitor, by giving them a particular focus depending on their ability and types of mistakes rather than showing them the errors directly. Bear in mind that weaker students may need more direct advice about what they've done wrong in order to benefit most from your help.

GETTING STARTED

OPTIONAL LEAD-IN

Books closed. Put students into pairs. Ask them to think about two memorable experiences they had at school or college/university – one should be memorable for positive reasons, the other should be memorable for negative reasons. You could give some examples of your own. Students tell their partners about the two experiences. Take feedback and ask the class to vote on the best positive experience and the worst negative one.

- a  Tell students to look at the photo. Discuss the question as a class. You may wish to teach the words graduate (noun) /'grædʒuət/ (a person who has a first degree from a university or college) and graduate (verb) /'grædʒuət/ (to complete a university or college course), pointing out the difference in pronunciation.
- b  Put students into small groups to discuss the question. After a few minutes, ask some students to share their group's ideas with the rest of the class.

CULTURE NOTES

The photo shows students after a graduation ceremony at Birmingham University in the UK. It is a very old tradition for students who are graduating to wear a gown (a special coat) and a mortar board (a special hat) during the ceremony. Most people do not buy or own these items, but hire them especially for the event.

Different universities in the UK have different graduation traditions. At Oxford University, for example, parts of the ceremony are in Latin. At Edinburgh University, each graduate is tapped on the head with a special bonnet (a hat). It is quite a common tradition for graduates to throw their mortar boards into the air after graduating.

- c  Focus on the title of the unit, Opportunities. Pre-teach opportunity (an occasion or situation that makes it possible to do something that you want to do, or the possibility of doing something) and how to pronounce it /ɒpə'tju:nəti/. Give students time to read the questions and think about their answers. Then put them into pairs to discuss the questions. Take feedback as a class.

EXTRA ACTIVITY

Ask students to work in pairs to make a list of things they think everyone should do at some time in their lives, e.g. travel to another continent, learn another language, etc. Take feedback and compare lists. Find out how many students have already done the things in the lists.

10A If I was fitter, I'd do it!

OPTIONAL LEAD-IN

Books closed. Draw a ball on the board or just write a ball. Put students into pairs and give them one minute to write down as many actions that people can do with a ball in sports or games as they can think of. After a minute, take feedback and find out which pair has the longest list.

Possible answers: roll, kick, throw, catch, miss, bounce (hit a surface and move up), spin (turn), pass (kick the ball to another player, e.g. in football).

1 SPEAKING

a Put students into small groups to discuss the photos. Then take feedback as a class.

Suggested answers

- 1 The man has just begun his ski jump. He is about to land.
- 2 The player has just made a mistake. He might have just lost the match.
- 3 The surfer is riding a particularly large wave.

b Give students one minute to add as many sports to the lists as they can. They then compare ideas in pairs. Take feedback as a class.

Suggested answers

winter sports: skiing (downhill and cross-country), ice-skating, snowboarding ball sports: golf, football, tennis, rugby, cricket, basketball, netball, baseball, table tennis, snooker water sports: windsurfing, sailing, body-boarding, water-skiing, kite-surfing, diving

c Put students into small groups to discuss the questions. Take feedback as a class.

2 VOCABULARY Sport

a Put students into small groups to match the sentences with the pictures. Help with vocabulary as necessary. Check answers as a class.

Suggested answers

- 1 snowboarding
- 2 snowboarding, volleyball, wrestling
- 3 table tennis
- 4 snowboarding
- 5 snowboarding, wrestling, diving

LO TIP CONCEPT CHECKING

To check understanding of the vocabulary, ask the following questions:

Which phrase means 'it exercises your whole body'? (It's a really good workout.)

Which phrase means 'try'? (have a go)

Is jogging an extreme sport? (no)

What's the opposite of 'miss the ball'? (hit or catch)

Why do people train? (to learn and practise a sport)

Do people only get 'points' in sports or in other games too? (other games too)

At the end of this lesson, students will be able to:

- talk about different sports they have tried or would like to try
- use a lexical set about sport correctly
- understand an informal conversation about trying new sports
- use the second conditional appropriately
- use a lexical set of adjectives and prepositions correctly
- talk about taking new opportunities

b Students complete the exercises in Vocabulary Focus 10A on SB p.161. Play the recording for students to check their answers to Exercise a. For Exercise b, students work individually to choose the incorrect word. Put students into pairs to discuss the questions in Exercise c. Students work individually to make notes in Exercise d. Monitor for Exercise e and take feedback as a class. Tell students to turn to SB p.117.

Answers (Vocabulary Focus 10A SB p.161)

- a 1 court 2 opponents 3 net 4 competitor
5 track 6 referee
b 1 beat 2 score 3 competitor 4 score

3 LISTENING

a Put students into pairs to discuss the photos and questions. Elicit scuba diving (the sport of swimming underwater with special breathing equipment). Take feedback as a class.

b Give students time to read the task then play the recording. Students compare answers in pairs. Check answers as a class.

Answers

- 1 Gina liked seeing the fish and the coral. Libby enjoyed the Colour Run because it's not too long and not too competitive and it's fun because you get covered in paint and there's a party at the end.
- 2 They agree to train/prepare together for the Colour Run.

Audioscript

LIBBY So, how are you, Gina? How was your holiday?

GINA Oh, it was great. Really good. Thailand was beautiful. And the food was amazing. But the best bit was when we went scuba diving.

L Scuba diving? I didn't realise you were going to do that!

G Neither did we! But we went to this gorgeous island called Koh Tao, and it turned out it's famous for its diving. Everyone there told us how amazing it is to dive there, so we decided to have a go.

L Wow. So did you have to do some training before you went in the sea?

G Yes, we did a three-day course – PADI, it's called. We had to do a few sessions in a classroom and in a pool, but by the second day we were already diving in the open water.

L Was it scary? I think if I went, I'd be terrified!

G I was a bit worried about it before we went into the water for the first time. You start imagining sharks, and running out of oxygen, and all kinds of things! But once we got in, I relaxed really quickly. There were so many amazing fish to see – the colours were fantastic. In fact, I got so excited that I was moving around too much and using up all my oxygen. The instructor told me off.

Apparently, diving is a sport for lazy people. You're not supposed to move around too much!

L Oh really? It sounds perfect for me!

G And on the third day we went to Shark Island. Luckily, it turns out that the name comes from the shape of the island – it looks like a fin – not the local wildlife! The coral there was just so beautiful – all these gorgeous colours.

L It all sounds so amazing.

G It really was. If you get the chance, you should definitely go scuba diving. If you went, you would absolutely love it.

L OK, well, if I ever go to somewhere like Thailand, I might try it.

G So, how are you? What's been happening here?

L Not much, really. Oh, I've just signed up for my first ever public run!

G Oh, great! I was wondering if you were still going running. A marathon?

L No, not quite! I wouldn't do a full marathon – I'm not fit enough! It's only five kilometres, and it's not a timed race, or anything. It's just for fun, really. It's called the Colour Run, because every kilometre they cover you in coloured powder paint. So, by the end, you're all covered in different colours.

G Ha-ha, that sounds like fun.

L Yes, I think it'll be a bit more relaxed than a proper race – not quite so competitive. And at the end of the race, there's a big party, with music – and loads more powder paint. And it's popular with all kinds of people.

G Excellent!

L You should do it too! It would be great if there was a big group of us going. Would you like to try?

G Hmm, yes, I would, but I don't know. If I was a bit fitter, I would definitely do it. When is it?

L It's not for a couple of months. You've got time to prepare. And five kilometres is not very far.

G Hmm, OK then. I'll give it a try!

c  Play the recording again. Put students into pairs to practise saying the sentences.

CAREFUL!

The most common mistake students make with the second conditional is using the wrong tense in one or both of the clauses, and putting would + verb in the if-clause, e.g. ~~If I would see it again, I'd take a photo.~~ (Correct form = If I saw it again ...) and will instead of would in the consequence clause, e.g. ~~If you came with me, it will be fun.~~ (Correct form = it would be fun.)

Another typical error is the use of can or will instead of could to express an imagined possibility, e.g. ~~If we went to the shops we can get an ice cream.~~ (Correct form = we could get ...).

d  Students read the information in Grammar Focus 10A on SB p.150. Play the recording where indicated and ask students to listen and repeat. Students then do the exercises. Check answers as a class, making sure students are using the appropriate conditional forms. Tell students to go back to SB p.117.

Answers (Grammar Focus 10A SB p.151)

- a 2 g 3 f 4 a 5 h 6 b 7 d 8 e
- b 1 I knew, I'd call 3 Would, I asked 4 didn't, would 5 You'd be, didn't 6 I were, I'd get 7 would, you saw 8 treated, would
- c 2 can/'ll be able to, stays 3 could, 'd join 4 won, 'd buy
5 win, won't be 6 didn't drink, wouldn't be 7 won't have, doesn't stop 8 lived, 'd be e Remind students that we use the second conditional when we imagine if things were different. Go through the example about running long distances as a class so everyone understands how the exercise works. Give students five minutes to write their sentences. Monitor and help as necessary.

f  Put students into pairs or small groups to compare and discuss their sentences. Take feedback as a class.

VOCABULARY SUPPORT

coral (C2) – a substance like rock, formed in the sea by groups of particular types of small animals marathon (B2) – a running race of slightly over 26 miles (42.195 kilometres) oxygen (B2) – a gas with no smell or colour – it is needed by plants and animals to survive

c  3.36 Give students time to read the task, then play the recording again. Students compare answers in pairs. Check answers as a class.

Answers

- In Thailand (off an island called Koh Tao)
- a three-day course
- She was worried about sharks and running out of oxygen.
- five kilometres
- People cover the runners in powder paint every kilometre; there's a big party at the end with music and more paint.

CULTURE NOTE

The Colour Run series was founded in the US in 2011. Runners start a race in white T-shirts, and every kilometre volunteers throw brightly coloured powders (made from 100% eco-friendly material) over them. The focus of these runs is on participation rather than competition.

d Discuss the questions as a class.

e  Give students one or two minutes to think about the question and make notes. Tell students to find a partner who has chosen a different sport. They discuss their reasons. Take feedback as a class and ask a few pairs to report back on what their sports have in common and how they are different. If they've never tried it, would they like to try their partner's sport? Why/Why not?

5 VOCABULARY

Adjectives and prepositions

a Put students into pairs to complete the sentences. Elicit students' ideas but don't check answers at this point.

b  Play the recording for students to listen and check their answers.

Answers and audioscript

- 1 I was a bit worried about it before we went into the water for the first time.
- 2 It sounds perfect for me!
- 3 It's popular with all kinds of people.

c Give students one or two minutes to choose the correct prepositions. They then compare answers in pairs. Check answers as a class.

Answers

- 1 of 2 of 3 of 4 for 5 in 6 about 7 of 8 for 9 to d Individually, students do the task. They then compare their answers in pairs. Take feedback as a class.

e Tell students to look at the three adverts for physical activities. Ask: What's happening in each photo?

Give students up to five minutes to read the adverts and find the missing prepositions. They then compare answers in pairs. Check answers as a class. Ask: Which of the activities in the adverts would/wouldn't you like to do? Why?

Answers

- Advert 1: worried about getting unfit; afraid of joining a gym; essential for good health; proud of our team
Advert 2: Interested in helping people; popular with blind people
Advert 3: tired of the usual exercise classes; similar to an Army-style Boot Camp

CULTURE NOTE

A boot camp, also known as outdoor fitness and military fitness, is an approach to fitness which originated in the US. Boot camp instructors and personal trainers help participants improve their levels of fitness by pushing them a lot further than normal. There's also a strong emphasis on getting people to work in teams to achieve a common goal, just as people work together in military organisations.

EXTRA ACTIVITY

Put students into small groups. Ask them to choose a new opportunity for people to get fit. They should then write a short advert for it, like the ones on SB p.118 and use as many of the adjectives + prepositions from 5c as they can. They can read their adverts to the class during feedback and the class can vote on which opportunity they would most like to take.

6 SPEAKING

a Tell students that they are going to talk about an imaginary opportunity. Give students about five minutes to read the task and make notes on their ideas about one of the opportunities. Monitor and help as necessary.

b  Put students into pairs for the speaking stage. Tell students to listen carefully to their partner to see if they would like to do the things their partner would. Change pairs a few times to extend the activity. Monitor and check that students are using the second conditional and adjective + preposition combinations. Take feedback as a class.

FAST FINISHERS

Ask fast finishers to make notes about one of the other topics in the task. If there isn't enough time for them to discuss this new topic with a partner in 6b, check this during feedback and see how many other students agree.

ADDITIONAL MATERIAL

- Workbook 10A
- Photocopiable activities: Grammar p.165, Vocabulary p.170, Pronunciation p.180

10B Making the most of opportunities

OPTIONAL LEAD-IN

Books closed. Write the following expressions on the board:

- Good luck! (to a friend before an exam or another difficult situation)
- That was lucky! (when something bad nearly happens: e.g., you drop a glass but someone else catches it before it hits the floor)
- That was unlucky! (when something bad, but not terrible, happens to a friend, e.g. you drop a glass and it breaks)
- It was beginner's luck! (when someone plays a game for the first time and wins or does really well)

Put students into small groups to discuss when or why people would say each expression.

Ask students if they have the same expressions in their own language.

1 SPEAKING

- a Give students up to five minutes to make notes about a good experience they've had. Tell them that they are going to talk about their experiences.
- b  Put students into small groups to tell their stories. Ask them to discuss what made their good experiences happen. Take feedback as a class on the most interesting things their partners talked about.

2 READING

- a  Put students into pairs to look at the three groups of photos and guess what the different stories might be about. Monitor and help with vocabulary as necessary.
- b  Put students into groups to compare ideas. Take feedback as a class.
- c Pre-teach biker (a member of a group of people riding motorbicycles), serendipity (finding interesting or valuable things by chance) and subscribe (to pay money to an organisation in order to receive a product or use a service regularly). Give students two or three minutes to scan the article. Take feedback as a class on which of their ideas from 2a and 2b were mentioned in the article. Use this stage to establish the basic facts of what happened in each story in relation to the photos on SB p.119. You may wish to point out that end up doing something (a phrase which Tom uses at the end of his story) is useful for talking about the unexpected outcome of a good luck story.

Answers

Anna emailed the wrong person because of her friend's bad handwriting. She ended up working with and then marrying that person.
Tom was intending to unsubscribe from a job website, but then he saw an interesting job. He ended up living and working in New York City.
Carla's mother, who was in her 70s, started chatting with a biker in a café. She ended up having a motorbike ride for the first time in her life.

At the end of this lesson, students will be able to:

- talk about a time when something good happened to them
- understand an article about experiencing good luck
- use a lexical set of expressions with do, make and take
- use the third conditional appropriately
- talk about a past event that made their lives better

VOCABULARY SUPPORT

handwriting (B1) – the particular way in which someone forms letters with a pen or pencil random (C1) – happening by chance, rather than according to a plan

- d Individually, students read through the article again and complete the sentences. They then compare their answers in pairs. Check answers as a class.

3 VOCABULARY

Expressions with do, make and take

- a You may wish to point out that collocations with do, make and take are very common, and students often make mistakes with them. Put students into pairs to choose the correct words, then check answers as a class.

Answers

1 make 2 doing 3 taking 4 take 5 make 6 take

LANGUAGE NOTE

In collocations like these:

- do is often associated with longer activities (do a job, do some research, do a hobby)
- make often means 'create' (make your own luck, make money, make the most of something)
- take is often associated with quick decisions and actions (take a photo, take a look, take a chance)

- b  Students complete the exercises in Vocabulary Focus 10B on SB p.161. Individually, students complete the collocations in Exercise a. Monitor as students do Exercise b. Put students into pairs for Exercise c. Tell students to go back to SB p.121.

d  Pronunciation Give students time to read the task then play the recording. Check answers as a class.

Answers

- 1 I would have won easily if I hadn't hurt my arm.
- 2 I wouldn't have bought it if I'd known it was in such bad condition.
- 3 If you hadn't pushed me, that car would have hit me!
- 4 I wouldn't have discovered the truth if I hadn't read her letters.

LANGUAGE NOTE

Because we don't pronounce the h in have, the final consonant in would and wouldn't links to the vowel sound at the beginning of have, which is pronounced as the weak form /əv/.

e  Play the recording again. In pairs, students practise saying the sentences.

EXTRA ACTIVITY

Tell students that you are going to give them four situations. They have to imagine that they had been in these situations and say what they would have done. Read out the following situations:

- 1 John dropped his sandwich on the floor. He ate it.
- 2 Maria fell over. Some people laughed.
- 3 My bags were really heavy. Nobody helped me.
- 4 I didn't know the answer.

Encourage students to use the third conditional in their responses (e.g. I wouldn't have eaten it. I wouldn't have laughed. I would have helped. I would have known the answer.). Make sure students pronounce would have and wouldn't have correctly. Repeat the activity a couple of times until students can produce the sentences comfortably.

CAREFUL!

When students at this level use the third conditional, they are likely to make tense errors in both of the clauses, e.g. if you have been there, you had enjoyed yourself (Correct form = if you had been there, you would have enjoyed yourself).

The would have clause in general is problematic for students as they often replace it with the past perfect, or would or will when imagining a different version of the past, e.g. it had been better to stay at home (Correct form = it would have been better ...).

f  Students read the information in Grammar Focus 10B on SB p.150. Play the recording where indicated and ask students to listen and repeat. Students then complete the exercises. Check answers as a class, making sure students are using the most appropriate conditional forms. Tell students to go back to SB p.121.

Answers (Grammar Focus 10B SB p.151)

- | | | | | |
|----------|--|---|--|--|
| a | 2 would | 3 had | 4 would, had | 5 would |
| b | 1 hadn't gone to live in Japan, he wouldn't have met his wife. | 3 could have gone to the concert if the car hadn't been broken. | 4 would have gone to see the film if I'd known it was so good. | 5 you had taken my advice, you wouldn't have got lost. |
| | 6 have been so successful if you hadn't helped me so much. | c | 2 wouldn't have lent | hadn't lent |

TIP CONCEPT ELICITING

Give the following sentences for students to complete using the correct form of the third conditional. Tell them that there is no single correct answer – they should use their imaginations. Do this as a spoken exercise to elicit the correct forms and also check pronunciation.

- 1 If I'd studied harder at school, I ...
- 2 I would have become a doctor if ...
- 3 If the weather had been better last weekend, I ...
- 4 I wouldn't have got wet if I ...
- 5 If I hadn't missed the bus, I ...
- 6 I would have gone to the party if I ...

- g Give students up to 10 minutes to write sentences. Monitor and check that students are using the third conditional correctly.
- h  Put students into pairs to compare their sentences. Take feedback as a class.

5 SPEAKING

- a Tell students that they are going to tell the story of a past event that made their life better. Give them up to 10 minutes to read the task and prepare what they're going to say. Monitor and help with vocabulary as necessary.
- b  Put students into small groups for the speaking stage. Tell them not to rush their storytelling – each student should try to talk for at least one minute. Remind them that when they listen to others, they should think of questions to ask at the end. Monitor and check that students are making correct usage of the language from the lesson.

Ask: Whose past event made the biggest difference to their life? Why do you think so?

FAST FINISHERS

Ask fast finishers to tell their partners of another past event related to another topic from the list in 5a.

10C Everyday English

You've got nothing to worry about

At the end of this lesson, students will be able to:

- understand informal conversations in which people talk about their feelings
- use appropriate phrases for talking about possible problems and reassuring someone
- identify when speakers sound sure or unsure
- use appropriate phrases for changing the subject
- maintain informal conversations in which they talk about their feelings

OPTIONAL LEAD-IN

Books closed. Write these conversation topics on the board:

- sport
- food
- work and study
- funny stories
- the weather
- politics
- films, music and books
- future plans, worries, hopes and dreams

Put students into pairs. Ask: How often do you talk about each of these topics? Which have you talked about so far today?

1 LISTENING

a Put students into pairs to discuss the questions.

b 3,4: Play Part 1 of the video or audio recording. Elicit students' ideas but don't confirm answers at this point.

Video/Audioscript (Part 1)

MARK Thanks, Tom. So have you ...?
TOM Not yet.
M Right.
T I'm going to ask her tonight.
M Oh! How do you feel?
T A bit nervous! How did you feel when you did it?

c 3,4: Play Part 2 of the video or audio recording for students to check their ideas.

Answer

Tom's talking about asking Becky to marry him.

Video/Audioscript (Part 2)

TOM How did you feel when you did it?
MARK When I asked Rachel to marry me? Um, fine, I think. You've got nothing to worry about. I'm sure it'll be OK.
T I wish I had your confidence.
M So, where are you taking her?
T I've booked a table at Bella Vita. It's the place where we went on our first date.
M That's a good idea.
T Do you think so? You don't think it's a bit boring?
M No, not at all.
T Hmm. I'm still worried that something will go wrong. What if she says no?
M She's definitely not going to say no. You two are perfect for each other.
T Hmm, but what if?
M All right, enough!

EXTRA ACTIVITY

Remind students that another word for ask someone to marry you is propose. Write these questions on the board:

- 1 Was Mark nervous when he proposed to Rachel?
- 2 What two things does Tom say he's worried about?

Play Part 2 of the video or audio recording again for students to answer the questions. Check answers as a class (1 No. 2 He's worried that the restaurant is a boring place to propose and that Becky might say no.).

2 USEFUL LANGUAGE

Talking about possible problems and reassuring someone a 3,4: Ask: When Tom was talking about his worries, what was Mark trying to do? (make Tom feel better by stopping him from worrying). Pre-teach reassure, which has the same meaning. Give students time to read the task then play Part 2 of the video or audio recording again. Students compare answers in pairs. Play the video or audio recording again if necessary. Check answers as a class.

Answers

- 1 nothing
- 2 sure
- 3 think
- 4 worried
- 5 if
- 6 definitely

b Put students into pairs to complete the table. Check answers as a class by asking students to say all the 'problem' sentences and then all the 'reassuring' sentences. Underline the sentence stems in the 'problem' sentences.

Answers

Talking about a problem	Reassuring someone
You don't think It's a bit boring?	I'm sure it'll be OK. She's definitely not going to say no.
I'm still worried that something will go wrong.
What if she says no?

c Give students time to prepare their real or invented worries, then put them into pairs to do the speaking activity. Monitor and help if necessary. Nominate a few pairs to perform their exchanges for the class.

3 PRONUNCIATION

Sounding sure and unsure

- a Give students time to read the extract and question, then play the recording.

Answer

He sounds sure.

- b Play Part 2 of the video or audio recording again and check the answer to the question as a class.

Answer

He sounds unsure when he talks about how worried he is.

- c Individually, students read the sentences. Play the recording for them to decide. Play the recording again then check answers as a class.

Answers

- 1 unsure
- 2 sure
- 3 unsure
- 4 sure

LO TIP DRILLING

Give students practice sounding sure or unsure by writing some questions and responses on the board:

- 1 Will the shop be open? (I think so, yes.)
- 2 What was the lecture like? (It was OK.)
- 3 Did you enjoy the trip? (I had a good time, yes.)
- 4 Will you go to lessons tomorrow? (I think I will, yes.)

Read the first question to the class and then reply sounding sure or unsure. The class must repeat the answer but sound the opposite. Repeat this with the other questions and responses. The drill can be repeated by reading the question and pointing to S or U (which you have written on the board) for students to give the correct response.

4 LISTENING

- a Ask: What's Tom going to do? (propose to Becky) How does he feel? (nervous). Put students into pairs to predict what will happen next. Elicit students' answers, but don't confirm them at this point.

- b Play Part 3 of the video or audio recording for students to check their answers. Take feedback as a class. Ask: Do you like happy endings like this?

Answer

Video and audioscript (Part 3)

BECKY Thank you!

TOM Thanks!

B So what are you going to get? I'm starving!

T I don't know. Maybe a pizza.

B Yeah, the pizzas do look really good.

T So, um, Becky, ever since I've known you ...

B It's been a long time since we were here last.

T Yeah, we came here on our first date, didn't we?

B Really? I thought we went somewhere else. That reminds me, I need to book the restaurant for the office party. Let me just make a note of that before I forget. Were you trying to give me a ring earlier?

T A ring? What?! No!

B I've got a missed call from you on my phone.

T Oh! Oh, yeah, I just wanted to check that you knew which restaurant it was.

B Oh, OK.

T So, anyway, as I was saying, you've really changed my life.

WAITER Are you ready to order?

B Oh, we haven't even looked at the menus yet! Could you give us a couple more minutes?

W Of course.

T Becky, there's something I want to ask you.

B Oh yes, me too. Are you free this weekend? My parents are coming to stay and –

T Listen, I'm trying to ask you to marry me!

B What? Tom! Oh, I had no idea. How long have you been planning this? ... This ring is gorgeous. When did you buy that? Oh, I know! That's what you were doing with Rachel in the shopping centre. I was sure something was going on!

T Becky, will you marry me?

B Of course I will!

- c Put students into pairs to compare answers, then check answers as a class. Encourage students to justify their answers as far as possible. Ask: What was the confusion about the word 'ring'? (Becky says, 'Were you trying to give me a ring earlier?' She means, 'give me a phone call'. Tom thinks she means ring, a piece of jewellery.)

Answers

- 1 F Becky thinks they went somewhere else.
- 2 T
- 3 T
- 4 F She says 'I had no idea.'
- 5 T

5 CONVERSATION SKILLS

Changing the subject

- a You may wish to explain that changing the subject means to change the topic, or start talking about something else. Play the recording for students to listen and complete the sentences.

Answers

- 1 reminds
- 2 saying

- b Put students into pairs to discuss the questions. Check answers as a class.

Answer

Becky is starting a completely new subject (work). Tom is returning to a previous subject (his feelings for Becky).

- c Discuss the question as a class.

Answer

Both phrases are used to change the subject of the conversation.

- d Put students into pairs to do the speaking activity. Monitor and help if necessary. Nominate a few pairs to perform their conversations for the class.

6 SPEAKING

-  Divide the class into pairs and assign A and B roles. Tell all the Student Bs to turn to SB p.130. Give enough time for students to read their information and make notes.

Before students start speaking, remind them of the expressions for reassuring someone and for changing the subject. Monitor and correct students' pronunciation as appropriate and listen for correct usage of the target language from this lesson. When students have finished, ask: Who did most of the talking in your conversation? Did your partner reassure you about your worries?

FAST FINISHERS

Ask fast finishers to think of good excuses to make if you get bored with a conversation and want to end it. Ask for examples of these during feedback and see if other students use these excuses themselves.

10D Skills for Writing

I think you should go for it

OPTIONAL LEAD-IN

Books closed. Ask students to think of as many verbs as they can that collocate with money.

Possible answers include: earn money, make money, spend money, borrow money, save money, waste money, run out of money, raise money.

1 SPEAKING AND READING

- a  Elicit the meaning of volunteer (a person who does something, especially helping people, willingly and without being forced or paid to do it). Tell students to look at the advert. Put students into pairs or small groups to discuss the questions. Elicit students' ideas, but don't confirm the answers at this point.
- b Students read the web page quickly and check their answers to 1a. They then compare answers in pairs. Check answers as a class.

Answers

- 1 NowVolunteer is an organisation that offers volunteering programs in 50 countries. Programs include working with children, helping local communities or working on environmental projects.
- 2 Gap-year students, to gain experience for their CVs, make new friends and learn new skills.
- 3 Volunteers have to find the money (through sponsorship if possible) to work on a program.

VOCABULARY SUPPORT

gap year – a year between leaving school and starting university that is usually spent travelling or working raise (B2) – to cause something (e.g. money) to exist

2 LISTENING AND SPEAKING

- a Tell students to look at the photos. Check that everyone knows where Madagascar is. Discuss the question as a class.

CULTURE NOTE

Madagascar is situated off the south-east coast of Africa in the Indian Ocean. It is the world's fourth largest island – about the same size as Kenya or France – and has many species of wildlife, most of which aren't found anywhere else in the world.

- b  3.49 Play the recording for students to check their ideas from 2a. Take feedback as a class.

Audioscript

GREG I finished training as a nurse in Auckland and I was expecting to get a job in a small hospital somewhere. But then a friend told me about NowVolunteer and I decided to apply. I'd always wanted to go to an African country and use my nursing skills to help people and here was a chance to do that, so I decided to take the opportunity while I could. I had to raise $500 before I went, but that was quite easy – I got two hospitals to sponsor me and then I borrowed some money from the bank.

So I went to Madagascar and joined a team of people working with a local supervisor. We set up a program where we went round villages

At the end of this lesson, students will be able to:

- understand an advert asking for volunteers
- understand someone talking about their volunteering experience
- understand emails asking for advice on a course of action
- use expressions to advise a course of action
- write an email with advice and taught basic ways to improve hygiene and to avoid catching diseases. For example, we gave instruction about how to avoid catching malaria and distributed mosquito nets to some of the homes. I think we did some good, I hope so anyway, but I also learned a huge amount from it. I was suddenly in a completely different culture, teaching people who had such a different lifestyle from my own, so I think it made a big difference to the way I see the world. And I also made some very good friends out there, both local people and the other volunteers. We had such good times together and we've kept in touch since then.

After I came back, I got accepted straight away for a job at the university hospital, which is one of the best hospitals in Auckland. I'm sure I wouldn't have managed to do that if I hadn't worked in Madagascar and got this practical experience.

So I'd recommend NowVolunteer to anyone. I think their programs are great.

VOCABULARY SUPPORT

distribute (B2) – to give something out to several people, or to spread or supply something hygiene (C1) – the degree to which people keep themselves or their environment clean, especially to prevent disease sponsor (B2) – to support a person, organisation or activity by giving money, or other help

- c  3.49 Students listen to the recording again and complete the table. Students compare notes in pairs. Monitor and help as necessary. Check answers as a class by asking different students to read out different answers.

Suggested answers

- 1 nursing
- 2 always wanted to go to African country to use nursing skills to help people
- 3 two hospitals sponsored him, and borrowed money from bank
- 4 went round villages, taught basic ways to improve hygiene and avoid catching diseases
- 5 got a job at university hospital in Auckland

- d  Put students into pairs or small groups and give them five minutes to discuss the questions. Take feedback as a class.

TIP MONITORING

When you monitor, it is often a good idea to contribute to the discussions with your own ideas, opinions and experiences. This can help in many ways. Firstly, it can encourage students to develop their conversations. Secondly, it can help create a good rapport with your students. Thirdly, you can learn more about your students and their individual language problems. For this activity you could mention any volunteer work you have done or would like to do.

EXTRA ACTIVITY

Put students into pairs or small groups. Tell them they have to think of a worthwhile volunteering opportunity – this could be something that already exists or something completely new. They should think about where it is, what the work involves, and why it's worthwhile. Together, they write a short advert for the volunteering position. Ask students to read out their adverts during feedback.

3 READING

- a Individually, students read Vicky's email and answer the questions. They then compare answers in pairs.

Answers

- 1 looking after elephants in Thailand, teaching English in China
- 2 raising the money for NowVolunteer

- b  Divide the class into pairs and assign A and B roles. Tell Student As to look at SB p.127 to read Amanda's reply and Student Bs to look at SB p.131 to read Laura's reply. Individually, they read the information and think about the question. Tell students not to discuss anything at this point.

- c  Put students into A/B pairs to tell each other about the reply that they read and discuss who they agree with. Take feedback as a class on what they think Vicky should do and why.

4 WRITING SKILLS

Advising a course of action

- a Tell students to look at both emails (on SB p.127 and p.131) to decide who uses which expression. Check answers as a class.

Answers

- 1 A 2 L 3 A 4 L 5 A 6 L 7 L

- b Put students into pairs to answer the questions. Then discuss the answers as a class.

Answers

- 1 Expressions 1, 4, 6 and 7 only give advice; Expressions 2, 3 and 5 also imagine what would (or wouldn't) happen.
- 2 Laura uses more 'careful' language because she's advising a friend not to do something they want to do (b).
- 3 a, c, e

- c Give students five minutes to rewrite the sentences. Then check answers slowly and clearly as a class.

Answers

- 1 If I were you, I'd write to them and ask where they spend the money.
- 2 Maybe it would be better to look for a job with a marketing company in Thailand.
- 3 I'm not sure it would be very interesting.
- 4 I expect you'd meet a lot of interesting people.
- 5 I'm just suggesting that you look at other alternatives.

5 WRITING An email with advice

- a Tell students that they are going to write emails like Vicky's. Ask students to suggest a few possible things that people might do for a year as an alternative to their normal lifestyle or job. Encourage them to think imaginatively at this stage. Give 10 minutes for students to write an email asking for advice. Monitor and help as necessary.
- b Put students into pairs to read each other's emails and write a reply. Encourage them to sound either careful or positive and enthusiastic. Give 15 minutes for this reading and writing stage. Monitor and check that students are using expressions from the lesson.
- c  When students have finished, they read their partner's reply and answer the questions in the book. Take feedback as a class.

Give the class feedback on their written work, focusing on how successfully their emails advise a course of action, and how careful or positive and enthusiastic their emails sound.

FAST FINISHERS

Ask fast finishers to write a short reply to thank the sender for his/her advice and say what they plan to do. Ask students to read examples of these during feedback.

REVIEW YOUR PROGRESS

Students look back through the unit, think about what they've studied and decide how well they did. Students work on weak areas by using the appropriate sections of the Workbook, the Photocopiable activities and the Personalised online practice.

Ideas for pre-teaching vocabulary

Before reading and listening tasks, it's often necessary to make sure students understand a few key words. This is called 'pre-teaching'. There are a number of ways to do this. Here are some ideas:

Give a definition: Use a short sentence to explain the meaning of a word. If you wish, use the definitions given in the Vocabulary support boxes throughout the Teacher's Notes. You could also use a learner dictionary to find on-level definitions, e.g. dive – to swim under water, usually with breathing equipment (from Cambridge Essential English Dictionary, Second Edition).

Draw/Show a picture or object: One of the easiest ways to teach students new words is to draw a picture on the board, or show a picture on the interactive whiteboard or on a computer or tablet. Using (or drawing) funny and/or interesting pictures is a good way to ensure students remember the new words, e.g. to teach the word dive you could find a picture of a diver with a big shark behind him.

Act it out: It can be useful to show the word by acting it out, rather than giving definitions which may use above-level vocabulary.

Elicit it: Elicitation allows you to check what words students may already know. Don't tell them the word you want to teach. Elicit it by asking questions or saying open-ended sentences, e.g. What is the activity when we swim under the sea and look at fish? or When we swim under water and look at fish, we ... ? (dive).

Gapped sentences: It's useful for students to see the word in a sentence to understand the context. Write a gapped sentence on the board (this can be one from the text), e.g. Cristina _____ in the Mediterranean Sea every summer. She loves to see the beautiful fish under the water. (dives). Allow students to guess what word goes in the gap, but don't confirm if they're right or wrong. After they read the text, they can guess again. Then confirm their answer.

Discussion questions: With stronger students you can write discussion questions containing the new words on the board. Then give students one or two example answers to these questions. Students try to guess the meaning. Give more example answers, if necessary. You may then wish to allow students to ask and answer these questions for themselves.

Pre-teaching for listening: You can use any of the above ideas, or others you may have, to teach new words before students listen. It may also be useful to model the pronunciation of the words so students are used to hearing how it sounds. This is particularly useful when a word has an unfamiliar spelling rule. If you don't want to model the word, it can be useful to write the word in IPA on the board (you can find this in all dictionaries).

Extra ideas – how to ...

Class survey

Use: to revise tenses, verb patterns, verb collocations, conversational language

Dynamic: whole class

Procedure:

- Write a list of questions which practise the target language. Ideally, each student will have a different question, but if this is difficult, aim to have one question per two students.
- Photocopy the list and cut up into strips to give out. Make sure each student has a question, even if the question is the same as another student's. Alternatively, dictate each question to one (or two) student(s) in turn.
- Ask students a question as an example and elicit a response which uses the target structure. Write the response on the board.
- Set a time limit for the activity, e.g. 10 minutes. Students move around the class and ask their question to as many different other students as they can. They write down the responses in their notebooks.
- When the time is up, divide students into smaller groups and ask them to compare their most interesting responses.

Running dictation

Use: to revise all kinds of vocabulary

Dynamic: whole class

Procedure:

- Choose a short text or a list of sentences/questions which you wish to revise. Around six to ten sentences should be adequate, depending on how confident your students are. Choose a text of the appropriate level for your students and which does not contain unfamiliar words.
- You will need one sheet for each pair of students, plus a few extra sheets. Put the extra sheets on a far wall of the classroom or just outside the classroom door. Mark the halfway point on the text.
- Divide the class into pairs: Student A is a reader and Student B is a writer. A has to go to the text/list and memorise as much as he/she can. Encourage students to remember a few words accurately rather than try to memorise too much. Student A goes back to Student B and dictates what he/she can remember. Student A must walk over to Student B before dictating and not shout the text out! Student A is not allowed to do any writing at this stage. The dictation continues until Student A has reached the halfway point of the text.
- The students swap roles with Student B dictating and Student A writing.
- As each pair finishes, give them a copy of the text and allow them to check their text against the original. Students should correct their mistakes. Monitor and help students to decide whether any differences are grammatically correct or not.

Grammar auction

Use: to revise a specific grammar area or general grammar

Dynamic: whole class (in teams)

Procedure:

- Prepare 10–15 sentences containing items of grammar from the unit you are currently working on or areas of grammar which you know students find problematic. Some of them should be correct and some incorrect.
- Write the sentences on the board and explain what an auction is (when you sell something to the person who offers the most money).
- Put students into small groups and tell them they have £100 and they need to buy the correct sentences. In their groups, students discuss which sentences they think are correct and decide which to buy and how much they are prepared to pay for each. Don't help or allow students to look at their notes or the Student's Book.
- Take the role of auctioneer and sell each sentence to the group which offers the most money. Keep track of how much each group has spent. Remind students that once they have spent all their money they can't buy any more sentences, so they shouldn't spend too much too soon.
- After all the sentences have been sold, go through them one at a time, revealing which are correct and which are incorrect. Ask students to correct the mistakes.
- The winning group is the one which has bought the most correct sentences. If it's a draw, then the group which has got the most money left wins.

Guess who?

Use: to practise question forms, present simple, present continuous, past simple, etc.

Dynamic: whole class (with optional group/pair extension)

Procedure:

- Tell students that you are thinking of a person and that they have to guess who it is by asking Yes/No questions.
- If you wish to practise a specific grammar area, you might tell students that this person is living (for present tenses) or dead (for past tenses). Alternatively, you can use this activity to practise question forms in general by not specifying anything about the person.
- Put students into pairs or small groups to brainstorm possible questions. Specify a total number of questions, between five and ten, for the class to try and guess who you're thinking of. Students then take turns to ask you some of the questions they thought of.
- Make sure you reply only with yes or no (NOT Yes, he/she is;) in order not to give away if the person is a man or a woman.
- Students win if they guess the person within the specified number of questions. The teacher wins if students can't guess the person.
- Continue the game either as a class, by asking a student to choose a person and take over from you at the front of the class, or by putting students into pairs or small groups to play.

Classroom whispers

Use: to revise tenses, verb patterns, verb collocations, pronunciation and listening skills

Dynamic: whole class

Procedure:

- You will need a list of short sentences and/or questions which practise the structures you wish to revise. You will need one sheet per three students in the class.
- Divide students into groups of three. All the Student As go to one part of the classroom, all the Student Bs to another, and Student Cs to another.
- Model the activity by standing with the Student As and showing them the first sentence on the sheet. The Student As then walk to the Student Bs and whisper the sentence they have remembered. Make sure the Student Cs can't hear. The Student Bs then go to the Student Cs and repeat the sentence and the Student Cs write down what they heard. Write the correct sentence on the board. Student Cs compare this with what they have written.
- Start the activity by showing the second item on the list to the Student As. The activity then continues as per your model. After the Student As have had two or three turns, they swap roles with the others in their group. The activity continues like this until they reach the end of the list.
- When the students have finished, give each group of three a copy of the sheet and they compare this against what they have written. The group with the fewest mistakes wins.

Sentence chains

Use: to revise a specific lexical set, e.g. items to take on holiday, etc.

Dynamic: groups/pairs

Procedure:

- Before the class, decide which lexical set you're going to test students on and decide the best sentence to lead in to this. You can use: Before I went on holiday I packed... (my ticket, a guidebook, my clothes, a map). However, if you want to revise a different tense as well as the target lexical set, you could amend the sentence as appropriate, e.g. I came home from holiday and I had spent all my money. I had ... (bought a lot of souvenirs, done a lot of sightseeing, stayed in a luxury hotel).
- Demonstrate the activity with the lead-in sentence and then the first item, e.g. Before I went on holiday, I packed my ticket. Gesture to a student to repeat your sentence and add a new verb phrase e.g. Before I went on holiday, I packed my ticket and a guidebook. Nominate the next student who repeats the sentence and adds another item and so on until the list is too long to remember.
- Put students into groups of three to five to play together.
- Depending on your students, you may wish to adjust the difficulty of the activity, e.g. ask students to include the information about a list of nouns, e.g. my plane ticket, a heavy guidebook, my beach clothes, a local map.

Backs to the board

Use: to revise a specific lexical set or general vocabulary

Dynamic: whole class (in teams)

Procedure:

- Put students into small groups of four to five. If possible, mix stronger students with weaker students so no group is noticeably stronger or weaker than another.
- Tell students in each group to sit close together, leaving space between the groups so they can't easily hear one another. Tell one student in each group to sit with their back to the board and the others to sit so that they can see the board.
- Explain that you're going to write a word or phrase on the board and that the students who can see the board have to communicate the meaning to the student who can't. They can use any method to do this, drawing pictures, mime, synonyms, simple explanations, etc. However, use of their own language will mean they are disqualified.
- When the student(s) with their back to the board think they know the word, they put their hand up. Ask the first student to put their hand up to say the word and, if they are correct, award their group a point. If they aren't, the other teams continue. Any student who shouts out the answer is also disqualified.
- The winning group is the one with the most points at the end of the game.

Tennis

Use: to revise specific word pairs, e.g. opposite adjectives, past simple / past participle forms, collocations

Dynamic: pairs

Procedure:

- Explain which lexical set you're going to work on, e.g. travel collocations. Demonstrate the activity by asking a stronger student to help you. Say the first word of the pair, e.g. pack and ask the student to respond with the second, e.g. a bag. The student continues with a different first word and you respond with the second, e.g. A pack B a bag – stay at A home – stay in B a hotel –, etc.
- Tell students that, just like in a real game of tennis, it's important not to pause for a long time. If one of the students pauses too long between items, they lose that round, e.g. in A travel B abroad – make A plans – plan B unmm ahhh ... a holiday, B would lose.
- Put students into pairs to play together. Tell them they should continue for as long as possible. If one student loses the round, they start again.

Board game

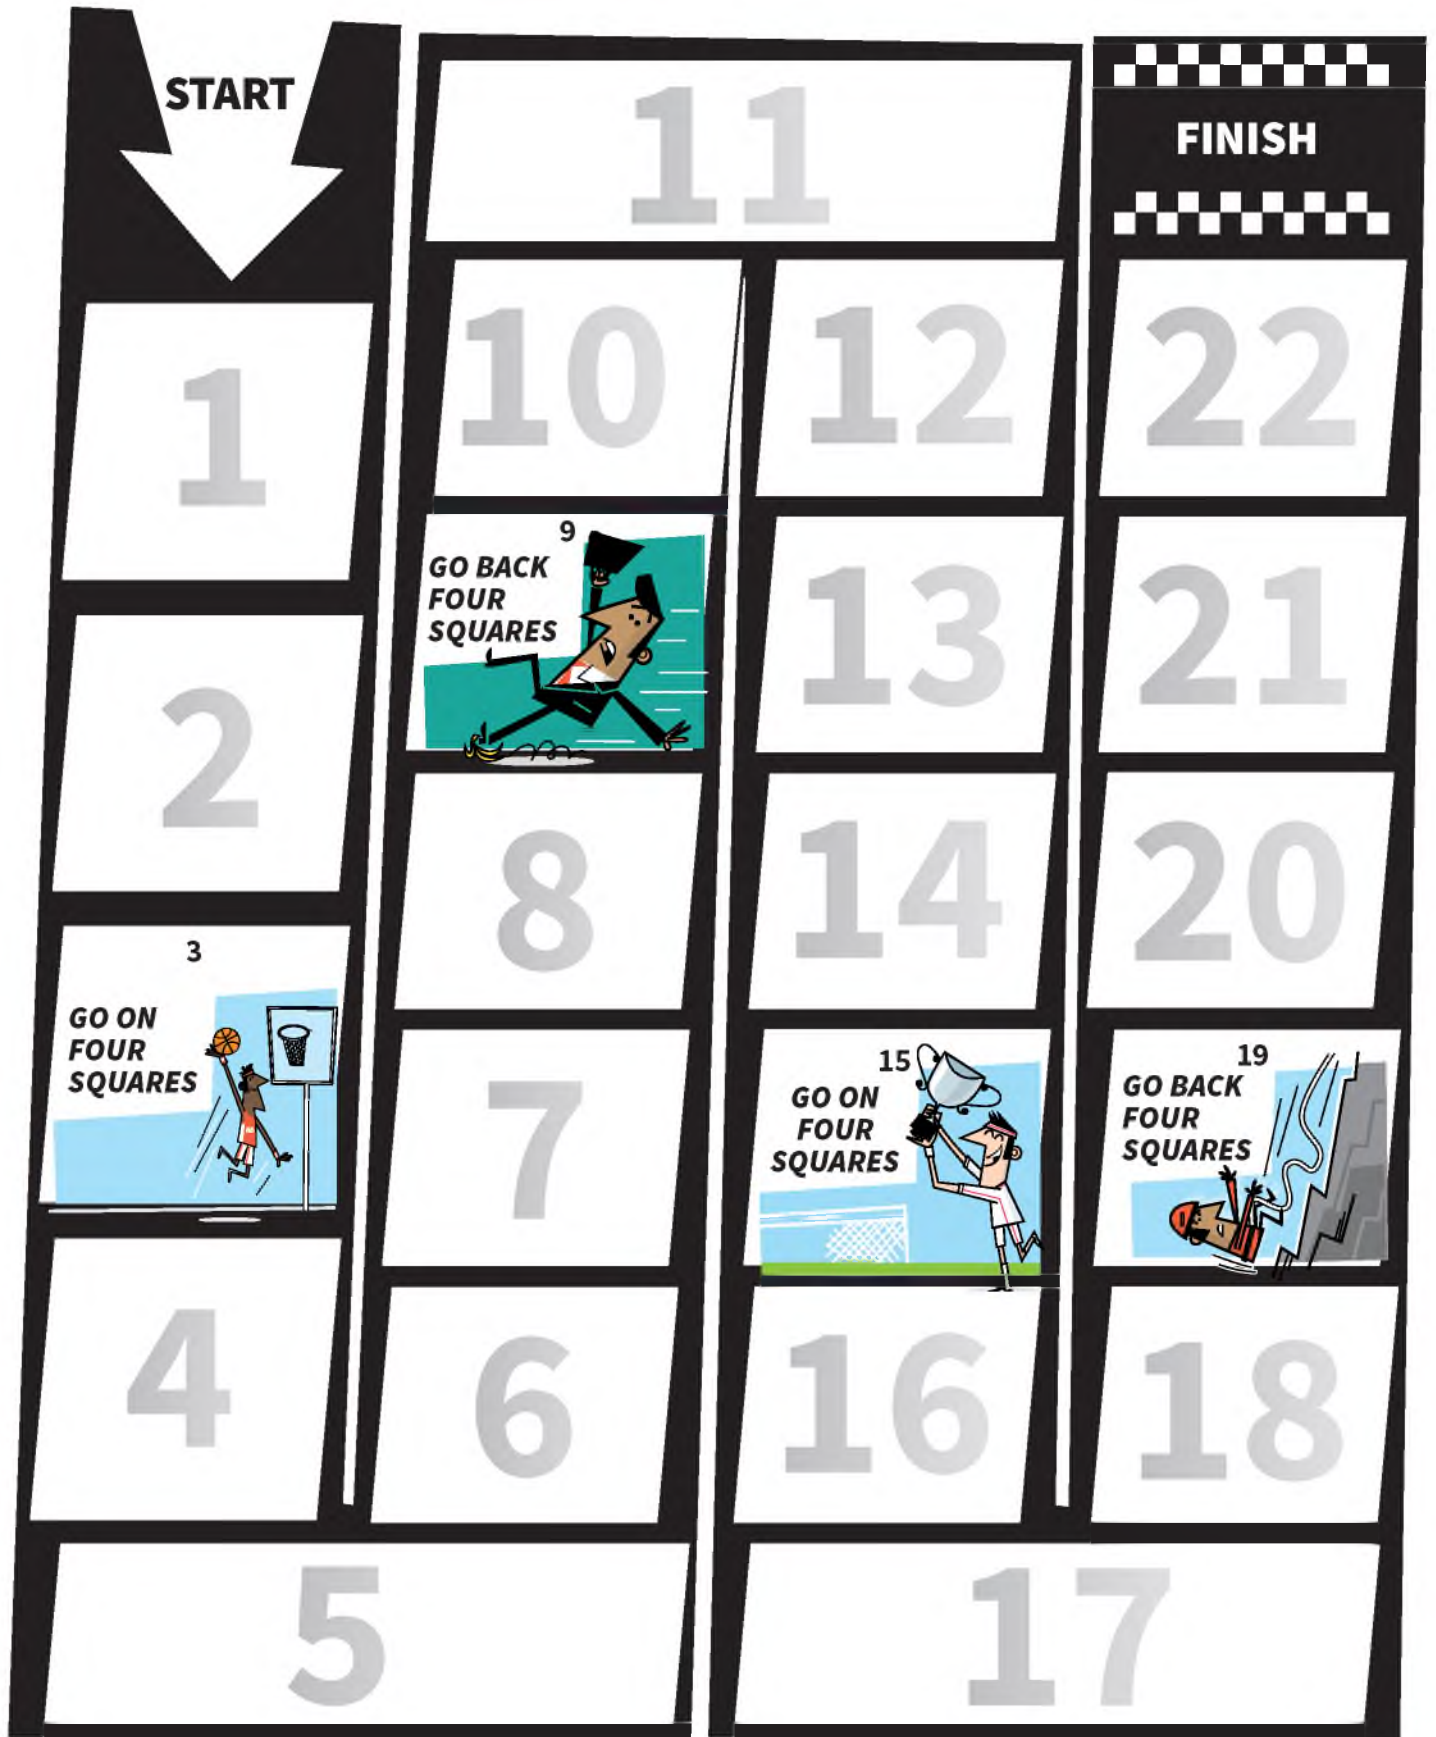

Use: to revise vocabulary or grammar structures from any lesson in the Student's Book

Dynamic: small groups

Procedure:

- Before the class, decide which lexical set, or grammar structure you want to give students extra practice in, e.g. Communication vocabulary from Lesson 1A, or Present simple and continuous from Lesson 1B.
- Divide the class into groups of three or four and give each group a board game sheet and a dice. Explain that students take turns to roll the dice and move around the board. Whenever a student lands on a square, they must practise a grammar or vocabulary item related to the number of that square. You will write these vocabulary or grammar items on the board later. If a student lands on squares 3, 9, 15 or 19, they must go back or go on, as indicated.
- If you are practising vocabulary, you will need 18 lexical items. Decide on these items, and write them on the board, numbered 1–22. Note that there will be no items numbered 3, 9, 15 or 19. When a student lands on a square, they must talk for one minute, making sure that they use the lexical item when they are talking. (You can ask students to talk for less, or more, than a minute, depending on their level and confidence. You can also give students a time range, e.g. 30 seconds to one minute, if you have a class with mixed ability.)
- Alternatively, you may wish to test students' vocabulary knowledge by writing 18 gapped sentences on the board, e.g. 1 It's difficult to keep in ___ with friends when they live abroad. When students land on that number, they must say what they think the missing word is (e.g. touch).
- To give further practice of grammar structures, write 18 sentences with an option for each sentence, e.g. 1 What do you think / are you thinking about right now? As students land on that numbered square, they decide which is the best way to complete the sentence.
- Alternatively, write 9 grammatically correct sentences on the board, and 9 incorrect sentences (e.g. What do you think about right now?) on the board. When students land on a square, they must decide whether the sentence is correct or not, and if not, they correct it.
- Monitor and help with any questions students have about correct language.
- Students play until the winner reaches the FINISH square.

Teacher's notes for photocopiable activities

GRAMMAR

1A Subject and object questions

▶ Photocopiable activity on p.181

You will need one sheet for each student.

Ask students to think of a place they have travelled to recently. It could be a place nearby in their own country, or somewhere abroad.

Give each student a sheet and ask them to look at Activity A. Put students into pairs and tell them to complete the yes/no-questions in column A with the correct form of the verb in brackets. Do question 1 as an example: Have you travelled recently?

Next, ask students to focus on the follow-up object questions in Column C. Elicit that they should use the past simple. Do question 2 as an example: Where did you go? Students complete the questions with the correct form of the words in brackets. Check answers for both columns as a class.

Answers

- 1 Have you travelled recently?
- 2 Where did you go?
- 3 Did you go with a friend?
- 4 Who did you go with?
- 5 Did you see a famous building or place?
- 6 What did you see?
- 7 Did you take lots of photos?
- 8 What did you take photos of?
- 9 Did you eat something interesting?
- 10 What did you have?
- 11 Did you enjoy your visit and do you want to go back?
- 12 Why did you like it?

Tell students they're going to move round the class and try to find a different person for each question in column A. Explain that they must first ask the yes/no-questions, and start each exchange with: Have you travelled recently? If they find someone who answers 'yes', they should write their name in column B and ask the follow-up question in column C. They should then make notes on the answers they hear in column C.

Students then look at Activity B. Ask them to complete the subject questions with the correct form of the words in brackets. Do the first one as an example: Who has travelled recently? Check that the questions have been formed correctly.

Put students into small groups to ask and answer the subject questions, e.g. A Who saw a famous building or place? B Maria. She went to New York and saw the Empire State Building.

Get feedback from the class. Ask for the most interesting information the students found out about the people they interviewed.

Answers

- 1 Who has travelled recently?
- 2 Who went with a friend?
- 3 Who saw a famous building or place?
- 4 Who took lots of photos?
- 5 Who ate something interesting?
- 6 Who enjoyed their visit and wants to go back?

1B Present simple and present continuous

▶ Photocopiable activity on p.182

You will need one sheet for each group of three or four students, cut up.

Explain that this is a guessing game, practising the present simple and present continuous.

Demonstrate by writing the following sentence on the board: I'm working very hard at the moment. Do not say the exact sentence, or exact words from the sentence, but try to explain it using other present simple or present continuous phrases, e.g. Every day, I get up at 5 o'clock in the morning. I go to the office, and I work for 14 hours every day. I only get home at 9 o'clock at night, and that's why I'm feeling really tired right now!

Divide the class into small groups of three or four. Give each group a set of cards and ask them to put the cards face down in front of them. Students take it in turns to pick up a card and to talk about the sentence they read. The other students in the group should try to guess what the sentence is. The student who guesses the sentence (or nearly the same sentence) can keep the card.

The winner is the student with the most cards.

VARIATION

Play the game as a whole class and divide the class into two teams. With a weaker class, you could explain the sentences on the cards yourself. The first team to say the same sentence on the card (or nearly the same) wins the point.

With a stronger class, you could ask different students from each team to pick a card and explain their sentence in front of the class. Again, the first team to say the sentence wins the point.

2A Present perfect simple and past simple

▶ Photocopiable activity on p.183

You will need one sheet for each student.

Divide the class into groups of three or four. Explain that students are going to talk about things they haven't done yet but would like to do.

Students look at the ambitions at the top of the sheet and choose six, numbering them 1–6. They can write their own idea next to 'something else?' if they have a different ambition.

Demonstrate spinning the pencil in the centre of the circle, or letting it drop vertically from upright in the centre until a number is selected. Students take it in turns to select a number in this way. Each student should clarify the item on their list corresponding to that number, and describe something they haven't done yet but would like to do. Other students can explain if they have done this activity and discuss it.

Continue until each student has spoken about most of the items on their list.

2B Present perfect simple and present perfect continuous

▶ Photocopiable activity on p.184

You will need one sheet for each student.

Divide the class into groups of three and give each student a sheet.

Ask students to look at the sentences and to underline the best verb forms in each one. Point out that sometimes both forms may be possible.

If necessary, remind students that we don't use the present perfect continuous with state verbs and that we often use the present perfect continuous to focus on the duration of an activity, or when doing (rather than completing) an activity has a result now.

FAST FINISHERS

Fast finishers can create their own sentences. They can look back at 2B for ideas.

Answers

- 1 I've known
- 2 We've lived / We've been living
- 3 I've owned
- 4 I've done / I've been doing
- 5 I've studied / I've been studying
- 6 I haven't read
- 7 I've read / I've been reading
- 8 I've worked / I've been working
- 9 I've lived
- 10 I've just finished

Students change the sentences so they are true for themselves in the 'Me' column. If necessary, write an example on the board: I've known my best friend since I was 17. We haven't been living in the same town for a long time – she lives in Madrid and I live in Barcelona.

Tell students they should now find out about each other by asking questions. Ask students to think of the question forms needed. Give an example: How long have you known your best friend?

Students talk to the two other members in their group and make notes in the table.

Get feedback by asking one or two groups to tell you anything interesting they talked about.

3A Narrative tenses

▶ Photocopiable activity on p.185

You will need one sheet for each pair of students, cut into a set of story cards (A–J).

Explain to students that they are going to create a story from some story cards. Divide the class into pairs and give each pair a set of cards.

Give the pairs five minutes to order the story, then ask them to work with another pair and compare their story order.

Elicit the correct order and write this on the board.

Answers

1 D 2 G 3 I 4 A 5 E 6 B 7 J 8 C 9 F 10 H

EXTRA ACTIVITY

Divide the class so that each student is working with a different partner. Ask students to retell the story one more time. Pay close attention to their use of narrative tenses.

3B used to, usually

▶ Photocopiable activity on p.186

You will need one sheet for each student.

Give each student a sheet. Students work individually and choose six of the prompts at the top of the page. They should write their answers (just one or two words for each one) in the six shapes on the sheet.

Divide the class into pairs. They should show each other their sheets. Students look at the answers in the shapes and ask their partner questions to find out what each answer refers to e.g. Did you use to spend a lot of time at your grandmother's house?

Students explain their answers as fully as possible, e.g. Yes, I used to go and visit her every weekend, but then we moved to a different town, and I don't see her so much now, but we usually see her in the summer. Encourage students to ask follow-up questions.

Students report back to the class on their partner's most interesting answers.

4A Modals and phrases of ability

▶ Photocopiable activity on p.187

You will need one sheet for each student.

Tell the class that they are going to practise modals and phrases of ability. Quickly elicit phrases which can talk about ability (be able to, should be able to, manage to, need to, etc.).

Give each student a sheet. Tell them that you will read out 10 sentences. Students listen and write down the sentences they hear in the first column.

- 1 I can play a musical instrument.
- 2 I like being able to speak English.
- 3 I won't be able to relax this weekend.
- 4 Everyone should be able to go to university.
- 5 I want to be able to drive in the future.
- 6 I couldn't speak any English a year ago.
- 7 I'm not able to run more than five kilometres.
- 8 I managed to do something very difficult recently.
- 9 I've been able to meet lots of interesting people recently.
- 10 I worry about not being able to get a good job in the future.

Ask students to decide which sentences they agree with and to change the sentences which are not true, e.g. I can't play a musical instrument. I could play a musical instrument when I was younger, but I can't now.

Divide the class into small groups of three or four. Ask students to discuss their ten sentences, and to give as much information as they can, e.g. I can't play a musical instrument. I could play the piano when I was younger, but I can't now. I've forgotten how to do it. Encourage students to ask follow-up questions to find out more.

Go round and monitor to check students are using modals of ability and be able to correctly

Students report back to the class on anything interesting they discussed in their groups.

4B Articles

▶ Photocopiable activity on p.188

You will need one sheet for each group of three or four students. Each group will need a dice and something to use as counters for each student (e.g. a coin).

Explain that students take turns to move around the board. Whenever they land on a square, they must first complete the sentence they see with the correct article (a, an, the or no article \emptyset). If they can't, they have to move back to the previous square.

If students land on a True or false? square, they must also agree or disagree with the statement and explain why. If they land on a Talk about... square, they need to talk about the topic for at least 30 seconds.

As students are playing, go round and monitor to check students are using the articles correctly.

The winner is the first student to reach the FINISH square.

Answers

1 a 2 the 3 the 4 a 5 an 6 a 8 \emptyset , \emptyset 9 the 10 \emptyset 11 the 13 \emptyset 15 \emptyset 16 \emptyset 17 the 18 a 20 the 21 the 22 the 23 the

FAST FINISHERS

Ask fast finishers to create gapped sentences with missing articles. They can write these on the board while the other groups are finishing their game. Check answers as a class.

5A Future forms

▶ Photocopiable activity on p.189

You will need one sheet for each pair of students.

Divide the class into pairs and give each pair a sheet. Explain that you are going to read out ten sentences and students should decide which response is better: a or b.

Read out the sentences, repeating them if necessary:

- 1 What are your plans this summer?
- 2 I'm having a party tonight. Do you want to come?
- 3 Are you busy this afternoon?
- 4 I forgot my wallet – I can't buy anything for lunch today.
- 5 When are you going to New York?
- 6 Do you think Sarah will be OK in her exam?
- 7 These books are so heavy.
- 8 The party starts at five. Bring your own food or drink if you want.
- 9 It's gone really cold.
- 10 I heard on the TV that it's going to be sunny tomorrow.

Answers

Check answers as a class. Ask students to discuss why each answer they chose was correct.

5B Zero conditional and first conditional

▶ Photocopiable activity on p.190

You will need one sheet for each group of students.

Divide the class into groups of four. Tell students that they are going to play a game where one student chooses a zero conditional or first conditional sentence and the other students guess which sentence has been chosen.

Demonstrate by choosing a sentence from the sheet. Don't tell the class which one you've chosen. Instead, talk about it by inventing a situation or talking about something from your own experience, e.g. I want to go to the beach this weekend, but I've just checked the weather forecast. It says it's going to be cold and rainy, so I might not go. Maybe I'll just stay in and watch DVDs. I'll wait until Friday, and then I'll decide. Ask the class which sentence is the best match for this situation (12 Unless it's sunny, you'll stay at home).

Students take turns to choose a sentence and explain the situation related to that sentence. The first student to guess the sentence correctly can cross off the square and write their initials on it.

The winner is the student who has correctly guessed the most sentences.

⚡ VARIATION

With a white-out pen, gap a word in each situation, e.g. 10 When you see a _____, you always feel scared. Divide the class into pairs and give this modified version of the sheet to each pair. Divide the class into pairs and ask them to complete the sentences. Take feedback as a class and see how many of the answers were the same.

6A Modals of obligation

▶ Photocopiable activity on p.191

You will need one sheet for each pair.

Divide the class into pairs and give each pair a sheet. Ask students to read the sentence beginnings and to discuss their ideas on how to complete each sentence. Demonstrate this by reading sentence 1 When you use public transport, you must ... and eliciting some possible ideas for how to complete the sentence e.g. buy a ticket, give up your seat to people who need it, etc.

Students continue to read the sentences and write the sentence endings in one of the boxes at the bottom of the worksheet. Ask students not to write their endings in order. Monitor and help as necessary.

When students have finished, divide the class again so each pair is working with another pair in groups of four. Ask pairs to swap sheets and try to guess which answer goes with which sentence.

Pairs then work together to check answers and to confirm their completed sentences. They then discuss whether they agree with the completed sentences or not.

Get feedback from the class and elicit an ending for each sentence. Correct any mistakes.

6B Comparatives and superlatives

▶ Photocopiable activity on p.192

You will need one sheet for each student.

Tell students that they are going to discuss different topics using comparative and superlative language.

Demonstrate by writing the following on the board: Think of two jobs. Elicit different jobs from the class and write them on the board. Then, write the following question: Which is the most popular? Elicit answers from the class. Encourage students to use more than just a simple range of language for comparing things, e.g. it's as good as ..., a bit ..., by far ..., much .... Encourage the class to give reasons for their decision.

Give each student a sheet. First, ask them to write down their own ideas. They should write items for each prompt, and then make notes about why one might be better, more difficult, etc. than the other.

Put students into small groups of three or four. They should say the things in their lists, and then discuss together which one is better, worse, etc.

Go round and monitor for correct language. Finally, ask a few groups to tell the class about the lists they discussed.

EXTRA ACTIVITY

In their groups, students think of three more categories and write questions for each one on a sheet of paper. Tell the groups to swap their sheets with another group's and to answer their questions. Get feedback as a class by asking one student from each group to talk about one of the answers they gave.

7A Modals of deduction

▶ Photocopiable activity on p.193

You will need one sheet for each group of students, cut up.

Divide the class into small groups and give each group the two sets of cards. Students should put the two sets of cards face down on the desk and spread out the cards into two groups.

Students must take turns to turn over a numbered sentence 1–12. As a group, they should speculate on the situation. Encourage students to use modals of deduction (could, can't, might and must).

Students then try to match the first sentence in bold with a logical second sentence. Demonstrate by turning over two cards and reading them to the class. Ask if the cards match or not. If the cards match, the students can keep the cards and turn over another card to try and find another matching pair. If not, the cards are turned over and placed back down again.

The winner is the student with the most matching sentences.

Answers

- 1 She can't be cold.
- 2 He must be ill.
- 3 We can't be late.
- 4 She might be angry with you.
- 5 She must really enjoy it.
- 6 We could be too late.
- 7 She might be a famous person.
- 8 He could be on holiday.
- 9 It can't be boring.
- 10 He must earn a lot of money.
- 11 He could be wrong.
- 12 It might not be very cheap.

VARIATION

Cut up the second group of sentences but don't cut up 1–12. Divide the class into pairs. Ask students to match sentences 1–12 with the correct second sentence.

7B Quantifiers

▶ Photocopiable activity on p.194

You will need one sheet for each group of students, cut up.

Divide the class into small groups and give each group a set of cards. Students put the two sets of cards face down on the desk in front of them.

Students must take turns to turn over a card and look at the sentence. They should show it to the other members of their group. The first person to say whether the sentence is grammatically correct or not (and to correct the sentence) gets the chance to talk about the topic (agreeing or disagreeing with the statement) on the card for 30 seconds. Point out that the sentences may contain mistakes with quantifiers, but not with any other grammar point.

The winner is the student with the most cards.

NO-CUT VARIATION

You will need one sheet for each student or pair of students. Ask them to work individually or together to decide whether the sentences are correct or not.

8A Reported speech

▶ Photocopiable activity on p.195

You will need one sheet for each student.

Individually, students complete the question forms in the first column of the table using the words from the box. Tell them that the words can be used more than once.

Answers

- 1 did, were 2 Did 3 was 4 was 5 do 6 Do
7 have 8 do 9 are 10 will 11 Are 12 Can Tell students to move around the class. They should ask their questions to three other students and make notes of their answers in the table.

Write this example of reported information on the board and remind students of the rules of reported speech:

I asked Simona what she had enjoyed doing when she was a child. She said that she had enjoyed playing video games. She also told me that she hadn't enjoyed school very much because she thought it was boring.

Divide the class into small groups so that students work with people they didn't interview. Each person should give a short report on what they found out about the people they interviewed. Each group should see if their reports have anything in common.

8B Verb patterns

▶ Photocopiable activity on p.196

You will need one sheet for each group of students.

Divide the class into groups of four, six or eight and then further divide each group into two teams: A and B (or an alternative name chosen by them).

Explain that each team must try and win as many words as possible.

Tell students that to win a hexagon, they must create a correct sentence using the verb inside the shape, plus the -ing form or to + infinitive. Demonstrate by asking what sentence they could make if the hexagon contained the word enjoy. If they produce a sentence using the form enjoy doing something, tell them they would win the hexagon. If they produce an incorrect sentence (enjoy to do something) then the other team will have a chance to win the hexagon by offering an alternative sentence.

Get each team to toss a coin to decide which team goes first. They should take turns till the game is over. When they win a hexagon they should write 'A' or 'B' (or the name of the group) in the shape. Go round and monitor for correct language use.

VARIATION

For a shorter game (but still in teams), students just have to say whether each verb is followed by the -ing form or to + infinitive to win a hexagon.

9A The passive

▶ Photocopiable activity on p.197

You will need one sheet for each group of students, cut up.

Divide the class into small groups and give each group a set of cards. Students put the cards face down on the desk in front of them.

Students must take turns to turn over a card and look at the sentence. They mustn't show it to the other members of their group. First, they decide how to complete the gap with the passive form of the verb in brackets. They then read out the full sentence. Point out that sometimes there may be more than one possible way of completing the sentence. Go round and answer any questions students have about the choice of passive form.

Other members of the group compete to be the first to follow the instruction, naming two things belonging to that category.

The winner is the student who named the most things at the end.

9B Defining and non-defining relative clauses

▶ Photocopiable activity on p.198

You will need one sheet for each student.

Give each student a sheet. Individually, students look at the five categories and write three items in each one. Monitor in case any students need help with ideas.

Tell students to start thinking about how to define each of the things they listed. Demonstrate by telling students that you are going to define something in the Places/Buildings category. Write the following description on the board: It's a place where people go if they are ill. The people who work there are doctors and nurses. Elicit the answer hospital from the class. Students then define the things they listed. They can make notes if they want.

Divide the class into small groups. Explain that students will take it in turns to define one of their words. They start by nominating the first person to begin. The group choose a category (e.g. Jobs) and the person defining chooses one item from their own list and says their first sentence. Each definition must contain a relative clause. The student continues saying sentences until the group can guess the item. Allow the game to continue until all the participants have defined the things on their lists.

EXTRA ACTIVITY

Put students into pairs. Ask them to select one item from each category from either of their lists. They should then write two sentences – one a defining and the other a non-defining relative clause. Encourage them to try and be as creative as possible.

Put each pair of students with another pair to form a new group of four. Each pair tests the other pair to see who can guess the most items from the definitions.

10A Second conditional

▶ Photocopiable activity on p.199

You will need enough sheets to give at least one strip to each student. In larger classes, more than one student may have the same item. Before the class, cut up the strips.

In this activity, students move around the class and ask their classmates questions. Demonstrate by writing What would you do if ... ? on the board. Then write meet (the name of a famous person). Ask students how you could make a second conditional question from this (What would you do if you met [the name of a famous person]?). Encourage students to answer the question, using the second conditional (I'd ...).

Give students one question strip each. They should move around the classroom asking as many other students as possible to answer the What would you do if ...? question. They make notes of the response in a notebook. Monitor to check students are using the second conditional correctly.

As a class, or in groups, students talk about the funniest or most interesting responses they heard.

VARIATION

In larger classes (or where mingling is difficult), students could work in pairs or small groups, taking turns to ask and answer the questions.

10B Third conditional

▶ Photocopiable activity on p.200

You will need one sheet for each group of students, cut up.

Explain that they are going to play a game using the third conditional. Demonstrate by asking students to identify the situation you are talking about. Tell the class the following information:

If I'd written it down, I would have remembered it.

If someone had told me, I could have bought something.

I might have remembered if I hadn't been so busy.

Ask the class what they think you are talking about (I forgot a friend's birthday).

Divide the class into small groups of three or four students and give each group a set of sentences face down.

Ask each student to take a sentence, and read the situation. Tell them to think about what caused each problem, and how to talk about it using the third conditional (with would, could or might). Give students a few minutes to do this. They can make notes or write full sentences if they wish.

Students take turns to talk about their regrets, without saying the information on their cards. The first person in the group to guess the situation wins the sentence. This continues until all the situations have been discussed. Monitor to check students are using the third conditional correctly.

The winner is the student with the most sentences.

VOCABULARY

1A Communication

▶ Photocopiable activity on p.201

You will need one sheet for each student.

Explain to students that they are going to do a questionnaire which practises words related to communication.

Give each student a sheet. Complete the first question together, then students can work individually or in pairs to complete the gaps.

Check answers as a class, including the pronunciation of any difficult items, e.g. persuade, argue, public.

Answers

- 1 face, face
- 2 complain
- 3 opinion
- 4 give
- 5 public
- 6 tells
- 7 feelings
- 8 persuade
- 9 insist
- 10 argue

Divide the class into pairs or small groups. Ask students to look at the first situation and think about what they would do and why. Elicit ideas from the group and encourage them to disagree so that they have to justify their answers. Students then continue with the other situations.

Monitor to check correct language use. Get feedback on the different situations.

1B Gradable and extreme adjectives

▶ Photocopiable activity on p.202

You will need one sheet for each group of three students. Before the lesson, cut up the Student A, B and C cards to make one set of 12 cards for each student. Also cut out one Situations card for each student.

Explain to students that first they are going to play the game snap with adjectives.

Divide the class into groups of three.

Give each Student A the 12 gradable adjectives jumbled up, and give Students B and C a set of 12 extreme adjectives each. Students B and C should put their adjectives face up in front of them. Student A should not show them the set of gradable adjectives.

Student A then places one gradable adjective in front of the other students, and they must try to be the first to match it with the appropriate extreme adjective (e.g. tiny matches small), using the correct pronunciation. If there is disagreement about the pronunciation, you must be the judge. Continue until all the adjectives have been used up.

The winner is the student with the most correct matches. You can then repeat the game once or twice, with students taking different roles.

Next, ask students to put the 36 adjectives in front of them and to choose 12 different adjectives. These can be a mix of gradable or extreme adjectives. Give each student a Situation card and tell them to talk about their situation in reasonable detail, using the 12 adjectives appropriately. They can use any adjective as much as they like, but they must try to use all 12 of them at least once. Tell them they can make notes in the empty space on their cards. Monitor while they do the activity and help where necessary.

Get students to take turns telling each other about the different events (e.g. Last summer I went on holiday to Crete. It was July, so it was boiling and we had a fantastic time...).

EXTRA ACTIVITY

Divide the class into pairs so each Student A is sitting with another Student A, each Student B with another Student B, and each Student C with another Student C. Ask the pairs to compare the stories they invented and to tell each other which adjectives they used.

2A Work

 Photocopiable activity on p.203

You will need one sheet for each student.

Individually, students do the matching task in Activity A. They then compare answers in pairs. Check answers as a class.

Answers

1 e 2 f 3 a 4 b 5 j 6 c 7 d 8 h 9 g 10 i

Next, ask students to read statements 1–8 in Activity B and decide which ones are true for them. If they don't think a statement is true, they should think of reasons why not.

Put students into small groups to discuss the statements. Students can take it in turns to read one of their statements, saying why they agree or disagree with it and the others can then respond by giving their own opinion. Encourage them to develop the conversations by finding out why others answered in the way they did. Monitor the discussions, and note important language points and any interesting ideas to discuss with the class afterwards.

2B Technology

 Photocopiable activity on p.204

You will need one sheet for each student. Before the class, cut up the Student A and Student B cards for Activity C.

Ask students to look at Activity A. This could be done as a race, individually or in pairs. Students have to unscramble the words. Check answers and correct any pronunciation errors in words such as browser, message, delete and username.

For Activity C, divide the class into pairs and give each student an A or a B card. First, ask students to read through their questions and decide if the answer is 'yes' or 'no' to each one. You could set a time limit for this. Monitor while the students are working, but avoid giving the answers at this stage.

Answers

Student A

1 no 2 yes 3 yes 4 no 5 yes 6 yes 7 no 8 yes

Student B

1 yes 2 yes 3 no 4 no 5 yes 6 yes 7 no 8 yes

When they have all finished, tell students to face each other and take turns to read their questions to their partner (who cannot see the questions). The partner should answer within five seconds. Once they have been through all the questions for both students, they can compare answers.

Check answers as a class and deal with any problems.

VARIATION

You could drill some of the dialogues in Activity B quickly, then ask pairs to practise saying them naturally and warn them that they will need to memorise the responses. Monitor and correct where necessary. At the end, arrange the pairs so that they are facing each other, one with the dialogues asking the questions, and the other without. It will be a challenge for them to remember all the dialogues, so be flexible about any close answers.

3A Relationships

▶ Photocopiable activity on p.205

You will need one sheet for each student.

Ask students to look at Activity A. They work on the activity individually and then compare answers with a partner. Make sure they read out their sentences rather than just look at each other's answers. Check answers as a class.

Answers

- 1 We come from a similar background.
- 2 How did you get to know them?
- 3 We keep in touch by phone.
- 4 We have a lot of shared interests.
- 5 She always gave me lots of emotional support.
- 6 We don't have a lot in common.
- 7 We have the same sense of humour.
- 8 I don't get on with my boss.

Ask students to look at Activity B and to read the statement endings in the table. Encourage them to think carefully about each one, and to look for examples from their own lives to support their ideas. If you think some of your students might need more help, you could put them into pairs to compare their ideas.

Put students into small groups. If they worked in pairs previously, divide the pairs so that everyone is now in a new group. Monitor the discussion and note language points and any ideas to discuss with them afterwards.

Ask someone from each group to give a quick summary of any ideas where students agreed or disagreed strongly.

3B Family; Multi-word verbs

▶ Photocopiable activity on p.206

You will need one sheet for each pair of students, cut up.

Divide the class into A and B students, and give each student a part of the sheet. First, ask Student As to work together and Student Bs to work together in pairs.

Explain that there are eight words/phrases which need to be explained later to a new partner, so students have to prepare definitions/explanations. Begin by putting one or two words on the board (not from the game) and ask students in pairs to provide suitable definitions (e.g. friendship, stranger). Get feedback on their ideas and ask the class to agree on which definitions work best (friendship = a relationship with another person who is not from your family; stranger = a person that you don't know/haven't met before).

Ask students to work in pairs to prepare definitions for their words/phrases. Monitor as they work, helping as necessary. It would be better if students did this activity without a dictionary, otherwise they will just copy definitions and not necessarily show any real understanding of the items.

When they have finished, divide the class into A/B pairs. Tell students they have to find out the words/phrases which go in the blank squares. For example, A asks B: What's 1A? Student B then defines twins. Student A writes their answer in square 1A. At this stage, B should not confirm the answer. If A doesn't know, B can put a question mark in the box. Students then play the game themselves, taking it in turn to ask. If a square has nothing in it, they miss a turn. Monitor as they play the game and note any problems for feedback at the end.

Finally, when students have finished, they can compare their worksheets and see where there were any problems.

EXTRA ACTIVITY

Write these topics on the board. Ask students to discuss them in pairs or small groups. You can ask students to choose the statements they find the most interesting.

- Parents and children always grow apart.
- Childhood is the best time of your life.
- The oldest child does better in school than their younger brothers and sisters.
- Raising a boy is more expensive than raising a girl.
- It's very difficult for three generations to live in the same house.
- Would you like to be a twin?

4A Ability

▶ Photocopiable activity on p.207

You will need one sheet for each pair of students, cut up.

Ask students what kind of school reports they had when they were younger. Were the reports for the students, their parents, the other teachers or someone else? What did they look like and how important were they?

Divide the class into pairs, and give each student a sheet, A or B. Explain that the students will read two reports about a pair of twins, Gemma and Leo, and complete the gaps.

Students take turns to read a section (e.g. English or Maths) and try to guess the missing word is. Their partner can tell them whether they completed the gap correctly. If they made a mistake, they should make a note of the correct answer. Monitor and go over any problems at the end.

- 1 talented
- 2 ability

EXTRA ACTIVITY

Give students a few minutes to read both reports again quickly. Ask them to try to grade the students for each subject (A = excellent; B = good; C = average; D = poor). You may find some interesting differences in the way they award grades which might lead to a lively discussion.

Give students time to think about Gemma's and Leo's strengths, and what type of careers might suit them, either straight after school or university. Monitor the group work and at the end, give them feedback on the content of the discussion and any language points which have emerged.

4B -ed/-ing adjectives; Personality adjectives

▶ Photocopiable activity on p.208

You will need one sheet for each pair of students.

Divide the class into pairs and give each pair a sheet. Ask students to look at the pictures in Activity A. Give them a few minutes to decide how each person is feeling, and then ask them to compare their ideas in pairs. Monitor and help as necessary and note any pronunciation problems. Check answers as a class.

Answers

- 1 amused 2 fascinated 3 relaxed 4 depressed

Next, ask students to look at the puzzle in Activity B. Students have to read the clues and complete the puzzle. Monitor and help as necessary. Check answers as a class.

5A Environmental issues

▶ Photocopiable activity on p.209

You will need one sheet for each student.

Give each student a sheet and ask students to match the words to make collocations in Activity A. Students can do this individually and then compare their answers with a partner. Many of these words can be difficult to pronounce e.g. damage, endangered, environmentally, climate, species, so drill the answers with the class to ensure the students' pronunciation is reasonably accurate.

Answers

- 2 i 3 e 4 g 5 b 6 h 7 a 8 d 9 f

Ask students to look at the news headlines in Activity B. Let students work individually, then check answers and clarify any headlines that might be causing problems.

Suggested answers

- Good news: 3 and 5
Bad news: 1, 2, 4 and 6

Ask students to look at Activity C and discuss three of the headlines. Monitor to make sure students are using vocabulary accurately and effectively.

5B The natural world

▶ Photocopiable activity on p.210

You will need one sheet for each pair of students, cut up.

Divide the class into pairs. Give students a copy of their crossword but tell them not to look at their partner's crossword. Explain that the crosswords are the same, but they each have different words filled in, and students can only complete the crosswords by answering clues prepared by the other student.

First, students need to prepare definitions for their own words. Demonstrate by putting a few words which are not in the crossword on the board, e.g. skin and coast, and asking students to define them. For skin, they could say: 'it covers your body'; for coast they could say 'this part of the land is next to the sea'. Monitor and help as necessary.

Rearrange students into A/B pairs, facing each other. Tell them they should not look at each other's crosswords, but must ask for definitions.

Students then compare crosswords to check their answers. Get feedback as a class to clear up any misunderstandings or errors.

6A Compound nouns; Multi-word verbs

▶ Photocopiable activity on p.211

You will need one sheet for each student.

Give each student a sheet. Students look at Activity A and individually complete the questions with one word in each gap. Put students into pairs to check their answers.

Answers

Ask students to look at Activity B and to think of one follow-up question for each item in Activity A. Again, you could put students into pairs to do this. Point out the example and, if necessary, elicit follow-up questions for question 2 as well. (The follow-up question may be something as simple as 'Why's that?'.) Monitor while students prepare their questions in pairs, and help as necessary.

Divide the class into pairs and ask them to do the questionnaire with each other. Monitor and note any important errors or examples of good language to discuss with the class afterwards.

6B Describing food

▶ Photocopiable activity on p.212

You will need one sheet for each student.

Give each student a sheet and ask them to find the eight words in Activity A.

Answers

H	E	A	V	Y	Z
Y	E	D	W	N	E
F	T	D	L	S	G
C	R	E	A	M	Y
G	L	I	G	H	T

VARIATION

Divide the class into pairs, A and B. Give Students A the eight words and ask them to make clues for each one, e.g. It's a taste – chocolate is like this (sweet). Student B listens to the clues and searches for the words.

Suggested answers

- 1 coffee, chlicory (or just types of lettuce), dark chocolate
- 2 most fruit, lettuce, cucumber
- 3 types of fruit, e.g. figs, plums, apricots; chillies, many herbs
- 4 lemon, lime
- 5 potatoes, avocado
- 6 onions, carrots, meat
- 7 eggs, sausages, meat, fish
- 8 lemons, limes, oranges, grapefruit
- 9 curry, chilli con carne (plus many examples from different types of cuisine)
- 10 lemon, vinegar
- 11 creamy puddings, chocolate cake, food with cheese
- 12 soup, pasta
- 13 soup, risotto, different sauces
- 14 fish, seafood

For Activity C, divide the class into pairs. They compare lists and write down any new examples. Then, divide the class so that students are working in new pairs. Students say their examples and their partner must guess what they are talking about.

7A Describing houses and buildings

▶ Photocopiable activity on p.213

You will need one sheet for each group of students, cut up.

Divide the class into small groups. Explain that they are going to play a game where they have to describe words connected with houses and buildings, without using two key words. Demonstrate by writing the phrase block of flats on the board. Then write two key words under it: homes, apartments. Explain the phrase block of flats without mentioning any of the key words e.g. It's a large building where many people live; you can see a lot of them in cities; they are usually very high.

Give each group a set of cards. They place the cards face down in front of them. Each student takes turns to turn over a card without showing it to the other students in their group. They try to explain the main word without saying any of the key words.

The first student to guess the word correctly wins the card. The winner is the student with the most cards.

7B Verbs and prepositions

▶ Photocopiable activity on p.214

You will need one sheet for each pair of students, cut up.

Divide the class into pairs and give each student their part of the sheet. Tell them not to look at each other's sheet at this stage.

Ask the pairs to sit facing each other. Tell them to read out their sentences to each other and say what word they think goes in the gap. The other student says whether the word is correct or not.

Monitor the activity and note any common errors. The winner is the student with the most correct answers.

8A The news

▶ Photocopiable activity on p.215

You will need one sheet for each student.

Give each student a sheet. Ask them to look at Activity A and go through statements 1–12, correcting the ones they think are not true.

Put students into pairs to compare their answers and decide which are true and which are false. At this point, you could go over the answers but don't say why the false definitions are wrong. Put the students back into pairs to amend the wrong definitions. Check answers as a class.

Answers

True: 1, 3, 7, 8, 10

False:

- 2 Breaking news is news that is just appearing now.
- 4 Gossip is a story or report about someone's private life that may or may not be true.
- 5 A blogger is someone who writes about topics on a website.
- 6 If news spreads, a lot of people know about it.
- 9 If you post a comment, you put/leave a comment on a website.
- 11 Current affairs are events of political or social importance that are happening now.
- 12 An editor is the person in charge of a newspaper or magazine.

Divide the class into different pairs for Activity B and ask them to look at the table. If possible, encourage students to use the internet if they have smartphones or access to computers.

Monitor while they do the activity and make sure they write clear notes which describe the news item in reasonable detail, and the source for the news item, i.e. where they found the item. When most pairs have finished, get feedback as a class to find out more about the different news stories. If the students express a particular interest in any of them, they could all find the story and read it.

VARIATION

Students look for examples of the different types of news in their own language if they are in a monolingual environment. They will still have to use English to translate and/or describe the stories later.

8B Shopping; Reporting verbs

▶ Photocopiable activity on p.216

You will need one sheet for each student.

Give each student a sheet and divide the class into pairs.

Ask students to look at Activity A. Tell them to cover their partner's sentences. One student reads out a statement (1–6) and the other student says which word/phrase from the box the statement relates to. Monitor and make note of any problems or mistakes to correct afterwards.

Student B

1 bargain 2 get a refund 3 refuse
4 admit 5 in stock 6 guarantee

Ask students to look at Activity B. Individually, students complete the sentences in any way which seems logical to them. Check they understand the reporting verbs in bold.

Put students into pairs or small groups. They take turns to read out a sentence ending only. Ask them not to do this in order, but to pick a statement at random. Other students respond by saying which number statement (1–8) it was.

9A Cinema and TV

▶ Photocopiable activity on p.217

You will need one sheet for each student.

Give each student a sheet and ask them to look at Activity A. Individually, they identify the kinds of film or TV programme being talked about in each quote.

If students have trouble with this, you could write the answers on the board (in a random order) for students to choose from.

Answers

1 horror 2 soap opera 3 game shows 4 romance
5 chat show 6 documentaries 7 drama 8 animation
9 action 10 science fiction

Next, students look at Activity B and use the answers from Activity A to complete the Find someone who ... sentences. Ask them to move around the class to find someone who matches each statement. Explain that they have to make questions using the sentences. Do an example with the class first, e.g. Have you ever seen a horror film? Tell them to write the names of the people who have had these experiences in the right-hand column.

Encourage students to ask follow-up questions, e.g. Why haven't you ever seen a horror film? Would you like to see one? and to make notes on these answers too, on their sheet.

Finally, ask students to share any funny or interesting information they found out about other people in the class.

9B Word-building

▶ Photocopiable activity on p.218

You will need one sheet for each student.

Give each student a sheet and ask them to look at Activity A. Individually they complete 1–12 with the correct form of the words in brackets. Point out that students will need the noun, adjective or verb form of the word.

Answers

1 artist 2 creative 3 happiness 4 culture
5 honest 6 Beauty 7 musical 8 relax
9 celebrate 10 perform 11 Charity 12 patient

In Activity B, students think about whether they agree or disagree with each statement in Activity A and why. Ask them to make notes on the sheet. Go round and monitor, helping students with any vocabulary they need.

Divide the class into pairs or small groups. Ask them to discuss each of the statements, and to say why they agree or disagree with each one.

Get feedback from the class and find out their opinions on each statement.

10A Sport; Adjectives and prepositions

▶ Photocopiable activity on p.219

You will need one sheet for each student.

Ask students to look at Activity A and complete questions 1–8 individually. They can work with a partner when they have finished, but make sure they ask and answer the questions and don't just look at each other's answers.

Answers

1 the referee 2 You lost 3 two 4 a court
5 You lose a point 6 You win 7 a/the net 8 a/the track

Ask students to look at Activity B. Demonstrate the activity by doing the first question together. Ask for suggestions from the class and if someone mentions afraid, see if you can elicit another possibility, e.g. scared or frightened. Students then work individually.

Answers

1 afraid/scared/frightened 2 interested 3 good/talented
4 worry/think 5 similar 6 proud
7 essential/necessary/important 8 popular

VARIATION

Do a quick check of the prepositions. Tell students to turn over their sheets, then say an adjective and ask students to say the preposition.

Next, ask students to write their own answers to the questions in the You column. Monitor while they do so, and help with any language difficulties. When they have finished, put them with a new partner so they can ask and answer the questions.

Get feedback from the class and discuss any questions which produced a range of answers.

10B Expressions with do, make and take

► Photocopiable activity on p.220

You will need one sheet for each student. Before the class, cut up Activity A into two cards: one for Student A and one for Student B.

For Activity A, put the students into pairs and give each one a list. Ask them to say the words in bold, and their partner must say: do, make or take. Demonstrate this with a few examples at random, then students can test each other on the remaining phrases.

VARIATION

Ask students to do this in small groups. One student reads all the phrases out. Other students compete to say the verb in brackets first and win a point. The winner is the student with the most points.

Ask students to look at Activity B. Students can work individually or in pairs to complete the sentences. Monitor and check answers as a class.

Answers

1 take 2 makes/made 3 takes 4 take 5 takes
6 did 7 do 8 takes 9 make 10 makes

Put students into pairs or small groups to discuss the statements. Ask them to say whether they would be happy or unhappy in the situations, or if anything similar has ever happened to them. Monitor and, at the end, ask for any interesting stories to be told to the rest of the class.

WORDPOWER

Unit 1 yourself

► Photocopiable activity on p.221

You will need one sheet for each pair of students, cut up.

Put students into pairs. Students take it in turns to ask each other the questions on their sheet. Explain that they need to elicit a response which includes the expression given in brackets. Tell students that they should not read out the expression to their partners.

Suggested answers

Student A

- 1 Please make yourself at home.
- 2 You should do it yourself.
- 3 Why don't you teach yourself?
- 4 Tell yourself you can do it!
- 5 I hope you enjoy yourself.

Student B

- 1 I hope you didn't hurt yourself.
- 2 Just be yourself and everything will be OK.
- 3 Help yourself to anything you want.
- 4 Make sure you look after yourself.
- 5 Please don't talk to yourself.

EXTRA ACTIVITY

Students can work together to think of other situations which would elicit the expressions. Ask the class to give two situations for each expression.

Unit 2 look

► Photocopiable activity on p.222

You will need one sheet for each pair or group of students, cut up into two sets of cards (the topic cards in bold and the look cards).

Divide the class into pairs or small groups. Ask them to shuffle each set of cards and to put them face down on the table. Students take it in turns to pick up one topic card and one verb card. If they can make a sentence (or sentences) using the phrase with look and the topic, they keep that pair of cards. If they can't, both cards are put back into the two piles. Point out that many topic cards can be used with different look cards. Students can use their imagination as long as they produce correct language.

Demonstrate by showing students two cards, e.g. my keys and look for. Say I've lost my keys – I've looked for them everywhere, but I can't find them! Explain that students should produce detailed sentences. If the other student/students don't think a sentence is detailed enough, they can ask Where? Why? etc. to get more detail.

The winner is the student with the most cards.

EXTRA ACTIVITY

Students pick up the look cards one by one and think of a new sentence using each phrase.

Unit 3 have

► Photocopiable activity on p.223

You will need one sheet for every group of four students, cut up.

Give each student an A, B, C or D questionnaire and tell them to find six students in the class for the items on their sheet. Write an example on the board: Find someone who has a large family. Tell students they need to ask questions to find out the information and elicit: Do you have a large family? Ask the question to different students until a student gives you a positive answer. Write the student's name on the board and ask a follow-up question: How many brothers and sisters do you have? Also note the student's answer to this question on the board.

Ask students to mingle and ask questions for each item on their sheet. They should write down names and any extra details. Encourage them to ask follow-up questions and make notes on the answers.

Allow enough time for the majority of students to complete their questionnaires as far as possible. Monitor and help as necessary.

Put students into groups of four (A, B, C and D) to report their findings to each other, e.g. Kris has had a go at riding a horse. He visited his uncle's farm last year and ...

Unit 4 so and such

► Photocopiable activity on p.224

You will need one sheet for each group of students, cut up.

Divide the class into groups of three or four students and give each group a set of cards. Explain that students are going to turn over a card each and talk about a topic, using the phrase with so or such on the card. If they can talk for at least 30 seconds, they can keep the card. If they can't say anything or can't talk for that long, then another student has a turn.

Demonstrate by writing the following phrase on the board: ... and so I never went back. Talk about an experience you had which uses this prompt, e.g. I once went into a café because I wanted a coffee. I was waiting at the table for about 10 minutes, but the waiter never came near me! After waving to him and even calling him, he ignored me. I was really angry, so I never went back.

The winner is the student with the most cards.

Unit 5 problem

► Photocopiable activity on p.225

You will need one sheet for each pair of students, cut in half.

Divide the class into pairs and give each student a sheet. Explain that students are going to make notes on their ideas about certain problems and how to solve them. They are then going to discuss their ideas.

Give students 5–10 minutes to read through the four questions on their sheet and make notes individually in the 'My ideas' column. Go round and help with any vocabulary students might need and give them extra ideas if necessary.

Ask students to discuss the four questions on their sheet, and talk about their ideas. Their partner can then say if they agree with the ideas or not, and add their own. Students write any ideas their partner has in the 'My partner's ideas' column.

EXTRA ACTIVITY

Ask pairs to work with another pair in groups of four. Together, they discuss the eight questions, and say if they agree or disagree. Get feedback by asking one or two groups to summarise their discussion for the whole class to hear.

Unit 6 go

► Photocopiable activity on p.226

You will need one sheet for each group of students, cut up.

Divide the class into small groups of three or four. Explain that they are going to discuss topics which feature the word go.

Demonstrate by writing the following topic on the board: a holiday that went far too quickly. Elicit the meaning of went (pass or disappear). Explain that students will take it in turns to talk about a topic like this for at least 30 seconds.

Students take turns to pick up a card and read out the topic. The first student in the group to put up their hand must speak about the topic for 30 seconds, after which, they can win the card. If they can't speak for 30 seconds continuously, or hesitate too long at the beginning, then another student has a chance to speak. If no one in the group is able to say anything, the card is put back on the table and play continues with another card.

The winner is the student with the most cards.

Unit 7 over

► Photocopiable activity on p.227

You will need enough sheets cut up to make one set of dominoes for each group.

Explain to students that they are going to play a game of dominoes with the word over. Divide the class into groups of four and give a set of dominoes to each group. Each student in the group takes an equal number of dominoes.

One student begins by placing a domino on the table in front of the group. Then, students take turns to play by placing down a domino which can complete a sentence. The sentences must make logical sense. Every time a sentence is placed, e.g. I haven't slept a lot over the last few days, the student says whether this is true for him/her or not and why.

The game continues until all the students have placed their dominoes correctly.

Unit 8 in/on + noun

► Photocopiable activity on p.228

You will need one sheet for each pair of students.

Divide the class into pairs and give each pair a sheet. They read the prompts and think about what could be listed for each sentence. Demonstrate this by doing the first one as a class e.g. What can you hang on a wall? Elicit some possible ideas, e.g. a painting, a poster ...

Students write one item in each shape. Ask students not to write their items in order. Monitor and help as necessary.

When students have finished, put pairs together to make groups of four. Ask them to swap sheets and try to guess which shape/answer goes with which prompt.

Students then work together to check their answers. They should discuss whether they agree with the other pair's ideas or not.

Unit 9 see, look at, watch, hear, listen to

► Photocopiable activity on p.229

You will need enough sheets cut up to give at least one question card to each student. In larger classes, more than one student may have the same question.

Explain that students must move around the class and ask their classmates questions. Demonstrate by writing Do you like listening to the radio? on the board. Ask one or more students this question, then elicit possible follow-up questions, e.g. What do you usually listen to? Did you hear ... yesterday?, etc.

Give students one question each. If necessary, explain the meaning of optician (a specialist doctor who checks people's eyes). Students move around the classroom asking as many other students their question. They should then ask a follow-up question and make notes of the response in a notebook.

As a class, or in groups, students talk about the funniest or most interesting responses they heard.

VARIATION

In larger classes (or where mingling is difficult), students could work in pairs or small groups, taking turns to ask and answer the questions.

Unit 10 Easily confused words

► Photocopiable activity on p.230

You will need one sheet for each student.

Give each student a sheet. Explain that they are going to interview each other using the questions on the sheet, but first, they need to underline the correct word in each sentence. If necessary, explain the meaning of raise your voice (to speak louder, or even shout).

Answers

- 1 missed 2 lost 3 rise 4 raise 5 currently
6 actually 7 stole 8 robbing 9 bring 10 taken
11 lent 12 borrow

Students work individually to make notes on their answers to each question in the My answers column.

When students have done this, ask them to move around the class and ask each question to different students. If necessary, students can ask follow-up questions to find out extra details. They make notes on the answers they get in the My partners' answers column. Make sure they write the students' names.

Finally, divide the class into pairs or small groups. Together, they discuss the answers they collected. Ask the class for any particularly interesting or funny answers they heard.

VARIATION

If it isn't possible for students to move around the class, students can work sitting in groups.

PRONUNCIATION

Welcome! Phonemic symbols

► Photocopiable activity on p.231

You will need one sheet for each student.

The aim of this sheet is to revise phonemic script. Revise the symbols by writing some simple transcriptions on the board for students to say the word, e.g. /bʊk/ (book), /haʊs/ (house), /gəʊ/ (go).

Ask students to look at the phonemic symbols on p.174 of the Student's Book and find which symbols are the same as alphabet letters, e.g. /w/ and /e/, and which are different, e.g. /θ/ and /æ/.

For Activity A, students look at the sounds which are different and underline the part of the word in the table which contains that sound. Drill the target sounds and then drill the words to help students link the sound with the phonemic symbol.

Answers

/u:/ who /ə/ teacher /ɪə/ near /eɪ/ late /ɜ:/ shirt
/ɔ:/ walk /ʊə/ tour /ɔɪ/ boy /əʊ/ coat /ɪ/ chip /æ/ man
/ʌ/ but /ʊ/ put /ɑ:/ part /ɒ/ got /eə/ hair /aɪ/ fine
/aʊ/ now /tʃ/ chair /dʒ/ job /θ/ think /ð/ the /ʃ/ shoe
/z/ television /j/ yes /ŋ/ sing

For Activity B, demonstrate the activity by eliciting the first sound of an easy word (glasses = /g/) and a more difficult word (enough = /ɪ/). Students then find each of these sounds followed by the next sounds of the words in the wordsearch.

Divide the class into pairs. Ask students to look at the wordlist and find the transcriptions in the wordsearch. Remind students that the words can go across or down. Check answers as a class.

VARIATION

You can make it more difficult for students who know the phonemic script quite well by getting them to cover up the ten words in the wordlist.

EXTRA ACTIVITY

Give an example of a homophone (a word that is pronounced the same as another word, but has a different meaning or spelling, or both), e.g. /aɪ/ = eye and I.

Write these homophones on the board for the students to find the words: /raɪt/ (right, write), /nəʊ/ (no, know), /weɪt/ (wait, weight), /peə/ (pair, pear), /rəʊd/ (road, rode).

1A Sound and spelling: /ɪ/ and /i:/

▶ Photocopiable activity on p.232

You will need one sheet for each pair of students, cut up.

Divide the class into pairs and give each pair a set of cards. Ask them to put the cards face down and spread out on the table in front of them.

Explain that students are going to take turns picking up two cards each. Each card has a word on it with a vowel sound underlined. If the two vowel sounds are the same, then students keep both cards.

Demonstrate the game by picking up two cards and saying the words on each. Model the sounds and say whether the vowel sounds are the same.

Students play the game. If the vowel sounds are not the same, they must put the cards randomly face down back on the table.

The winner is the student with the most cards.

1B Sentence stress: gradable and extreme adjectives

▶ Photocopiable activity on p.233

You will need one sheet for each student.

Ask students how long they have lived in the town/city where they live now, and how much they like it. Then, write the following sentences on the board:

It's a very nice place. It's a fantastic place.

Ask students to compare the stress on the adjectives in the two sentences. Elicit that fantastic is stressed more because it is an extreme adjective.

Give each student a sheet and ask them to underline all the extreme adjectives. Check their answers and drill the pronunciation of these adjectives.

Answers

- delicious, disgusting
- gorgeous, horrible, freezing, boiling
- fantastic, awful, miserable
- enormous, tiny
- delighted, terrible
- fantastic, filthy
- brilliant, awful
- wonderful, impossible, furious

Divide the class into pairs. Students do the quiz in pairs by interviewing each other. They take turns to ask the questions and read the three options. The other student listens and says their answer without looking at the sheet. They should say the full answer rather than just a, b or c, making sure they stress the extreme adjectives more.

Monitor and make sure students are stressing the extreme adjectives more. Next, put pairs with another pair to form groups of four. Students check and compare their answers. Get feedback by finding out who loves where they live the most.

VARIATION

Divide the class into pairs, A and B. Tell Student B to cover questions 1–4 and Student A asks Student B those questions. The pairs then swap roles. Student A covers questions 5–8 and Student B asks Student A those questions.

EXTRA ACTIVITY

The quiz is a light-hearted one, but you could follow it up with a serious discussion of whether the place they live in now is changing for the better or for the worse. You could also ask students what they would like to change about their town/city, and how they would do this.

2B Sentence stress: main verb / auxiliary verb

▶ Photocopiable activity on p.234

You will need one sheet for each pair of students, cut in half.

Demonstrate the game by saying I feel sad and ask the students to give possible reasons for this using the present perfect simple and continuous, e.g. You've lost something, You've been having an argument with your friend. Elicit which words are stressed when we use the present perfect and which are not.

Divide the class into pairs and give each student a list of situations and reasons. Remind them that in positive present perfect statements, we usually stress the main verb and just, if it appears. We often contract has, have and not. In the present perfect continuous, we use the weak form of been. In the present perfect negative, we stress the negative form.

Ask them to underline all the stressed syllables in the verbs and just in the Reasons sentences.

Answers

Student A

He's just downloaded a new app.
You haven't been browsing the internet all day.
You've been working too hard.
You haven't been using it.
They've been standing there for ages.
She's just had some bad news.
You've been saving up money.
You've probably downloaded a virus.

Student B

He hasn't been feeling too well.
She's / He's just seen your credit card bill.
You've forgotten your password.
They haven't found the problem yet.
She's been sitting in a traffic jam.
The post office has lost them.
She hasn't been connected to the internet.
Someone has dropped it.

Student A starts by reading out the first situation on their card. Student B listens and chooses an appropriate reason from their card. If that reason matches the reason given on the Student A card, Student B gets a point. Student A continues with the other seven situations. Then it is Student B's turn to read out the situations and Student A's turn to respond with the appropriate reason. Go round and monitor, making sure they are putting the stress in the correct places and help as necessary.

The winner is the student with the most points.

2C Sentence stress

▶ Photocopiable activity on p.235

You will need one sheet for each group of three students, cut out into a set of Group cards and a set of Student cards.

Remind students of the concept of main stress by writing the following sentence on the board: Sam came second in the maths test. Say the sentence in several ways, changing the stressed word each time and asking the students to explain how the stress changes the meaning:

Sam came second in the maths test. (The word 'second' becomes important. He didn't come first or third.)

Sam came second in the maths test. (The word 'Sam' becomes important. It was Sam who came second, not someone else.)

Sam came second in the maths test. (The word 'maths' becomes important. It was the maths test, not another test.)

Divide students into groups of three and give each group a set of Group cards, and give each student a Student card. Explain that there are 12 rounds. In each round, one student picks up a Group card and reads the sentence, putting the main stress on the underlined word. The student with the appropriate explanation reads their sentence.

Monitor and help as necessary.

Answers

10 A 11 B 12 C

NO-CUT VARIATION

You will need one sheet for each student or pair of students. Ask them to work individually or together to match the sentences in the 'Group cards' section with the correct responses in the 'Student cards' section.

3A Linking sounds

▶ Photocopiable activity on p.236

You will need one sheet for each pair of students, cut in half.

Remind students that when we say a group of words, if one word ends in a consonant sound and the next word begins with a vowel sound, we usually link them together.

Divide the class into pairs and give each student their part of the sheet. Ask them to look at the picture. Pre-teach genie, wish and desert island and ask: What do genies usually do in stories? Ask students to tell you about any stories or films they know about desert islands.

Ask students to look at their stories individually. Point out that they do not yet have the complete story, but ask them to underline the words which will be linked together when they are read out loud. The first is done as an example. If necessary, elicit another example – one from a Student A and one from a Student B.

The students dictate their text to each other until they both have a complete text. Get Student A to begin dictating and Student B to write in the gap, then Student B dictates the rest of the sentence for Student A to write down. If necessary, demonstrate in front of the whole class with a stronger student, you being Student A.

Monitor that they are doing the task correctly, reading out full phrases rather than spelling out each word and linking the words correctly. Students then check their answers with each other.

Read out the whole story aloud for the students to listen and check. Then, students practise reading the whole story aloud, concentrating on linking.

Finally, ask students what they think the last line of the story could be.

Answers

Three men went on a sea journey. Their boat sank in a storm and they swam to a desert island. They didn't find anyone else and they stayed there for months with no chance of getting away. One afternoon, the three men found a bottle on the beach. They opened it and out came a genie. The genie said, 'Thank you for getting me out of the bottle. You have three wishes, one each.' The first man thought and said, 'I miss my family, and I want to go home.' The man immediately disappeared. The second man said, 'I want to eat good food again so take me home.' The man immediately disappeared. The third man looked around and said, 'I feel lonely here without my two friends. Bring them back!'

3C Stress in word groups

► Photocopiable activity on p.237

You will need one sheet for each pair of students. You will also need a dice for each pair.

Divide the class into pairs and give each pair a sheet and a dice.

Explain that students are going to roll their dice and make a story with the phrases on the sheet, e.g. Student A rolls the dice then starts the story with the corresponding number on box A (number 3 on dice = Yesterday afternoon). Student B then rolls the dice, continuing the story with the corresponding number on box B (number 6 on the dice = in this city).

The students take it in turns to continue the story until they have used all of the cards. You could demonstrate making a story like this while the rest of the class watches. Point out that there should be short pauses between the word groups, Yesterday afternoon || in this city. Remind students that each word group has one word which is stressed more than the others. Let the pairs do the activity themselves. Monitor and help as necessary and make sure they are pausing between, not in the middle of, the phrases, and putting stress on the word with the most importance. When they have reached the last box, students can continue the story, finishing it in any way they like.

Put students with another pair to make a group of four. They take turns to say their full stories, remembering to pause between word groups.

EXTRA ACTIVITY

When they have finished, ask students to turn over the cards and retell their stories from memory. They can help each other if any student can't remember.

4A Stress in modal verbs

► Photocopiable activity on p.238

You will need one sheet for each group of students. You will also need a dice and counters for each group.

Divide the class into groups of three or four students. Give each group a dice and make sure each student has something they can use as a counter (e.g. a coin).

Remind students that we don't usually stress auxiliaries and modal verbs. However, we do often stress main verbs, managed and able. Demonstrate by writing these sentences on the board and drilling them:

I managed to get up early this morning.

I can play a musical instrument.

One day, we'll be able to travel in time.

Ask students to take it in turns to roll the dice, go round the board and say the statements they land on. They should read out the statement, using the correct stress, and say whether they agree with it or not, e.g.

I managed to get up early this morning. No, I didn't. I got up very late.

Monitor and help as necessary. Drill some of the statements and see what interesting answers the students gave as feedback.

4B Sound and spelling: final -ed in adjectives

► Photocopiable activity on p.239

You will need one sheet for each pair of students, cut in half.

Divide students into pairs and give each student a sheet. Explain that they need to complete the puzzle by asking their partner for information about their missing words, e.g. Student A could ask What is number 2? Student B should respond by explaining the word depressed, without saying the word.

When students have finished, drill all the adjectives, making sure that students can pronounce the final -ed correctly.

Answers

- | | | |
|--------------------|--------------------|---------------------|
| 1 satisfied /d/ | 2 depressed /t/ | 3 relaxed /t/ |
| 4 amused /d/ | 5 amazed /d/ | 6 disappointed /id/ |
| 7 embarrassed /t/ | 8 exhausted /id/ | 9 shocked /t/ |
| 10 delighted /id/ | 11 confused /d/ | 12 excited /id/ |
| 13 interested /id/ | 14 fascinated /id/ | 15 crowded /id/ |
| 16 terrified /d/ | | |

VARIATION

Before you give students the sheets, give them two minutes to write down as many adjectives ending with -ed as they can, e.g. bored, surprised. Elicit the three pronunciations of -ed endings (/d/, /t/ and /id/) and get the students to put the adjectives they found in the three categories.

5A Sound and spelling: a

► Photocopiable activity on p.240

You will need one sheet for each group of three students, cut into three.

Write the following sentence on the board: A long time ago, we played that game on the grass. Underline all the a letters and ask students to say how each one is pronounced.

a = /ə/

ago = /ə/

played = /eɪ/

that = /æ/

game = /eɪ/

grass = /ɑː/

Divide the class into groups of three and give each student a card. Explain that there are 12 rounds in this activity. In each round, each student says their word and they all have to find out what the odd word out is. The odd word has a different sound for the letter a. Demonstrate with word 1: plant and glass both have an /ɑː/ sound. So, paper is the odd one out, because it has an /eɪ/ sound.

When students have finished, drill all the words.

EXTRA ACTIVITY

Ask students to make their own Student A/B/C cards for other groups to play.

5B Consonant clusters

▶ Photocopiable activity on p.241

You will need one sheet for each pair of students.

Divide the class into pairs and give each pair a sheet.

Ask students if they can see anything in common in the pronunciation of the words on the sheet (they all have 'consonant clusters', i.e. combinations of two consonants or more said together). Write down some of the words on the board and ask for the pronunciation to demonstrate the consonant clusters.

Explain that students are going to play a game where they have to get lines of four adjacent words. The lines can be horizontal, vertical or diagonal. Their partner also has to try to get lines of four words. They take it in turns to say the word and write A or B there. The person with the most lines, horizontally, vertically or diagonally, is the winner.

Monitor and help as necessary. Get feedback by drilling some of the words.

VARIATION

Ask students to play the game but say the word in a sentence to 'win' the square, e.g. I love mushroom soup.

6A Word stress: compound nouns

▶ Photocopiable activity on p.242

You will need one sheet for each pair of students, cut up to make a set of dominoes.

Explain to students that they are going to play Dominoes, making compound nouns.

First, write the following compound nouns on the board and ask students to say them:

- swimming pool
- newspaper
- windsurfing

Elicit which syllable is stressed in each compound noun (the first).

Divide the class into pairs and give each pair a set of dominoes. Ask students to each take half the dominoes, and to look through them.

One student begins and puts a domino down on the table. The other student must put a domino next to it so that the two words next to each other make a compound noun.

Students should also say the compound, stressing the first syllable. If the student can't find a word, puts one down that makes an incorrect compound noun or stresses the noun wrongly, the other player has another go.

It is sometimes possible for the students to make other combinations, e.g. wind machine. They should check with you about these first. Note that some compounds are spelled as separate words, e.g. cash machine and others are written as one word, e.g. blackbird. This is a pronunciation activity so tell the students not to worry about this.

The students play until they have used all their cards. Get feedback from the class and drill all the compounds on the sheet.

6B Sound and spelling: /ʃ/ and /tʃ/

▶ Photocopiable activity on p.243

You will need one sheet for each pair of students, cut up.

Remind students of the difference between the sounds /ʃ/ and /tʃ/. Write the following words on the board: fish and chips. Model the words and drill them with the class.

Explain that students are going to play a game where they turn over two cards. If both cards contain the same sound (/ʃ/ or /tʃ/), then they can keep the cards. If the cards do not contain a matching pair of these sounds, the cards must go back in the pile.

Divide the class into pairs and give each pair a set of cards. Students place them face down on the table in front of them. They then take turns to turn over a pair of cards, saying the words. Go round and monitor to answer any questions that students have.

The winner is the student with the most pairs of cards.

NO-CUT VARIATION

You will need one sheet for each student or pair of students. Ask them to circle all the words with the /ʃ/ sound and underline all the words with the /tʃ/ sound. Check answers as a class. The winner is the student or pair with the most correct answers. Drill the words as a class to check.

7A Modal verbs: sounding the final t or d

▶ Photocopiable activity on p.244

You will need one sheet for each pair of students, cut in half.

Write these sentences on the board and underline the t or d sounds which are not clearly pronounced:

It must look nice.

That could be mine.

She can't enjoy the work much.

Remind students that the final /t/ or /d/ of words like must, might, could or can't is not usually pronounced when followed by a word beginning with a consonant sound.

Divide the class into pairs and give each student a sheet.

Student A begins by reading out sentences 1–6. Student B replies by choosing one of the responses in their list. Then Student B does the same. Monitor and help as necessary, making sure that students are pronouncing the modal verbs correctly, and not pronouncing the final t or d when it is followed by a consonant sound.

Put the students into different pairs. They repeat the activity, choosing different responses.

7C Sounding polite

► Photocopiable activity on p.245

You will need one sheet for each student.

Read these sentences to students, speaking with a flat falling intonation:

- What's the time?
- Are you ready?

Repeat the sentences, but with appropriate intonation. Ask students whether they were more polite the first or second time (the second). Explain that the intonation is often as important as the grammar and vocabulary when you want to sound polite.

Give each student a sheet. Demonstrate the flowchart activity with one of the stronger students, taking it in turns to start with Hello, do you speak English? Point out that the conversation is between a tourist and a local person in a busy town. With weaker classes, go all the way through the flowchart; with stronger classes, just demonstrate a few turns. There are different directions for the conversation to go, so the student taking part in the demonstration can choose which arrow to follow and which response to give.

Divide the class into pairs to have a complete conversation. Monitor and help as necessary. Make sure that they use polite intonation.

The students should take it in turns to start the conversation and go through different directions in the flowchart. They can then repeat the activity with a new partner.

Get feedback from the class and drill all the question forms using polite intonation.

EXTRA ACTIVITY

Ask students to think of a different situation where people need to be polite to each other, e.g. asking for help in a shop. They then practise and act out a conversation between two people, using polite intonation.

8A Sound and spelling: /g/ and /k/

► Photocopiable activity on p.246

You will need one sheet for each student.

Drill these pairs with the students. Write the words on the board and point out or elicit that the only difference in the pronunciation of the word is one sound: /g/ or /k/goat – coat

bag – back

gate – Kate

gold – cold

glass – class

glue – clue

Divide the class into pairs and give each student a sheet. Ask students to look at the grid in Activity A and explain that it is a maze. Students need to get from Square one to Finish using words which have a /k/ sound only. They can move horizontally, vertically or diagonally.

Demonstrate by saying, After 'square one' would the next word be 'current' or 'clue' or 'exist'? (both current and clue are possible next moves).

Monitor and help as necessary as students work their way through the maze in pairs. Encourage them to say the words as they come across them.

Answers

SQUARE ONE	clue	packet	back	ghost
current	exist	stomach	guess	degree
anger	comments	green	girlfriend	blogger organise	class	frog	ankle	glass
clean	glue	good	chicken	dogs
clue	dug	quiet	again	queen
monkey	circus	bigger	ignore	ache
colour	cost	gold	duck	goat
hockey	gossip	grass	called	exhausted
bag	cold	angle	pick	FINISH

Ask students to look at Activity B and make their own maze in the second blank grid. They can do this individually or in pairs. This time, however, students should create a maze where following the /g/ sound will take them through to FINISH. To help them, say they can start the maze with go.

When they have finished, ask them to give their mazes to another student (or another pair of students) to solve.

8B Sound and spelling: /s/ and /z/

► Photocopiable activity on p.247

You will need one sheet for each student.

Say some words with /s/ and /z/ sounds, e.g. promise and refuse. Ask students to think of more examples with these sounds.

Divide the class into pairs and give each student a sheet. Ask students to look at Activity A and underline the words with a /s/ sound. Check and drill all the words.

Answers

peace – peas easy – essav
 lose – loose plays – place false – falls pens – pence
 ice – eyes

Ask students to look at Activity B. The students then put the words from Activity A into the two grids. The students might have played Battleships in their own language so you just need to tell them what the game is. They must have the same order of words in both grids or the Battleships game won't work.

Students then have five minutes to choose eight words from the vocabulary or reading exercises in Unit 8, up to a maximum of six letters, and write them in their own grid.

They then take it in turns to find each other's words, using the /s/ and /z/ coordinates and marking the words their partner has said or blank squares on their second grid. The game finishes after 15 minutes or when one student finds all their partner's words.

Demonstrate the game with a stronger student and then let the students play in pairs. Monitor and help as necessary. Make sure they are pronouncing the words correctly.

9A Auxiliary verbs in passive sentences

▶ Photocopiable activity on p.248

You will need one sheet for each pair of students, cut in half.

Ask two students to go outside the room. Tell them to have a good look around the classroom before they go. Then rearrange things in the room, e.g. open the window and put a bag on a desk. Bring the students back into the room and ask them to say what has been changed. Make sure the students use the passive, e.g. The window has been opened, a bag has been put on a desk. Write the sentences on the board. Get students to underline the auxiliary verbs (has, been). Tell students that these auxiliary verbs are not usually stressed in passive sentences. Drill the sentences.

Divide the class into pairs and give each student a sheet, A or B. Ask them not to show the pictures to each other. Tell students that their pictures are similar but Picture A was in the morning and Picture B was in the evening. Things have changed in the room and there are eight differences. Explain that the students need to talk about and compare their pictures to find the differences. They should not look at each other's pictures but describe them.

When students have finished speaking, elicit the eight differences and agree on the correct sentences. Ask students to use the present perfect. The students then underline the auxiliaries in each of the sentences, e.g. The window has been closed.

Drill the sentences, making sure the auxiliaries are not stressed.

Answers

- 1 The window has been closed.
- 2 Some books have been put back.
- 3 The milk has been drunk.
- 4 The biscuits have been eaten.
- 5 The bed has been made.
- 6 The computer has been turned off.
- 7 The chair has been moved.
- 8 The desk has been tidied.

VARIATION

Elicit the verbs students will need for their sentences or write them on the board: close, put back, drink, eat, make, turn on / off, move, tidy.

9B Relative clauses: pausing

▶ Photocopiable activity on p.249

You will need one sheet for each group of 10 students, cut up into one illustration and 10 sentence cards.

Draw this seat plan of a train carriage on the board:

1	6

Explain the situation. A businessman, Lewis James, was travelling from London to Bucharest by train in seat 3 of carriage T. During the journey, someone stole his gold ring. The police think it must have been one of the other five people in his carriage – John Stoker, Maria Stoker, David Sewell, Lucy Wiest and Arthur Woods (write these names on the board, if you like). The police want to know who stole Lewis James's ring. If necessary, pre-teach alibi.

Write these sentences on the board:

John, who is a lawyer, was in seat number one.

The person who was in seat number 4 is a doctor.

Ask how the relative clauses are pronounced here: there is a pause before and after the relative clause in the first sentence, but no pause in the second. Drill the sentences.

Ask students where John is (seat 1) and where the doctor is (seat 4) and tell them to write John and doctor in the correct part of the table.

Arrange the students into groups of 10. Give each student in the group a different sentence. The group should underline all the relative clauses in their sentences and practise reading them as preparation for the next stage.

Tell students that they must share information to find out about the people in the carriage. The students stand up, go around the group reading out their sentences to each other and filling in their individual tables. Set a time limit of 15 minutes so that the activity does not go on too long. Monitor and help as necessary, making sure that students read, not show, their sentences, pausing correctly.

Get feedback from the class to find out who they think stole the ring. Then drill some of the sentences with the whole class.

Answers

Name	John Stoker	Maria Stoker	David Sewell	Lucy Wiest	Arthur Woods
Seat number	1	2	4	5	6
Destination	Frankfurt	Frankfurt	Budapest	Vienna	Bucharest
Occupation	lawyer	teacher	doctor	unemployed	artist
Alibi	in the restaurant carriage	in the restaurant carriage	sleeping in seat	walking down the corridor	can't remember
Other information	jealous	John saw her talking to Lewis	next to window	expensive jewellery in her case	fell in love with Lucy

Arthur stole the ring because he fell in love with Lucy and he found out she liked jewellery. He thought the ring would be a nice present for her.

10A Sentence stress: would

► Photocopiable activity on p.250

You will need one sheet for each pair of students, cut in half.

Write the following question on the board: Would you like to meet a famous sportsperson? Ask one or two students to say the question. Remind them that would is not stressed in this question, but the main verb meet is. Encourage various students to give responses (Yes, I would or No, I wouldn't). Point out that would is stressed in short positive or negative answers.

Divide the class into pairs and give each student a sheet. Ask them to look at their questions and choose three they would like to ask their partner. Then, students dictate their questions and their partner writes them down.

Next, students take turns to discuss the questions they wrote down. Go round and monitor students are pronouncing would appropriately.

Finally, ask each pair to work with another pair in a group of four. They then take turns to discuss any further questions they have chosen.

10B Sentence stress: would and have

► Photocopiable activity on p.251

You will need one sheet for each pair of students, cut up.

Write these third conditional sentences on the board. Underline would and the auxiliary verbs have and had and model them.

– If it had snowed this morning, I would have felt really excited.

– The traffic would have been terrible if it had snowed this morning.

Elicit that would and positive auxiliaries are not usually stressed in third conditional sentences and that there is a pause between the two clauses.

Ask which sentence on the board has a hypothetical negative outcome (The traffic would have been terrible if it had snowed this morning) and which one a hypothetical positive outcome (If it had snowed this morning, I would have felt really excited).

Divide the class into pairs and give each pair a set of Situation and Outcome cards. One student takes an Outcome card and says what it is (positive or negative). The other student takes a Situation card and reads out the appropriate sentence, with either a positive or negative outcome.

Demonstrate with a situation: positive outcome = If Tom had found out, he would have been delighted.

Monitor and help as necessary. Get feedback from the class and drill all the sentences on the situation cards.

EXTRA ACTIVITY

Students take a Situation card and continue the story with third conditional sentences, making sure they pronounce the auxiliaries as weak forms, e.g.

If I hadn't lost my job, I wouldn't have started my own business.

If I hadn't started my own business, I wouldn't have become a millionaire.

If I hadn't become a millionaire, I wouldn't have bought a private plane.

etc.

Corpus

Development of this publication has made use of the Cambridge English Corpus (CEC). The CEC is a computer database of contemporary spoken and written English, which currently stands at over one billion words. It includes British English, American English and other varieties of English. It also includes the Cambridge Learner Corpus, developed in collaboration with the University of Cambridge ESOL Examinations. Cambridge University Press has built up the CEC to provide evidence about language use that helps us to produce better language teaching materials.

English Profile

This product is informed by English Vocabulary Profile, built as part of English Profile, a collaborative programme designed to enhance the learning, teaching and assessment of English worldwide. Its main funding partners are Cambridge University Press and Cambridge English Language Assessment and its aim is to create a 'profile' for English linked to the Common European Framework of Reference for Languages (CEFR). English Profile outcomes, such as the English Vocabulary Profile, will provide detailed information about the language that learners can be expected to demonstrate at each CEFR level, offering a clear benchmark for learners' proficiency. For more information, please visit www.englishprofile.org.
